Another Big Storm Forecast

The first major storm of the winter eased last night after dropping more than six inches of rain in some areas of Marin and more than eight inches in Southern Sonoma.

The moments of sunshine yesterday and today were to end tonight when another storm moves in from Alaska. A weather bureau spokesman said the new storm may be "just as moist as the last one."

The California Highway Patrol blamed the weather for a series of traffic accidents which injured 13 persons.

ROAD CLOSED

North San Pedro Road was closed last Saturday morning in San Rafael's Peacock Gap area after pounding bay waters flooded the road and pushed debris over the sea wall.

Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Ross, flooded late Friday, remained closed throughout much of Saturday morning until mud could be cleared from the road surface.

All roads in the county were open this morning, as county road crews continued the job of clearing debris from catch basins to prevent water backup.

E. H. (Al) Lindelli, assistant road superintendent, said three slides disrupted traffic Friday night and Saturday on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard between Inverness Park and Inverness, but none was serious enough to block the road. The slides were cleared on Saturday.

TREE TOPPLES

A tree toppled on Pine Hill Road in Tamalpais Valley Friday, but this was cleared immediately.

Major flooding occurred in Granton Park in Kentfield and around the Nave Shopping Center in Novato Friday sight, was not repeated Saturday and, Lindelli said, all county roads remained open.

There was a 90 per cent chance of rain through tomorrow, according to the weather bureau, which predicted rains would be heavy at times.

Showers yesterday deposited .17 of an inch of rain in the Woodacre area in the 24 hour period ending at 8 a.m. today, bringing the storm total since Friday to 6.81 inches.

Novato had .11 of an inch at 8 a.m. and a storm total of 5.57 inches.

SOUTHERN MARIN

In Southern Marin, 24-hour and storm totals were: Mill Valley, .14 and 4.88; Sausalito, .48 and 3.81; Bolinas, .19, and 4.76; Tamalpai Valley, .20 and 4.40; Belvedere, .23 and 3.37 and Tiburon, .09 and 2.97.

San Rafael had .18 of an inch in the 24 hours ending at noon today and a total since Friday of 4.34 inches.

Some minor flooding was reported in Southern Sonoma where storm drains overflowed at intersections, but there was no report of storm damage. Petaluma had .56 of an inch of rain in the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today, which brought the total since Friday to 8.28 inches.

Rainy weather was blamed for most of a rash of traffic accidents which injured 13 people in Marin and Southern Sonoma Counties over the weekend, California Highway Patrol reported.

One person was hospitalized and another injured in a two-car accident at 7:35 p.m. Friday on

Nation's Population Jumps 25 Million

California Tops States With Almost 20 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Census Bureau reported to President Nixon today the 1970 population of the United States was 204,765,770 and that the congressional delegations of 14 states must be changed to reflect the increase of 25,442,959 Americans in the last decade.

Presentation of the final and official figures from the 10-year census will give five states more seats in the House of Representatives. Nine states will lose seats in the reshuffling of the 435-member House.

California, with a population of 19,953,134, compared to 15,717,204 in 1960, moved ahead of New York and officially became the nation's largest state. New York gained 8.4 per cent from 16,782,304 to 18,190,740.

California gains five seats for a total delegation of 43. Florida gains three seats, and Arizona, Colorado and Texas gain one seat each.

States losing seats in the complicated mathematical process of reapportionment will be New York and Pennsylvania, two each, and Alabama, Iowa, North Dakota, Ohio, Tennessee, West Virginia and Wisconsin, one each.

The changes will not take effect until the 93rd Congress, which will be elected in 1972 and convene in 1973. The 92nd Congress, elected earlier this month, will not be affected by the new apportionment.

The official figures released today were 4.5 million higher than the preliminary totals made public Sept. 1. The census said at the time that it expected the final figure to hit between 204 million and 205 million when all transients, military men and others were counted.

The census figures are the official count on which a myriad of decisions are based, including apportionment of federal funds in several programs.

President Nixon is required by law to submit the report to Congress during the first week of its regular 1971 session. Congress then has 15 days to act if it chooses to change the size of the House.

If Congress fails to act within 15 days, the existing law on apportionment would be applied to the new figures.

Since Congress is not expected to increase the size of the House —the only way that the larger delegations could be accommodated without taking seats from other states —it will be up to the state legislatures to make the adjustments required by the new apportionment.

If the legislatures fail to redraw congressional district lines, the assumption is that the courts will do it for them. During the 1960s, federal and state courts for the first time injected themselves into apportionment controversies to carry out the Supreme Court's "one man-one vote" rulings.

No states with more than one congressional seat will be able to have "at-large" congressional elections, as in the past.

A 1967 law repealed the previous provision that provided for "at-large" —or statewide —elections for newly-added seats where legislatures had failed to redraw lines. The old law also required all congressional candidates to run at large in states which lost seats and whose legislatures had failed to draw new districts to conform to the changes.

Texas moved from sixth place in population to fourth place, ahead of Illinois and Ohio, with 16.9 per cent jump from 9,579,677 in 1960 to 11,196,730 in 1970.

Florida jumped ahead of Massachusetts to No. 9 in population rank with a 37.1 per cent increase — from 4,951,560 in 1960 to 6,789,443 in 1970.

The report pointed out that migration patterns continued much as they had developed in the past from the middle of the country to the coasts, and from rural to urban areas.

About one-half of the nation's counties lost population during the last decade, and an additional one-fourth experienced a low growth rate, the census report said.

The District of Columbia and three states —West Virginia, North Dakota and South Dakota — actually decreased in population in the 1960s.

Runway Crash Kills Two In Tel Aviv

TEL AVIV (UPI) — A Trans World Airlines (TWA) 707 cargo jet streaking for takeoff at Tel Aviv's Lydda airport before dawn today crashed into an Israeli Air Force stratocruiser being towed on the runway.

Both aircraft exploded in flames, scattering rubble over the runway and forcing a shutdown of the airport for nine hours.

The three-man TWA crew scrambled to safety, two suffering minor scratches, but two Israeli ground workers died and two others were injured, one of them seriously, a police spokesman said.

One of the dead was the driver of a tractor pulling the stratocruiser and the other a ground crewmen whose charred body was found in the cockpit of the Israeli transport, the spokesman said.

Transport Minister Shimon Peres and air force commander Maj. Gen. Mordechai Hod hurried to the scene and, while billowing flames still rose from the hulks, named a five man commission headed by former air force commander Dna Tolkowsky to determine the cause of the collision.

The TWA captain, D. Meyerholz, told newsmen his four

Record Rains Cripple Many Southland Areas

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Record rains soaked southern California Sunday, crippling freeways and highways, causing massive power outages and triggering mudslides.

The rain, which also played a part in hundreds of traffic accidents, tapered off today with only light showers forecast. The storm front, spawned in the Pacific, was moving into Arizona.

Fifteen persons were reported dead or missing in crashes on rain-slicked highways, in air crashes in heavy overcast and two other rain-related accidents.

Two pilots were killed in air crashes, four other persons disappeared on another airplane flight, seven died in auto crashes, a surfer vanished in the stormy Pacific and a farm worker was electrocuted by wind-whipped power lines.

Another storm appeared to be developing in the Pacific Northwest late Sunday and the National Weather Service saw the 50 per cent possibility of rain in Los Angeles today and Tuesday. If the storm hits, it will be the third major frontal system to move through the area since the beginning of the Thanksgiving weekend.

Numerous area schools were closed due to flooding conditions. Landslides were prevalent in areas ravaged by recent brush fires in several counties.

Thirty-seven Boy Scouts and their scoutmasters were stranded in the Bear Canyon area in the Angeles National Forest Sunday night when the San Gabriel River rose to 45 feet across.

A sheriff's spokesman said the scouts could not cross the river but that they were in no danger.

Some 130,000 persons in southeast Los Angeles County were without power for several hours. Another 3,600 in San Diego were affected for 65 minutes.

In San Bernardino, sandbagging operations were being conducted in widespread portions of the city. Most businesses covered up front doors as water rose up over street curbs.

Rainfall totals for the storm ranged from about 4.5 inches at the Civic Center here to more than 11 inches at San Marcos Pass in Santa Barbara County late Sunday for a 24-hour period.

The heaviest previous rain on a Nov. 29 here was .75 of an inch that fell in 1892.

Two bridges in San Bernardino were washed out and a mudslide three miles west of nearby Devore derailed two cars of a 100-car Santa Fe freight train.

Nixon Signs Three Year Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon signed into law today a three-year farm bill which includes the first ceiling ever imposed on federal crop subsidies.

The lengthy measure, which goes into effect with 1971 crops, includes a series of redesigned 1971-73 price support programs for grains and cotton.

The price support programs are coupled with a flexible new administration - designed "set aside" system for holding down overproduction of crops.

The subsidiary ceilings — $55,000 annual payments to any one farmer for cotton, wheat, and feed grains —will affect only about 1,100 of the nation's nearly three million farms. Most of those (about 950 are cotton producers.

The administration claimed the new support and control plans, which deemphasize the role of the old farm parity formula in fixing support prices, will give farmers more operating freedom plus better income with less dependence on government aid.

In signing the bill, Nixon said that unlike major farm bills of the past, the measure was a product of bipartisan cooperation, with Republicans and Democrats working together for passage.

"Farmers will have the opportunity to move away from frozen acreages on feed grains, wheat and cotton toward a wider choice of crops," Nixon said. "With this greater flexibility to meet immediate market

New Nationwide Rail Network Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Transportation Department unveiled a new nationwide rail network plan today that would cut over-all passenger service by 15 per cent.

The new system, operated by the newly created Rail Passenger Corp., would have 16 different rail passenger routes serving 85 per cent of the areas served by the present system.

Reds Reject Allied Protest Over Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) —The official East German news service ADN said today the Soviet embassy rejected a Western allied protest against East German harassment of Berlin traffic. Delays of up to 10 hours backed up traffic for miles.

ADN said the East Berlin embassy considered the American, British and French notes delivered late Sunday "unsatisfactory" and inconsistent with the stated Western aim of reducing tension here.

ADN repeated the Eastern stand that a meeting here of West German Christian Democratic members of parliament was a provocation.

In reaction to the two-day meeting that began today the East Germans began Saturday to delay the passage of Berlin traffic through their highway checkpoints.

For the third day they played a cat and mouse game with trucks and automobiles, first closing the checkpoints and then reopening them after vehicles were backlogged for miles.

West German customs police said some trucks supplying West Berlin were held up for as long as 10 hours.

The action ignored a Western allied warning to the Russians that the harassment of traffic could endanger the Big Four ambassadors talks on Berlin.

Tired Pope Paul Gets Big Australia Welcome

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)— A weary Pope Paul VI received a tumultuous welcome today in Sydney, and as the day wore on he appeared to draw strength from the crowds. His weary smile became a broad grin and cheers brought him bouncing to his feet.

A crowd of 3,000 —far below the expected 25,000—waited for hours at Sydney airport to greet him when he flew in from Leulomega, Western Samoa. He ignored strict security precautions brought about by an attempt on his life in Manila and waded into the crowd to shake hands and offer his blessing.

In Sydney there were thousands of persons packed shoulder to shoulder in the streets in front of Town Hall for the official welcome by Lord Mayor Emmett McDermott, garbed in his ermine robes of office and official chain. The welcome more than made up for the sparse crowd at the airport, and by the time the Pope retired for the night police estimated 700,000 persons had turned out to see him.

The contrast between the poor South Pacific island of Western Samoa and the affluent continent of Australia was as sharp as night and day.

In Samoa he appealed to the world to send more missionaries to preach, teach and heal in such regions where the need for both spiritual and material aid is great. In Australia, on the other hand, the 73-year-old Pope warned that too much wealth has its dangers.

When he left Manila on Sunday the Pope drove into a squalid, muddy slum that even police dare not enter and talked with a poor family there. In Western Samoa he drove past open sided houses with grass roofs and a chair or two as the only furniture.

In Sydney he passed the manicured suburban houses and wellstocked stores that throw this nation into sharp contrast with its Asian neighbors.

The Pope said the primary purpose of his coming to Australia was to join in a meeting of Bishops in Australia and Oceania, as similarly he had joined a conference of Asian bishops in Manila.

A MUDDY DAY IN MALIBU

This is what happened to one resident of Malibu yesterday. He was bogged down both coming and going in an attempt to get to his car. It was Southern California's first big storm of the season. Wind-driven rain washed mud from the hills which were denuded during summer brush fires. Electrical power was out for hours.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Conakry Details

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (UPI) —Conakry Radio has begun giving details of the week-long fighting in Guinea, signaling the government's confidence in having won.

The Voice of the Revolution Radio in Conakry, monitored 600 miles away in Abidjan, said Sunday the government had given "irrefutable proof" to a U.N. mission that Portuguese national led an attempted invasion of Guinea. The radio also said that Guinean troops killed 38 "mercenaries" in fighting over the weekend in northern Guinea near the Portuguese Guinea border.

For the first time the radio said Guinean nationals had been involved in the fighting against government troops and gave some details on damage in and around the capital.

Ford-UAW Talks

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. and United Auto Workers bargainers hope to reach tentative agreement on a new national contract in time to prevent another economy-damaging UAW strike set for a week from today.

But Ford Vice President Malcolm Denise isn't going out on any limbs. "Things are not locked up yet," he said following Sunday's one-hour main-table negotiating session, during which union and company bargainers discussed specific details of a three-year pact presented by Ford.

The offer by the nation's second largest automobile manufacturer Saturday closely resembled the contract ratified by the UAW's 394,000 members at General Motors after a 67-day strike.

Papal Assurance

WARSAW (UPI)—The Roman Catholic primate of Poland said Sunday the Vatican is ready to recognize Poland's Oer-Neisse border as soon as it is settled between the Bonn and Warsaw governments.

Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski told 2,000 persons in St. John's Cathedral he discussed with Pope Paul VI during a recent visit to the Vatican the reorganization of former German dioceses now in Poland.

"I received a letter on this matter from the Holy Father, containing an assurance that, as soon as the political and legal situation is settled, the Holy See will not delay with the proper decrees," Wyszynski said.

East Berlin Plan

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviets today announced a summit conference of East European Communist states will be held in East Berlin during the early part of December.

The terse announcement coincided with a Soviet propoganda campaign against the "political provocation" the Kremlin sees in a meeting of West German politicians in West Berlin.

Panther Effort Off

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Black Panthers and their white sympathizers have abandoned an attempt to write a new U.S. Constitution.

Delegates to the convention, who numbered about 3,500, left Washington Sunday. Spokesmen said they had failed to find an adequate meeting place after being turned down in their requests for use of facilities at Howard University, the University of Maryland and the Washington, D.C., armory.

Huey P. Newton, defense minister for the Panthers, called off the attempt to hold the convention Saturday night.

Spokesmen said the group envisioned a constitution that would eliminate elements of oppression, outlaw racial exclusion and provide proportional representation.

Arson Suspects

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Three teen-agers and a volunteer fireman were arrested during the night on charges they set 11 farm fires in the past month, causing an estimated $250,000 damage, authorities said today.

Food Short In Pakistan

DACCA, East Pakistan (UPI) —An American medical researcher said Sunday the real disaster from the cyclone and tidal wave that devastated East Pakistan may still lie ahead unless massive relief is forthcoming.

Dr. Wiley H. Mosley, director of a Southeast Asia Treay Organization (SEATO) Cholera research laboratory in Dacca, toured the ravaged areas.

"If the people still alive are not given food there will be famine — starvation." Wiley said. He said the tidal wave Nov. 12-13 washed away nearly 100 per cent of rice crops at the height of the harvest.

He said food shortages over the next year appeared to be a greater threat than disease.

"It is areas where casualties were low that the danger is the greatest," Wiley said. "Areas where they lost their food supply but have nearly as many mouths to feed as before the storm."

Israel Claims UAR Installs New Missiles

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israel today accused Egypt of renewed violations of the cease-fire zone along the Suez Canal. It said Egypt was setting up new SAM2 and SAM3 missile bases.

A spokesman said the protest against the new "grave violations" was submitted to United Nations cease-fire supervisors in Jerusalem today.

"According to information which reached the Israel defense forces on Nov. 27, construction and other preparatory work was begun on the Egyptian side of the Suez Canal on new sites for ground to air missiles," the spokesman said. "In so doing the Egyptians violated the cease-fire."

Meanwhile, the Israeli cabinet decided Defense Minister Moshe Dayan will carry Israel's terms for a return to the Middle East peace negotiations with him when he meets with American leaders in mid-December.

The Israeli cabinet, at its Sunday meeting, commissioned Dayan to discuss Israel's terms with U.S. officials. Previously, Dayan's tour of the United States had been confined to speaking engagements.

With the scope of his trip expanded, the defense minister almost certainly will see Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, White House Security Adviser Henry Kissinger and perhaps President Nixon himself.

Prime Minister Golda Meir's cabinet will formulate its terms for resuming the talks under the auspices of U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring on the basis of clarifying discussions Israeli Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin will conduct when he returns to his base in Washington this week.

Israel has made it clear it is ready to resume the talks if certain conditions are met — but it has never spelled out the conditions. Israel broke off the original talks with Egypt and Jordan because of alleged Egyptian violations of the Suez Canal cease-fire zone.

Israel charged Egypt deployed SAM2 and SAM3 missiles in the zone after the Aug. 7 cease-fire began. Although the truce has been extended until Feb. 3, the talks have not resumed.

Confiscations

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese government today confiscated issues of three daily newspapers for alleged violations of the federal newspaper code and ordered the publishers to appear before the Interior Ministry to answer the charges at a later date.

Self-Applied Test For Pregnancy Sold

TORONTO (UPI)—A do-it-yourself pregnancy test, simple to perform and small enough to keep in the corner of a medicine cabinet, went on sale today in Canada.

Called Confidelle, the test costs $5.50 and takes two hours to perform. It is being marketed in a white, three-inch square plastic rack, which looks like part of a toy chemistry set.

Denver Laboratories (Canada) Ltd., the Canadian subsidiary of a firm based in Stamford, Conn., says Confidelle has been tested on several hundred women and was found to be accurate 96 per cent of the time. The firm says the test can detect pregnancy as early as four days after a woman has missed a menstrual period.

Dr. Alan Wohlman, a consultant biochemist involved in the research of the test, said it had been approved for sale by the Canadian Food and Drug Directorate. He said Confidelle is being marketed only in Canada now but would be sold also in the United States in "due course."

A brochure accompanying the kit says Confidelle is a test to determine if human "chorionic gonadotropin (HCG)", the pregnancy hormone, is present in urine.

The test kit consists of a small vial containing "dilutent," a liquid that dilutes the urine to proper concentration; a smaller tube containing a freeze-dried sediment of blood cells coated with HCG; and an eyedropper.

Based on a principle known as "hemaglutination inhibition," the test requires the person taking it to use the dropper to place some of her urine in the vile containing the dilutent. The mixture then is transferred with the dropper to the tube.

The resulting reaction without any urine would be to cause the suspended blood cells to clump together and form a solid mat at the bottom of the tube. The same reaction would be obtained if the urine was from a nonpregnant person.

But if urine containing HCG is used, it interfers with the clumping process, making the sediment form a clearly marked red ring at the bottom of the tube.

The Denfer brochure warns that Confidelle is not intended to replace a doctor's diagnosis. In bold type it advises the user to "see a doctor regardless of the Confidelle test result."

Denver says the test is intended to help send a woman to her doctore more quickly.

Locked Brakes Seen In Crash Evidence

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —Brakes on a military charter jet may have locked on takeoff, exploding two tires and causing the flaming crash that killed 47 persons, federal investigators said Sunday.

Pieces of rubber tires littered the 10,900-foot runway where the Capitol International Airways DC8 stretch jet made its takeoff run Friday.

In several places, rubber appeared to be melted into the asphalt runway of Anchorage International Airport.

A special team of investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) inspected mile-long skid marks, debris and wreckage Sunday and interviewed survivors.

Investigator Frank Malone said it was possible the brakes locked, causing tires to blow out as the Vietnam-bound jet with 219 passengers and a crew of 13 rolled down the runway at 170 miles per hour.

However, NTSB investigators said there were other possible causes and would not give a definite cause until flight and voice recordings flown to Washington, D.C., had been analyzed.

Malone said the Plane's No. 1 engine had been checked for a "slight vibration" before the flight departed Friday from McChord AFB, Wash.

Council Residency Requirement Is Hit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The 3rd District Court of Appeal Wednesday declared unconstitutional Sacramento's five-year residency requirement for city council candidates.

The court ruled that the requirement violates the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and was not justified "by a compelling government interest."

7,000 Mammoth Bones Discovered

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviets archeologists have dug about 7,000 bones from a graveyard of prehistoric mammoths in Siberia, the Soviets said today.

"Archeologists have discovered a vast cemetery of mammoths in the lower reaches of the Indigirka River not far from the Arctic Ocean," it said. "The expedition extracted 7,000 bones of animals of various age from under the permafrost layer."

U.S. Jet Hits Red Gun Site Above DMZ

SAIGON (UPI)—An American jet bombed and strafed a North Vietnamese antiaircraft gun position north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) today when the jet's electronic equipment indicated the Communist guns were aiming at U.S. B52s bombers.

It was the first such incident since the intense American bombing strikes in North Vietnam Nov. 21-22.

The U.S. Command said the F105 Wild Weasel jet fighter-bomber conducted "protective reaction" to "avert hostile action . . . with unknown results."

The Command said the F105 attacked the Communist gun-site 5-1-2 miles north of the DMZ and near the Laotian border. Military sources said the F105 picked up on its electronic gear evidence the antiaircraft position was getting a "fix" on the B52s the F105 was escorting.

The Communists have not been able to shoot down a B52 in the Indochina War. They fly at 35,000 feet and are invisible from the ground.

"There was no damage to U.S. aircraft," the U.S. Command said. "As the Command has stated, protective reaction is the inherent right of self-defense."

The U.S. Command reported American troops strength in Vietnam as of Nov. 26 at 335,800 men compared with a peak strength of 543,400 in April, 1969.

The U.S. Command also reported a surge in fighting involving American troops over the weekend in South Vietnam. At least three GIs were killed and 34 wounded in scattered ground actions.

South Vietnamese infantrymen and militia operating in an area of Binh Thuan province 110 miles east-northeast of Saigon reported killing 41 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops Sunday. Among the Communist troops killed was a company commander and the Saigon government said a Communist "political commisar" was taken prisoner.

The South Vietnamese lost two dead and nine wounded.

Communiques from Phnom Penh said there appeared no imminent threat of a North Vietnamese attack against the capital but it was "possible" some enemy reconnaissance elements have entered the city."

NO REST FOR THE WEARY

The weekend's big storm was rough on more than people. This seal sought respite on the breakwater on North San Pedro Road near Peacock Gap Saturday. But San Rafael Patrolman Scott E. Nelson (left) and Robert Miller of the Marin County Humane Society had to prod it back into the water to protect it from children throwing rocks. Miller said the seal appeared healthy and seemed to have tired battling the storm tossed bay. The season's first major storm, with heavy on-again, off-again rains, faded yesterday, but another was reported on the way tonight.

Security Beefed Up For Ky In Bay Area

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco police and federal agents are preparing for the worst during Tuesday's visit by Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam.

They have planned a security building of proportions usually reserved for the arrival of the President of the United States in the face of an announced "massive demonstration and rally against Ky."

The dapper South Vietnamese vice president is scheduled to deliver a luncheon address to the Commonwealth Club, a prestigious business executives' forum whose past speakers include President Nixon and the late Charles De Gaulle.

But an ad hoc coalition to protest Ky's visit has promised to fill the streets outside the Fairmont Hotel during the speech to "let the world know how the people of San Francisco feel about this war."

Sponsors of the demonstration — including state legislators, labor union presidents and clergymen — say they want Ky to know the city's official position, as expressed by an antiwar local ballot proposition which won passage Nov. 3.

Additive Arguments On Agenda

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The merits of Standard Oil Company's fuel additive, F-310, will be argued before Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Alameda County Administration Building, 1221 Oak Street, Oakland.

The state Air Resources Board has asserted that the company exaggerated its claims that the additive reduces smog emissions, and the Federal Trade Commission has made a similar complaint against the company's advertisements.

Also on the agenda, which deals largely with controls on automotive emissions, are John Maga, executive officer of the Air Resources Board, and a spokesman for the California Highway Patrol on its program to cite smoky vehicles.

Several directors of the regional agency favor legislation empowering it to enforce vehicular emission controls.

The executive committee will meet first behind closed doors at 8:45 a.m. to screen applicants for the new position of district lobbyist in Sacramento, a $10,000-a-year post. The personnel committee will meet at 9:15 a.m., also behind closed doors, to screen appointments to the district's advisory council. This committee previously met in public to screen such appointments.

Bond Proposal Is Due Study

The Mill Valley City Council will consider items for a possible spring bond issue when it holds a special meeting today at 8 p.m. at city hall.

A bond issue totaling more than $2 million in city improvements was discussed by councilmen in September, though Mayor George E. Wickham said he favored only a $500,000 package.

The council is expected to eliminate many items from the list and present it to voters sometime in February.

Sound Equipment Reported Stolen

Sound equipment valued at over $200 has been stolen from Blessed Sacrament church in Santa Venetia, sheriff's deputies said.

The theft occurred between Nov. 14 and Nov. 18.

Drug Arrest Hearings Set For Today

Petaluma police arrested five persons on suspicion of drug violations in two separate events over the weekend.

Arrested at 11:30 p.m. yesterday on suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs were Michael Victor Rossotti, 20, of 203 Douglas Street, Petaluma; Gary Joseph Corda, 24, of 4350 Novato Boulevard, Novato; and Harold Steven Ghisletta, 19, of 155 Gossage Avenue, Petaluma.

The minors were also arrested on suspicion of possession of alcoholic beverages. They were booked into Sonoma County Jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Police said their car was stopped at Hinman and Hayes lanes when smoke was seen coming from beneath the car. The officers said tablets believed to be benzedrine were found in their possession.

Arrested Saturday at 2:56 a.m. on suspicion of possession of marijuana and marijuana for sale was John William Arroyo, 21, of 709 I Street, Petaluma, and Michael John Ragar, 21, of 11 Hayes Lane, Petaluma, on suspicion of possession of marijuana.

Police said the pair had reportedly been causing a disturbance at Denny's Restaurant, 4986 Petaluma Boulevard North, and that investigation showed they were in possession of six lids of marijuana.

They were also booked into Sonoma County Jail for arraaignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Leather Taken

Leather clothing of undetermined value was taken Friday night from Lisa's Leathers, 473 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley police reported. Police said the theft occurred between 7 p.m. Friday and 9:50 a.m. Saturday. Entry was gained by prying open the shop's front door, according to officers.

BCDC Staff Vetoes Ferry Port Plaza

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Denial of a permit for a $120 million development proposed on San Francisco's waterfront has been recommended by the staff of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

A commission vote on the controversial Ferry Port Plaza project is set at 2 p.m. Thursday in Room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue.

The staff found that the project, more than twice the size of the Cow Palace, included plans such as an office building which were "clearly not a water-oriented use within the meaning of the law or the commission's bay plan." Both the law and the plan require that such projects in the bay be water-oriented.

They also require that such projects be allowed only when no alternative land location is available. The staff report noted that since sites on existing land were available for the project, its approval by the commission "would therefore clearly be inconsistent" with the law.

Finally, the staff said, "nothing in the record indicates that the project is 'necessary to the health, safety or welfare of the public in the entire bay area,' one of the two bases upon which a permit may be granted by the commission."

The commission rarely has voted contrary to a staff recommendation.

The San Francisco Port Commission, on whose jurisdiction the project would be built, has indicated it may fight the commission if the permit is denied. Port Director Miriam Wolf said the port could go to court to challenge the commission's jurisdiction, or go to the Legislature to change the BCDC law to allow such projects.

The 10-story project, immediately north of the Ferry Building, also envisioned a 1,200-room hotel, stores and a garage for 2,400 cars.

Due At Home Show

Rita Abrams and her kindergarten students at Strawberry Point School, who made the song "Mill Valley" a national hit, will entertain at the 1970 California Home Show Friday to Dec. 13 in Brooks Hall, San Francisco. The show will be open from noon to 11 p.m. daily.

The Most Exciting Headache News In Years!

Doctors' Tests In Treating Nervous Tension Headaches Now Made Public

Non-Narcotic Tablet That Needs No Prescription Proves Just As Effective As The Expensive, Leading Pain-Relief Prescription Of Doctors.

If you're one of the many who get tense, nervous headaches, these latest tests by doctors should be of the greatest importance.

In recent medical tests doctors proved a famous tablet that needs no prescription gives the same complete headache relief as the expensive, leading prescription of doctors.

These doctors' tests proved, beyond a doubt, that Anacin is just as effective to relieve tension headaches, yet Anacin needs no prescription and is far more economical.

With Anacin, headache pain and its nervous tension vanish in minutes. Despite its strength, Anacin is not narcotic. You can take it without getting dizzy or an upset stomach.

Next time take powerful, fast-acting Anacin®. Anacin Tablets give the same complete headache pain relief as the leading prescription product for which doctors wrote 21 million prescriptions last year.

San Francisco Store Window Is Smashed

An Independent-Journal advertiser reported today that vandals this morning shattered a large window in a San Francisco branch of his store.

The advertiser, Petrinis' Market, has been warned repeatedly by telephone to discontinue advertising in the I-J, which has been struck since Jan. 7 by San Francisco Typographical Union 21.

The attack was the latest in a series of weekend incidents.

The store's management reported that a one-inch nut was fired through the window from a passing car. Several persons were in the car, according to a witness, he said.

The attack at Petrini Plaza was at 10:10 a.m.

It was the third time the market's San Francisco store has been hit by vandals. On Nov. 22, vandals slashed 10 truck tires, threw acid on a truck cab and stink-bombed five doors at the market. Its trucks also were vandalized on Nov. 9, when tires on two produce trucks were slashed in South San Francisco.

The firm also has been the victim of secondary boycott picketing and union efforts to halt truck deliveries.

Sabella's Restaurant in Mill Valley reported a stink bomb was thrown against its front door shortly after 5 p.m. Saturday. A window in the banquet room was found broken at the same time.

A witness said the bomb was thrown by two well-dressed men in their mid-20s, according to a spokesman for the restaurant.

The spokesman said that the restaurant had received a general mailer from the typographical union urging I-J advertisers to stop advertising in the I-J.

Tires on the car of an I-J employee were slashed and a stink bomb was thrown in front of the main entrance to the Independent-Journal building at 1040 B Street during the weekend, San Rafael police have reported.

Four tires on the auto of Alan Beckley, a machinist were slashed while the car was parked on Shaver Street near Fourth Street. He discovered it about 5:30 p.m. Friday.

A Christmas tree ornament filled with foul smelling liquid was dropped in front of the I-J door on B Street at 5:15 p.m. Saturday, an I-J guard reported to police.

A witness told police he saw two men in front of the door at the time. He described them as white male adults, one six feet, two inches tall, weighing 200 to 225 pounds, unshaven, grey balding hair and wearing a red panelled lumberjacket type coat and the other about the same height, slender, lean face, grey hair, wearing glasses and a brown jacket.

Police were unable to locate the men near the building.

Tires of two other I-J employees were slashed Friday in previously reported vandalism.

Defense Attorneys Question Officer

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — Defense attorneys continued picking today at the testimony of Officer John Campion of the California Highway Patrol, trying to find discrepancies in his testimony.

Campion was on the stand to describe actions of his arrest squad during a riot outside the Independent-Journal on Valentine's Day.

A rally called in support of International Typographical Union 21 which struck the I-J Jan. 7, resulted in violence and the arrest of seven men who are on trial in Solano Superior Court before Judge William E. Jensen. Grand jury indictments brought a total of 36 counts against the seven.

None of the arrest squad sent to Julia Street on the afternoon of Feb. 14 used bullhorns or other amplifiers Campion told cross-examining defense attorneys today.

Campion said officers individually warned persons in the crowd to disperse or be arrested for unlawful assembly.

Most of the morning was spent in bickering over the interpretation of photographs of the Julia Street actions as to when they were taken and what they show.

Officer John Rosentangle, of the San Rafael Police Department, one of those injured during the day, was to be Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas's next prosecution witness.

147 Children Vaccinated In San Rafael

More than 140 children at John MacPhail School in San Rafael were vaccinated against rubella during today's first stop by Marin County's health team.

A spokesman for the county health department said 147 children received the shot which brought the campaign total as of 10 a.m. to 6,494.

Dr. Albrecht, county health officer, has said the department hopes to immunize about 80 per cent of the 47,000 children between 1 and 11 years of age in Marin County.

She said that even though the clinics are being held at schools, children do not have to come from that school, but may come from anywhere. She emphasized that included pre-school children as well.

The schedule is:

Tomorrow — 9 a.m. Oliver Hartzell; 10 a.m., Nova Albion; 11 a.m., Don Timoteo; 1 p.m., St. Isabella; and 2 p.m. Bernard Hoffman.

0476 01

Wednesday — 9 a.m. Santa Margarita, 10:30 a.m. Oak View, 12:30 p.m. Dixie, 2 p.m. Lucas Valley.

Thursday — 9:30 a.m. Tomales, 11 a.m. West Marin, 12:30 p.m. Inverness, 2 p.m. Bolinas.

Friday — 8:45 a.m. St. Anselms, 9:45 a.m. Isabel Cook, 1 p.m. Yolansdale, 1:45 p.m. Sleepy Hollow.

Dec. 7 — 9 a.m. Lagunitas, 10:30 a.m. Nicasio, 1:30 p.m. Mary Silveira.

Her southbound car collided at 1:30 p.m. Saturday with one driven by Houston Lee Levers, 48, of 6624 Ford Drive, Tiburon, also southbound on Highway 101 at the Alto interchange, according to the CHP.

Ann Maynor Cost, 41, of 625 Bridgeway, Sausalito, was to see her own doctor for head pain. Her southbound car collided at 10:15 p.m. Saturday with one driven southbound by David Louis Dellera, 18, of 306 Las Flores Avenue, San Rafael, on Highway 101 at Miller Creek Road, CHP reported.

Four persons were taken to Marin General Hospital from an accident at 11:55 p.m. Saturday on Highway 101 at the San Pedro Road overpass, CHP reported.

Alex Scott, 20, of 1836 Fifth Avenue, San Refael, was treated at Marin General Hospital for neck and shoulder pains. Georgette Parry, 32, of 501 Arlen Drive, Rohnert Park, was treated for facial cuts and injured right shoulder.

Scott was a passenger in a car driven north on Highway 101 by Joseph Jackson, 21, also of 1836 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael. Jackson refused treatment, the hospital reported. Jackson's car collided with one driven by Ivor Timothy Parry, 37, husband of Georgette Parry. He also refused treatment at the hospital. A 20-year-old Petaluma man was injured today at 2:30 a.m. when his car, northbound on Highway 101 near the Hamilton Air Force Base exit, struck a light pole, according to the Highway Patrol.

Gary L. Gibbs, of 436 Corona Road, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut chin.

No other details of the accident were available.

Private funeral for George D. Somers, father of Richurd Somers of San Anselmo, was today in San Anselmo.

Somers, 56, died Saturday at the home of his son at 41 Angela Avenue after a long illness. He had been in Marin six months.

A native of Arlington, Mass., Somers took a bachelor's degree in engineering from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the 1930s.

He worked in Fort Worth, Tex., and Auburn, Me., before moving to Los Angeles in 1952.

A construction engineer, he was involved in the building of missile sites and factories including the Folgers Coffee plant in South San Francisco completed about 1965.

He retired in March after working for 10 years for Swinerton and Walberg Co. of San Francisco.

Also surviving are two other sons, Robert Somers of Stockholm, Sweden, and Michael Somers of Los Angeles, a sister, Kay Silley of Marblehead, Mass., and three grandchildren.

Burial is to be at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Glendale, Los Angeles County.

PAULINE JOHNSON

Pauline B. Johnson, 44, of 76 Trish Drive, Novato, who suffered a broken hip Thanksgiving Day, died yesterday at Novato General Hospital apparently of a heart attack, according to Deputy Coroner Richard W. Madigan.

Mrs. Johnson suffered a broken hip when she slipped and fell on her driveway while getting a newspaper, Madigan reported.

The wife of William O. Johnson, she had lived in Marin 5 years. She was a native of Utah.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Keaton's Chapel

MRS. PAYNE

Emma I. Payne, 76, of 35 Carmel Drive, Novato, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness.

Mrs. Payne, a native of New Mexico, was a resident of Marin for six years and of California for 10 years.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Willa James Reeves of Santa Rosa, a son, Robert Payne of Missouri, a brother, Robert Graham of Amarillo, Tex., a sister, Ellen Nims of Tallahassee, Fla., and six grandchildren.

Funeral and burial will be in Amarillo, Tex. Friends may call at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, 1801 Novato Boulevard, Novato, until 9 p.m. today.

FRED HORN

Fred Horn, of Terra Linda, retired liquor dealer, died yesterday at a convalescent home in Novato after a long illness.

A native of Nebraska, Horn had lived in Marin 15 years and in California 26 years.

He lived at 825 Gallinas Avenue.

Surviving are his wife, Rhoda, of Terra Linda, a son, Mickey Horn of Novato; two sisters, Lottie Goldsmith of San Jose and Ann Kransne of Los Angeles.

Funeral will be at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, Novato, at 1 p.m. tomorrow. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

MRS. JENSEN

Maren Jensen, a six-year resident of San Rafael, died yesterday shortly after falling on concrete steps at her residence at 326 Mission Avenue. She was 76.

The coroner's office reported that Mrs. Jensen was found at the bottom of the stairs and appeared not seriously injured. However, when taken to her apartment she collapsed and died.

A native of Denmark, she moved to Fresno in 1905 and to San Francisco in 1919.

She is survived by two sons, Robert K. and Rolf J. Jensen and a daughter, Kay D. Larsen, all of San Francisco.

Funeral will be Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. at the Daphne Mortuary, 1 Church Street, San Francisco.

The family requests memorial contributions be sent to the American Cancer Society.

JOHN MARTENS

John E. Martens Sr., a Marin County resident for most of his life, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness.

Martens, 80, of 823 South San Pedro Road, San Rafael, was born in San Francisco, but moved with his family to Marin County about a year later.

He was a retired brakeman for the Northwestern Paciifc Railroad Co. and a member for more than 50 years of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

For many years, Martens worked on the trains which ran in Marin taking commuters to and from the old Sausalito ferry boats.

Surviving are his wife, Carolyn Martens of the family residence; a son, John E. Martens Jr. of Santa Venetia; a brother, Henry C. Martens of San Rafael; four sisters, Charlotte McDonnell of San Rafael, Henrietta Graves of Hayward, Elsie Kolb of Oakland and Mildred Cox of San Anselmo, and two grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. Wednesday at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's.

MRS. CUMMING

Funeral for Millicent G. Cumming of Corte Madera will be tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. at McNary and Morgan Chapel in Berkeley. Cremation will follow the service and her ashes will be scattered at sea.

Mrs. Cumming, 90, died Saturday at a local convalescent hospital following a short illness.

She had lived with her daughter, Margaret C. Wilkie, at 66 Mohawk Avenue, Corte Madera, since 1957.

A native of Scotland, she had lived in Hawaii before the island group was annexed as a territory to the United States and until 1951.

She was a member of the Presbyterian Church and the Order of the Eastern Star in Hawaii.

In addition to her daughter, she is survived by a son, James Scott Cumming of Maui, Hawaii, and four grandchildren.

Donations to the Shrine hospitals are preferred by the family.

needs, farmers can use their resources to produce their most favorable crops and make more efficient use of the land.

"One important result should be broader markets for U.S. farm products at home and overseas."

Critics, however, charged that the legislation would cut farm income and will open the way to development of new farm surpluses. Chairman Allen J. Ellender, D-La., of the Senate Appropriations Committee predicted economic disaster for the nation's cotton growers.

The opponents also cited Republican defeats in farm belt states in the Nov. 3 election as evidence of farmers unhappiness with the new measure.

Trailer Fire In Larkspur; Big Crowd

Fire destroyed a trailer in the Marin Trailer Park in Larkspur Saturday. Damage was estimated at $12,500.

Firemen arriving at 2130 Redwood Highway between 3:30 and 4 p.m. also had to content with a woman who had collapsed while watching the blaze and a crowd of about 50 which had gathered around the stricken woman, Helen G. Chandler, according to Fire Chief William C. Schurtz.

Mrs. Chandler received first aid from the first firemen on the scene and police were summoned to control the crowd, Schurtz said. Mrs. Chandler died in the emergency room of Marin General Hospital shortly afterwards.

The fire battled by 23 firemen destroyed the trailer of Joe Galentine, Schurtz said. Galentine was not at home when the fire started, he said.

The chief said the blaze began in the trailer's bathroom, but the cause was undetermined today.

A neighboring trailer belonging to Elizabeth Sticker received minor heat damage, the chief said, but there were no injuries from the fire and no other damage.

SENIOR HOUSING — The new housing development for senior citizens in Novato — featuring sturdy, squat buildings with redtiled roofs and buttressed by timbers — resembles a Spanish village. The buildings surround a courtyard area which contains a recreation room, small office and a laundry room.

NEW RESIDENTS — Enjoying a brand new apartment are Mr. and Mrs. Chester Tilley, who have moved into the Marin County Housing Authority's newest development for senior citizens, a 40-unit project at Fourth Street and Carmel Drive, on the edge of Novato. The project has both studio and one-bedroom units.

NO NAME YET

Marin's Newest Senior Housing

Marin's newest senior housing project, on the edge of Novato, doesn't have a name yet, but the occupants call it wonderful.

They moved in from cramped and over-priced apartments, boarding houses and living with relatives to the new complex, nestled beneath a hill at Fourth Street and Carmel Drive.

The 40-unit project, completed last month and already filled, will be dedicated at 10 a.m. Dec. 12.

"It's wonderful to live here," said Pasquale Petrone, 64. "They're looking for a name for this place and I suggested 'Cheerful Twilight'," he said.

Petrone and his wife, who formerly lived in one room in a Novato boardinr house, view their one-bedroom apartment as spacious.

"It's hard for me to find a job," said Petrone, who left his native Italy a little more than two years ago. "In Italy, I had two jobs," he declared.

Strolling through the courtyard of the project, Petrone glanced at the surrounding land and commented: "All around you see countryside. It's so quiet."

The project, scheduled to be annexed to the City of Novato, consists of a cluster of Spanish-styled buildings with red-tile roofs. It is only several blocks from downtown Novato.

Lillian Vanderbilt, former San Rafael deputy city treasurer, living in a studio apartment, said: "It's a lovely place."

A 72-year resident of San Rafael, Mrs. Vanderbilt had been living in an apartment in downtown San Rafael for the past 15 years.

"I never thought I'd leave San Rafael," she said. Her San Rafael apartment was "okay," but it had 30 stairs and her health wouldn't permit the climb, she explained.

"This is a little bigger, and, of course, it's brand new, and the rent is $48. Before I paid $100."

With two sisters and a daughter in Novato, she felt she was in the right place to see them more often.

Mrs. Vanderbilt laughed when she told of a friend who thought a person had to be on welfare to qualify for senior housing.

"You don't have to be on welfare," she explained. "Just have a low income."

(Wallace K. Shepherd, interim executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority, said the basic qualification is that the occupants don't have assets exceeding $5,000 or a net family income exceeding $3,200.)

Mrs. Vanderbilt walked to her patio and looked out at the nearby Pinheiro ranch. "In the morning I look out and see the cows over there," she commented, conceding it was quite a change from her former apartment view in downtown San Rafael.

Her neighbor, Elsie Purtill, was baking biscuits when an I-J reporter intruded. "I didn't have to move too far," Mrs. Purtill said. "I used to live at Fourth Street and Elm Drive, just a few blocks away."

While she was talking, a young girl from the Olompali 4-H Club arrived at the door and gave her a "Happy Thanksgiving" card with a picture of a turkey on it.

"Now, isn't that nice," Mrs. Purtill commented, and she smiled as she placed the card atop a piano, near the family pictures.

She described her apartment as "delightful" and observed "you pay less rent and it has more room."

Referring to her new neighbors, she said, "They're all very happy."

A resident of Novato for five years, after living many years in Southern California, Mrs. Purtill has a daughter-in-law in that city.

One woman, who didn't want to be identified, said: "I don't think you'll find anyone who isn't happy."

Mrs. Catherine Hutchinson, a former resident of Larkspur, also lauded her new apartment.

"In Larkspur I had an apartment on Magnolia Avenue, where all the noise was. I paid $145 a month in a place, one bedroom, that wasn't as good."

Mrs. Hutchinson, who has a son in Novato, said her new location was convenient for seeing her son and his family . . . "at least I see them more often."

Marge Prescott, manager of the senior housing projects under the Marin County Housing Authority, said the majority of units are occupied by Novato residents. "They went to Novato residents first," she explained.

The project is the fourth constructed by the authority under its authorization to construct 200 units for senior citizens.

With the opening of the Novato project, there are 144 units occupied countywide, and the final project is scheduled to be 56 units at the Tiburon Wye in Alto.

Shepherd said there is a waiting list of 200 for senior citizen housing units.

The Novato project was constructed by Smith and Haley of Oakland at a cost of $626,651. It was preceded by projects in Santa Venetia, Homestead Valley and Northgate.

Marin Supervisor John F. McInnis will be chairman of the dedication ceremonies with Novato Mayor Douglas M. Merrill as moderator and Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-Mill Valley, as a guest.

The projects at Santa Venetia and Homestead Valley won U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development awards for design.

Louis Ambler, assistant regional administrator for housing assistance in the HUD office in San Francisco, will present the awards to housing authority officials at the Novato dedication.

AT HOME — Modern kitchens are efficient and Mrs. Chester Tilley makes use of hers, pouring a cup of coffee. The apartments include the kitchen equipment, but residents bring their own furniture for living rooms and bedrooms.

Chamber Backs Transit Plan

The Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau has endorsed a transit statement prepared by the Golden Gate Corridor Committee of the Greater San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, B. A. Farlatti, Marin chamber president, reported.

The statement calls for "a competent and full-scale ferry service" from San Francisco to Marin and asks for the elimination of service stoppages which occur when the Golden Gate Bridge District's ferry is disabled.

In addition, the chambers of commerce are asking the Bridge district to share in the cost of improving the southern approach to the Bridge, the scene of several fatal auto accidents.

Science Grants

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Science Foundation today awarded $14.4 million in science grants to 657 colleges and universities in the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Status Of Ferry Terminal On Agenda

A review of the current status of a proposed ferry terminal for Larkspur will be presented to the city council Wednesday at 8 p.m. in city hall.

The council also will call for bids for reconstruction of Bon Air Bridge, between Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Magnolia Avenue, and will consider hiring of a park planner.

Steamship Service From Russia

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Soviet Union has begun scheduled steamship service to the United States, the first since World War II.

The Soviet freighter Novikov Priboy tied up here to unload manufactured steel from Japan.

The vessel is one of eight ships of the Far Eastern Steamship Co. FESCO, based in Vladivostok, which will bring goods from Canadian ports on the West Coast.

A spokesman for FESCO said Saturday the firm sends three or four ships a month to British Columbia. There is no reason the "company should not, in the future, come into U.S. ports in the same numbers."

Girl, 14, Says Gunman Took Her Bicycle

A 14-year-old Mill Valley girl was robbed of her bicycle at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, by a man who hit her on the head with a gun, Marin county sheriff reported.

Natalie Ann Mussey of 431 Throckmorton Avenue, told the sheriff that she was riding westbound on Evergreen Avenue at Ethel Avenue when the car came at her. She jumped off her bicycle and stood on the sidewalk.

A man waved a gun at her and demanded her bicycle valued at $150, according to her report, then hit her on the head with the gun and knocked her to the sidewalk. She lay on the sidewalk for a few minutes while he loaded the bike into his car and drove off, she told deputies.

Today is Monday, Nov. 30, the 334th day of 1970.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.

On this day in history:

In 1782 preliminary peace articles ending the Revolutionary War were signed in Paris.

In 1874 Sir Winston Churchill, who twice was Britain's Prime Minister, was born.

In 1939 the Russo-Finnish War started after the Soviet Union failed to obtain territorial concessions from Finland.

In 1962 U. Thant of Burma was elected secretary general of the United Nations.

A thought for today: Benjamin Franklin said, "Experience keeps a dear school, but fools will learn in no other way."

Salary Plan To Be Studied

The Novato Unified School District board will consider ratification of a proposed 6.5 per cent pay raise for teachers at 7:30 p.m. today in the lecture hall at Novato High School.

The proposed 1970-71 salary agreement, reached by the board's representative and the teachers' negotiating council, has been ratified by the Novato Teachers Association.

Teachers, however, also voted to continue their sanctions alert, one step from invoking sanctions against the district, because they wanted the raise designated temporary pending further study.

When Contract Is Shaky, The Opening Lead Is Very Important

We begin a week devoted to the opening lead with a confession that nobody knows how important this subject is. The opening lead is not particularly important when the contract is unbeatable. But when the contract is shaky, the opening is usually more important than any other move the defense can make. You don't have to think about opening leads if you enjoy being a loser. It's certainly much easier to make an excuse than to make the best opening lead.

"SAFEST" LEAD

West made the "safest" opening lead — the top card of a sequence. This could not give declarer a trick that he wasn't going to make for himself, but the lead was so safe that it gave declarer his contract.

South took the king of spades and led the king of clubs to force out the ace. East shifted to a diamond, but it was too late. South stepped up with the ace of diamonds and ran his tricks: five clubs, a diamond, two hearts and two spades.

When he opened the ten of spades, West violated one of the basic rules of the opening lead: Avoid leading suits bid by the opponents.

NOT ABSOLUTE RULE

Notice that this rule is not couched in absolute terms. No realistic expert would say: "Never lead the suits bid by the opponents." The point is that you don't lead a suit in which the opponents presumably have length and strength merely because you don't know what else to do: you lead such a suit chiefly when you know exactly what you are doing.

In today's hand, West should lead the unbid suit because there is very little other hope of developing five tricks before South's announced strong club suit comes into play.

EAST'S ACTION

With a diamond lead, East manages to set up his suit immediately. East gets in with the ace of clubs in time to cash the rest of his diamonds, defeating the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and you respond one spade.

Partner now bids two clubs, and it is once more up to you, holding:

♠ - A 6 5 4 2
♥ - K 6 4 3 2
♦ - 6 2
♣ - 7.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

You are not happy about your support for partner's suit, but it is too dangerous to bid again with only seven points in high cards and with no assurance of a fit. If the hand is a misfit, any low undoubled contract is good; and if the hand is not a complete misfit, your partner may still make two clubs.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Compromise Liked For More Income

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have 250 shares of Sears, Roebuck stock bought through their payroll profit sharing plan. I am 64 and wonder if I should sell these shares and invest in certificates of deposit for greater income. I am also concerned about inflation and long-term capital gains tax. — F.J.

A. I would prefer to see you compromise by selling only 150 shares of Sears stock, with the balance held as an inflation hedge. The strong action of these shares since May — up 40 per cent from the 1970 low — presents a good opportunity for profit taking. By selling your most costly shares you can minimize your capital gains tax.

Retail sales were sluggish in October, and holiday shopping is also expected to be slow, reflecting economic uncertainties and the high level of unemployment. For the nine months through October, Sears' sales increased 4%, well below the 13 per cent average annual gain scored in the last ten years. Investing the capital released from the sale of 150 Sears in certificates of deposit would increase your annual return by 125%.

Q. In joint ownership of stocks, what happens when one of the owners dies? — M. S.

A. That depends specifically on how the stock certificate is actually registered. Assuming that the purpose — on the death of one owner — is to have the survivor receive full and clear title, it is necessary to have the stock registered in two names, "as joint tenants with right of suvivorship" and not "as tenants in common."

This wording is extremely important, and if the stock is so registered, the surviving owner will gain possession of the shares in his own name with nothing to produce but a death certificate and, in some instances, a residential certificate which the transfer agent may require for tax purposes. There is no right of survivorship between tenants in common. Incidentally, when the qualifying phrase with rights of survivorship is used, it is unimportant whether the conjunction "and" or "or" joins the two names.

Dividend Set

Bank of Marin directors meeting have declared a 25-cent per share dividend to share holders of record as of the close of business on Friday, Dec., 18 payable Wednesday, Jan., 20, 1971.

NEW ADDITION TO VOLVO LINE

Power for this new Volvo 142E sport sedan is provided by an electronically controlled 121-cubic inch fuel injection engine, generating 130 horsepower. Four-speed transmission is fully synchronized and comes equipped with electrically operated overdrive. The 142E is available in two special metallic colors — gold and blue — and will be sold through Annex Motors, San Rafael.

County Group Asks More Public Works

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Association of Counties has suggested to President Nixon a speedup of public works projects in areas of particularly severe unemployment.

Best Gain In 3 Months On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market Monday scored its best gain in more than three months as volume expanded to more than 17,000,000 shares.

Shortly before the close, the Dow Jones industrial average was up about 12 points at 793.74, while advances outscored declines, 1,220 to 237, on 1,667 issues on the tape.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was ahead 1.10 near the final bell.

Closing prices included : Am. T & T 45 3-8 up 1; Beth St 20 7-8 up 1-2; Chrysler 28 5-8 up 1, Du Pont 123 1-4 off 1-8; Ford 51 7-8 up 7-8; Gen El 88 3-8 up 7-8; Gen Motors 76 5-8 up 1-4; IBM 307 1-4 off 1 1-4.

Analysts said Wall Street was reacting to easier credit conditions, hopes for a turnaround in business in the first half of next year, and a stronger bond market.

One analyst observed "it was kind of a buying panic," generated by the breakout from a three-month trading range on the Dow. The closely watched blue chip barometer had been locked in the 740 to 780 range since September.

Another analyst observed that, while there are no definite signs the 1969-70 bear market is over, "recent moves toward easier money and lower interest rates have generated sufficient confidence among professional investors to take a constructive approach toward the market."

He noted that an anticipated lesser rate of tax selling and traditional investment demand in January did much towards limiting downside market risks.

Among the most active issues on the big board were Tenneco, Federal National Mortgage, American Telephone, R.J. Reynolds, American Electric Power, Atlantic Richfield, Telex Corp., Chrysler, and Standard Oil of California.

Prices gained in brisk trading on the American Stock Exchange.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Apartments Within Homes Illegal—But Fill Need

The San Anselmo City Council has stirred up quite a bit of public feeling by moving to abate two illegal apartments in one-family residential zones.

Most of the objections have been voiced by friends of Gay Kagy, who remodeled an attached garage into a small apartment for herself and her child and rents out the rest of the residence at 280 Redwood Road. Little has been heard from the second owner faced with an abatement order, William D. Howey of 104 Oak Knoll Avenue.

The two, however, admittedly are merely the first of many in the Hub City who may find themselves cited for having apartments or second houses on lots zoned for a single-family use. There have been statements that as many as 150 to 200 San Anselmo homes may be subject to such orders if the drive to eliminate such zoning violations is carried through.

DOUBTLESS THERE ARE nearly as many in Mill Valley, more in San Rafael, and considerable numbers in Marin's smaller cities.

Their existance is seen by official eyes as showing a scofflaw attitude toward zoning ordinances. Maybe it does. But maybe it also shows a need.

Every city in Marin has permitted "non-conforming uses" in one-family residential zones which are exactly like those against which the City of San Anselmo plans to move. These are apartments or second houses which were in use before the zoning ordinance was passed restricting the area to single-family homes. They are permitted to continue under the sound legal principle that an owner cannot be denied to use his property in a manner which was legal when he put it to that use.

Many of these exist because of a change in social patterns resulting from the increased cost of domestic help.

IN EARLIER YEARS, more affluent families in Marin customarily employed cooks, housemaids, yardmen, chauffeurs. Servants' quarters were provided in the big houses or in separate buildings in back yards.

Economic and social changes did away with that. It became impossible for any but the most wealthy to have "live-in servants." So the former servants' quarters were converted to "mother-in-law apartments." Then, as the more affluent heirs moved to new homes and the properties changed hands, they became rental units.

These "nonconforming uses" provide most of the less expensive apartments for young people who do not make enough money to pay the rents in recently built apartment houses, and for old people whose careful savings plus social security are insufficient to pay the ever-rising taxes on big old homes.

There is no doubt they are needed. There also is little doubt that more of them are needed than we have. And partly to meet that need, apartments have been "bootlegged" into what previously were single-family homes.

IT MAKES LITTLE sense to do away with practically the only living accommodations in the county which meet the need for inexpensive housing for young and old. Yet that must be the end result of strict enforcement of single-family zoning ordinances.

Perhaps the city councils of San Anselmo and the rest of Marin's cities should take a hard look at their single-family zones.

Perhaps it would make sense to permit one — and only one — rental unit in each home of seven or more rooms. This would encourage owners of large old houses to create small apartments which would do two things: help ease the housing shortage and permit the elderly owners to continue to live in the homes they love, by providing revenue to pay the taxes.

Reagan Glad To Wash Hands Of Deal That Didn't Wash

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

One of the more fascinating echoes to come out of the election had it that Gov. Ronald Reagan's strategists attempted to rescue Dr. Max Rafferty.

The controversial educator, however, did not buy the deal because in return he would have had to give Reagan forces the right to name his chief deputy, the man who handles daily operations of the department of education.

Marin's own Paul Haerle, Reagan's Northern California campaign chairman, acknowledged that the story, which appeared first in the Los Angeles Times, was on target. "I won't deny the basic suggestion," he said.

Haerle said the first move was "not so much an offer by us as a request from them" (the Rafferty camp). Whatever offer was made to help Rafferty, he said, "was just our response to their request."

THE REAGAN administration has not made a secret of its unhappiness with Rafferty's management of his department, a feeling that was fired last March when Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post accused the department of waste and mismanagement. No effort was made then by the administration to defend Rafferty.

Haerle said he and Rafferty held discussions in October after it was clear that the superintendent's reelection campaign was in trouble. Haerle, Reagan's appointments secretary in 1967-69, said his discussions with Rafferty included "ways his department appointments might be improved."

The Reagan rescue presumably would have included an all-out effort by the governor, camapign money and staff aid —if the deal had been accepted by Rafferty.

"Nothing came of it, obviously," Haerle told the Independent-Journal. He added that such a rescue, as shown by analysis of the election results, "would not have worked, and probably would have pulled the governor further down.

"All in all," Haerle said of the discussions with Rafferty, "it was a good thing that it did not work out."

And so the camera fades out on a retiring superintendent — and we hear the sound of hands being washed in the background.

SPEAKING OF WASHOUTS, Sen. George Murphy's defeat will benefit another Republican, Rep. William S. Mailliard, whose Sixth District includes most of Marin. He now is the number one Republican legislator from California in Washington, and as such is the Nixon administration's prime contact for partisan congressional matters involving California.

Mailliard lands squarely in this powerful position as chairman of California's Republican delegation in the House — and there will be no Republican from California in the Senate come January. Mailliard also is vice chairman of the state's entire congressional delegation, again a powerful position, given the fact that California has the largest delegation in Congress.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Schoolman Writes Own Editorial

Your editorial last week about Dixie School District captures my attention because it dealt with the public enterprise that receives a large portion of my energy and effort. My attention became intense when I saw my own name (slightly misspelled) in print. When I saw what Joseph H. Goff was reported to have said, I wondered if in truth you were writing about someone else.

My anger at the misrepresentation in your editorial cooled only when I realized that this was editorial opinion writing and not factual reporting. The point of the editorial was that public employees and officials should honor their pledges. With this I agree wholeheartedly; but, having a different idea of what my own pledges are, decided I needed to write my own editorial.

Dixie School District has been favored for many years by a discerning public that has elected outstandingly effective citizens to its Board of Trustees. They have shown by their action a deep commitment to providing quality education at a modest cost. They have been backed up on this commitment by a capable and energetic staff of employees and a supportive public with high expectations. My pledge is now and always has been to help our board, faculty, and community to solve problems in such a way that the solutions contribute to the continued ability of the district to satisfy educational expectations as well as possible at what we know is a relatively modest expenditure level.

Army Plan Called Threat To Marin

It's really depressing to hear that the Army is doing its best to hurt Marin County. In an effort to "Keep the Presidio Beautiful," they are going to destroy the infinitely more beautiful Marin.

The Golden Gate Bridge doesn't need additional commute traffic, and no one needs the additional air pollution. If the Army personnel working in the presidio also live there, we won't have the extra traffic and pollution.

From biking experience in the Presidio, I know that parts of it are truly beautiful, but then again, so is Marin. Should we Marinites let Alioto and the Army destroy our share of California's rapidly vanishing natural beauty? Speak out, Marin, and save your heritage from the destructive city!

Quote Ambiguous, Sugarman Says

My statement to the Council of Mayors was ambiguously quoted in the I-J. Kindly clarify it.

Commercial sports, military, police rescue, fire, and other community-service aircraft are legitimate. Aircraft carrying advertisements are unnecessary and undesirable. Plastic 25-foot beer bottles, 45-foot pop bottles, and 30-foot cigarette packs (S.F. CHRONICLE, Nov. 13) towed through the marvelous skies of Marin are without merit.

The epidemic of garish night and day flying billboards has defiled Florida, New York, New England, and Honolulu and is on its way up from Los Angeles to befoul our lovely skies.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney reported to the board of supervisors that aircraft advertising can be controlled by county ordinance. Let's stop this aerial infestation now. Aerial advertising is an affront ot our ecological, safety, and commercial values. Marinites should press for an ordinance to control aerial advertising NOW, BEFORE the abomination gains an irrevocable foothold.

Must Do More To Curb Pollution

Your editorial on Saturday (Nov. 21) stated you were not going to discuss what was happening to our environment until after Christmas so we could all be jolly.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if all the polluters (business, farmers and all mankind) would stop polluting until January? Unfortunately, that is not the case. With 40 per cent of the life of the ocean already destroyed and with pollution agents, both those known and those yet to be discovered, working overtime to destroy our environment, your paper should be making a real effort (such as recycling your newsprint) instead of the meager and ineffectual coverage you are now presenting.

This is in particular an appropriate time to advise people about disposing of excess paper, bottles, etc., that accumulate during the holidays. And a word of caution about overspending and overconsuming without regard for the consequences would be in order too!

The fight against pollution cannot take a holiday or you won't have any birds and animals to write about.

Mrs. JO McLEOD

(The newspaper cannot recycle its newsprint. When a newspaper is sold, it becomes the property of the purchaser — the reader. We encourage all to bundle their newspapers and deliver them to any of the deposit stations in Marin, where they will be picked up for reprocessing. —Editor.)

THE DRUMMONDS

Fear Of Revolution Dogs U.S., But Danger Not Really Great

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — After a recent nationwide reporting trip, we offer three conclusions which, we believe, are in the hearts of Americans today:

1—There is widespread, growing fear of racial strife, fear of campus strife, fear of revolution that could bring the country down.

2—There will be no revolution. Our institutions are far stronger than many realize — stronger than those who admire them and stronger than those who hate them.

3—But we do face painful discomfort. Our greatest danger is that the false fear of revolution will so paralyze our thinking that government at every level will fail to do what needs to be done to meet just grievances, to bring the American dream nearer to reality.

WE DO NOT minimize the depth and acuteness of the anxiety which possesses so many people today.

One of the nation's best reporters, Haynes Johnson of the Washington Post, found that "fear of revolution" was the most visible and pervasive part of the mood of the country. Our experience was the same. And it seems to us that President Franklin D. Roosevelt's words are just as true today as they were in 1933 at the peak of the Depression: "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

An outsider's view will help to put things in perspective. "The basic structures (of American society) are impregnably strong," C. P. Snow, the distinguished British scientist and novelist, writes in Look magazine after traveling in 35 states in the United States.

"But these basic structures," he continues, "are, in non-authoritative countries, very easily perturbed on the surface. We have discovered how impossible it is to change a society at its roots. But we have also made another discovery, that it is quite simple to make it inconvenient to live in. A few hundred elevator men can immobilize an American city. A dozen students can disrupt the administrative machinery of a university. But this is not revolution. It is more like commotion or clear-air turbulence.

"Advanced society, particulary in the United States, is not going to change radically. It will almost certainly be subject to turbulence . . . but fear of revolution is quite unrealistic."

We share the view of the Scranton Commission on Campus Unrest that there is no justification for violence for any cause anywhere under any circumstance. Neither violent dissenters nor overreacting police have a place in our society.

But we must never forget that the violence-prone want revolution for its own sake. They are seeking to create a state of mind to make peaceful social change impossible.

They don't want reform. They want to create resistance to needed reform by spreading turmoil on the surface of our society. They want to make the rest of us their unwitting allies by turning us against peaceful social change on the ground that it would be appeasement.

Vigorous law enforcement is not appeasement.

Vigorous social reform is not appeasement.

They go hand in hand, and when they do the revolutionaries will be on the run, turmoil on the surface will be on the wane, and as a nation and as a people we will be better off.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

All For Saving Environment Unless It Costs A Buck

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — The common assumption is that the public is at last alerted to the long-range danger to our environment, and all that needs doing now is to enact the necessary safeguards to clean it up. But the evidence, from sea to smog-bound sea, is that it's not that simple.

On the contrary: industry, labor and even the consumer at large are going to be either hostile or indifferent to cleanup measures if there is the remotest chance that it will cost them a sale, a job or a buck.

This discouraging conclusion is clearly supported by decisions recently rendered by juries as diverse as the general population of the state of Washington and the House Ways and Means Committee here in Washington, D.C.

ON THE WEST Coast, the outdoorsman's paradise of mountains, forest and seashore known as Washington state is not a major sufferer from industrial pollution, at least not by the standards of those familiar with the dead rivers and lakes and reeking cities of the East and Midwest.

But the very attraction of the outdoors there caused the state to be victimized more than most by the postwar boom in throwaway cans and bottles. No place, from Mount Rainier to the isolated seacoast, was free of such litter. Unheeding outsiders so abused the 20-mile shoreline within the Quinault Indian Reservation, abutting Olympic National Park, that residents closed the area to all non-Indians.

The worsening situation had a fortuitous encounter with a man who thought something could be done about it. He was Robert Keller, a history professor in Bellingham, who took a student's idea for an experimental statewide ballot initiative and put it into politcial action. Enthusiasts young and old helped him gather more names on petitions to put the issue on the November ballot than were ever collected before in Washington history.

THE PROPOSAL was to require at least a 5-cent deposit on all soft drink and beer containers. Throwaway bottles and cans thus would be squeezed out. Both parties endorsed the initiative. A Republican survey showed public sympathy running 5-to-1 for it.

But in mid-October the opponents splashed a costly media campaign against it. Television, bumper stickers, skywriting — every technique was used to convince voters that the measure would cost jobs and cost money not only to beer and pop drinkers but to consumers of other products in throwaway packages. Keller says the opposition outspent the advocates by nearly 100-to-1 and that most of that cash came from the can and bottle industries, although organized labor opposed the proposal, too.

The initiative was overwhelmed by this spending. By a 52-48 per cent margin, Washingtonians turned it down. The heaviest anti-vote came in the Seattle-Tacoma area, where unemployment is running about 11 per cent because of the recession in aerospace industries.

Now Keller and other stubborn enthusiasts are trying to accomplish the same end through legislation. The bill to be introduced early next year at Olympia will clarify some of the questions opponents were able to raise against the initiative.

LOBBYING PRESSURE can be concentrated more effectively on legislation than on ballot initiatives, of course. It was one, but only one, reason why the House Ways and Means Committee killed the administration request for a $1.6 billion "anti-pollution" tax on leaded gasoline.

Labor and business both spoke against it. The ethyl people and the oil people were against it. It would hurt the consumer, cause more inflation and, besides cutting out lead, might not be the answer to smog after all, they argued.

By the time all the arguments were registered and administration experts admitted they had mishandled the bill tactically, the committee decided it was not even worthwhile to bring it to a record vote. The mishandling came when the administration assumed the bill's passage in making budget estimates for the current fiscal year — thus making it look more like a fiscal gimmick than a genuine environmental measure.

If what happened in Washington state and in the House committee is not to become a consistent pattern, public education and organization are going to have to offset the financial motivation and superior resources of those special interests. An occasional good-natured Earth Day in the spring won't do it.

Changes In Juvenile Justice Behind Current Marin Disputes

The growing squabble over Marin's juvenile court is partially a rift between Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, whose duties include acting as juvenile court judge, and other county officials, but is also the result of a changing concept in laws governing juveniles.

Recent high court decisions have changed the picture in juvenile criminal proceedings, where for many years youngsters were dealth withprimarily in paternalistic manner.

The U.S. Supreme Court is moving more in the direction of requiring adversary proceedings for juveniles, the same as in adult courts, where there is a prosecutor, defense attorney and judge. The only right juveniles do not have now is that of a jury trial and that may be coming, although there has been no move to make juvenile proceedings open to the public.

THE NEW TREND has made for more and more "contested" hearings, as they are known in the courts, where the juvenile's guilt is proved or disproved the same as in adult courts. Of course, this takes a lot longer than for a judge simply to look into a matter with the assistance of a probation officer.

This trend, along with population increase and increased crime rate, is swamping our juvenile court. Judge Gardiner has been assisted by two volunteer referees for over two years, but one of these men, no longer serving as referee, says that when he agreed to work as a referee without pay, he was spending eight or 10 hours a week at the job. At the end it had risen to 40 hours, according to Jack L. Blaine.

It seems awfully optimistic to expect this kind of a work load to continue to be born by volunteers, despite Judge Gardiner's contention that it can. It would seem that the county will soon have ot hire a full-time referee for juvenile court.

The alternative would be to assign one of superior court judges to handle only juvenile matters, a proposal which would seem impractical considering how far behind the courts are now with adult matters.

SPEAKING OF juvenile court judge, we came across a bit of advice recently given by a juvenile court judge in an eastern state (unnamed in the publication we read) which seemed relevant for youngsters all over the country:

"Always we hear the plaintive cry of the teen-ager: 'What can we do? Where can we go?" The answer is clear: Go home!

"Hang the storm-windows, paint the woodwork, rake the leaves, mow the lawn, wash the car, learn to cook, scrub some floors, repair the sink build a boat, get a job, visit the sick, assist the poor, study your lessons, and when you are through and not too tired, read a book.

"Your parents do not owe you entertainment, your city or village does not owe you a living: you owe the world something — your time and your energy and talents.

"In plain, simple words: Grow up! Quit being a cry baby. Get out of your dream world and develop a backbone, and start acting like a man or woman. You're supposed to be mature enough to accept some of the responsibilities that your parents carried for years. They have nursed, protected, helped, appealed, begged, excused, tolerated, and denied themselves needed comfort so you could have every benefit . . . In heaven's name, grow up and go home."

Boy Slaughtered In Sacrifice

NEW DEHLI (UPI) — A four-year-old boy was slaughtered as a sacrifice to the pastoral goddess Mamai in a small rural community in the Junagadh coastal district of Gujarat, State Chief Minister Hitendra Desai said Saturday.

He told the legislative assembly in Ahmedabad the murder was carried out by the Rabari Bikha Sang at Amdora village, Sept. 26.

The community head has been arrested and will be prosecuted, Desai said.

Opera Star Hurt In Shooting Scene

MILAN, Italy (UPI)—Soprano Renata Scotto suffered a mild leg burn Sunday during rehearsals for the opening of the La Scala opera season Dec. 7 when a blank cartridge was fired very close to her.

The accident happened during rehearsals of the closing scene of Giuseppe Verdi's "Sicilian Vespers" a scene in which numerous shots are fired.

Coast Guard, State Dispute On Defection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department says a Lithuanian sailor who tried to defect to a U.S. Coast Guard cutter off New England last week was not automatically eligible for asylum; but it claims it was unaware the Coast Guard had decided to let the Russians come aboard the U.S. vessel and drag the man back to his ship.

Witnesses later reported the seaman, a radio operator identified only as "Simas," was beaten and kicked by his Soviet captors, and Coast Guard crewmen stood by without interfering — despite the man's pleas for help on bended knees.

The incident took place one week ago, inside U.S. territorial waters off Martha's Vineyard. The cutter, carrying representatives of the U.S. commercial fishing industry, had met the Soviet fishing ship to discuss the level of fishing for yellow-tailed flounder in the North Atlantic.

A State Department spokesman indicated the government regarded the fishing talks as a serious matter, and the problem of determining whether man should be granted asylum had to be considered against that background. The spokesman said it was by no means automatic the decision would have been favorable to the seaman, who hurled himself from his ship to the deck of the cutter.

The Coast Guard claimed it had appraised the State Department of the entire situation. It claimed State Department assistance was never offered, but the State Department said it didn't get a chance to give any advice.

Old Radical Saul Alinsky Voices Scorn For New Left

By LOUIS CASSELS, UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) —That doughty old radical Saul Alinsky has taken a hard look at the New Left and finds it unimpressive.

Alinsky has been twisting the Establishment's tail for 30 years and has an old pro's scorn for dilettantes. When he says the New Leftists are not serious revolutionaries, merely play-actors, that's the most withering judgment he could pass on them.

NO ONE HAS ever accused Saul Alinsky of play-acting about social reform. In his long and turbulent career as an organizer of the poor and powerless, he has proved that he knows how to achieve results—and that he's willing to do it the hard way.

And those are precisely the grounds on which he faults the young red-hots who are going around striking revolutionary poses these days.

In the first place, he says, they aren't doing any good for the cause of social injustice. In fact, they're harming that cause.

"The Weathermen should be getting paid by the extreme right for the work they do," he says, with a snort of disgust. "Any real revolutionary party would execute them as dangerous counter-revolutionaries."

The bombings and other acts of terrorism in which the Weathermen take pride are merely stiffening the resistance of society to meaningful change, as Alinsky sees it. Instead of "radicalizing the masses," extremist acts are driving the great majority of middle-class Americans into the arms of conservative politicians who skillfully exploit the public's fears in order to stifle genuine reform.

IF COLLEGE students are seriously interested in changing society, Alinsky says, they will stop thumbing their noses at their own middle-class origins and begin to capitalize on the fact that they belong by birth to the class which wields real power in America.

"The middle class college kids could be the key to the whole situation, because they have access to the power that's denied to the blacks and the poor."

But to use that power effectively, they must stop wallowing in revolutionary rhetoric about "tearing down the whole rotten system" and buckle down to work. That means "getting into organizations, building power, and tackling specific objectives."

"Either you deal with the specific problems of society—such as racism in building trades unions—or you talk in generalities about 'changing the system' and wind up talking to yourself," he says.

BLACK MILITANTS as well as young middle-class whites sabotage their own cause when they try to use violence as a shortcut to "instant change," Alinsky says.

"It is sheer folly for the Black Panthers to rely on the power of guns when the other side has all the guns."

The greatest mistake which activists of either race can make, in Alinsky's view, is to think that significant change cannot be achieved within the existing American system.

Although few are more outspoken than he about the shortcomings of that system, Alinsky knows from experience that it can be made to respond to the real needs of people, including the poor and seemingly powerless members of society.

"Fifty years ago, you would have thought it would take a revolution to bring about such things as Social Security, medicare, unemployment insurance, or many other things which we have in America today," he says. "These things were not accomplished by people mouthing about revolution, but by people who were willing to persevere in the hard work of achieving reforms, one at a time, the hard way, the only way."

Solzhenitsyn Fear

MOSCOW (UPI) — Novelist Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn, in a statement made available Monday, said he decided not to go to Stockholm to receive his Nobel prize for literature because he feared the Soviets would bar his return to Russia.

Why thousands of Americans will spend $6,700 for a Mercedes-Benz that's three feet shorter than American luxury cars.

At Mercedes-Benz, we define luxury a bit differently than most automobile makers.

To our way of thinking, size for the sake of size is not luxury. It is waste.

If adding an inch to a Mercedes-Benz won't contribute to some function, Mercedes-Benz engineers won't add it.

Eric Dahlquist, in a recent issue of Motor Trend, commented on the size of the American luxury car.

"Stunned by such mass, the passenger enters to find that size does not equate with room..."

The Mercedes-Benz 250 Sedan is three feet shorter than the shortest of the domestic luxury sedans.

Yet it is a curious fact that the 250 concedes almost nothing inside.

"Though not a particularly big car, the accommodation is well-planned and quite roomy enough for consideration by the chauffeur-driven executive." —Motor

The engineer is king

A Mercedes-Benz is as different from a domestic luxury car as automobiles, each with four wheels and an engine in front, can be.

Mercedes-Benz is one of the few automobile makers left in the world where the engineer is still king.

Design decisions are made by an engineer, not a styling whiz or a marketing wizard. At Mercedes-Benz, the engineering department still tells the sales department when a new model is ready.

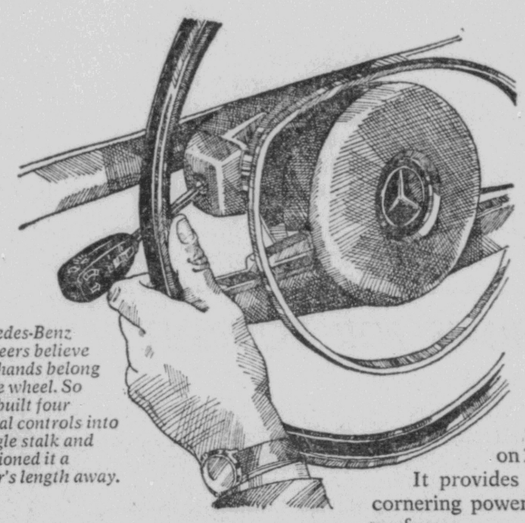
The result is an automobile that has been built to an engineering ideal.

And an automobile that is fundamentally different than any built in the States.

From oddity to necessity

To the uninitiated, this approach may appear to have disadvantages.

Your first time behind the wheel of a Mercedes-Benz is likely to produce a vague sense of disorientation.



Mercedes-Benz engineers believe both hands belong on the wheel. So they built four critical controls into a single stalk and positioned it a finger's length away.

In its recommended position, the seat seems too far from the wheel. And it's too unyielding to be called "luxurious."

But that strange seat position lets you drive with the wheel at arm's length and your back firmly against the seat's. And that gives you better control.

The "unyielding" seat, it turns out, was designed by orthopedic surgeons to give firm support. You'll appreciate it more after seven hundred miles than you do after seven.

If you press the floor switch to get your high beams, you'll get a squirt in the windshield instead.

That's because a curious-looking stalk, positioned precisely a finger's length from the wheel, embodies four different controls.

High and low beams, turn signals, windshield wipers, and their two-speed control all can be operated without taking your hands from the wheel. Or your eyes from the road.

Such oddities, admittedly, take some getting used to. But there's a reason for every one. And, before you know it, the oddities have become necessities.

No domestic sedan...

It is at the wheel a man discovers the performance characteristics that make Mercedes-Benz unique among the world's motor cars. Mercedes-Benz engineers believe that a car's abilities should be limited only by road and conditions—not by its own design. Every Mercedes-Benz has fully independent suspension front and rear. A design concept used, without exception, on 200-mph grand prix cars.

It provides the maximum possible cornering power over a variety of road surfaces.

No domestic sedan has it.

Every Mercedes-Benz is equipped with four massive disc brakes. Standard, not optional. Because, to our way of thinking, it's unthinkable to relegate the best brakes you can build to the option list.

No domestic sedan has them on all four wheels.

And every Mercedes-Benz has a steering system so precisely balanced that the car seeks a straight path on its own.

No domestic sedan can match it.

Even the Grand Mercedes 600, a three-ton limousine, notes Motor Trend, "...will outrun and outmaneuver many sports cars."

Join the club

But the final word on the distinction between Mercedes-Benz and domestic luxury cars belongs to a group of Mercedes-Benz owners.

Owners so enthusiastic that they've formed thirty-two chapters of the Mercedes-Benz Club of America.

Each year they hold more than 60 local competitions and 3 national rallies.

It's their opportunity, in performance events, to extend their cars to the limits of which a Mercedes-Benz is capable.

Not everyone joins the club.

Our 250 Sedan. The editors of Motor Trend magazine called it "...the most controllable high-speed sedan we've tested."

Mercedes-Benz owners who rally their cars are a relatively small share of our owners. But, then, no domestic luxury car even has a club.

$6,700?

Our pursuit of engineering ideals has placed Mercedes-Benz automobiles among the world's most costly.

The suggested retail price of the Mercedes-Benz 250 Sedan, with automatic transmission, is $6,343†.

With such popular options as power steering, white sidewall tires, and radio with rear-seat speaker, you can spend over $6,700.

And thirteen of our models cost more, including the 300SEL 6.3—dubbed by Road & Track "merely the world's greatest sedan..."—at $15,958†.

But if your tastes do not run to the conventional luxury car, we think you'll find Mercedes-Benz automobiles well worth the price you pay.

Any luxury car can look good in the country club driveway. Mercedes-Benz looks good in places like Lime Rock, Road America and Laguna Seca.

And if you'll fill out the coupon below, we'll send you our least expensive production. A full-color Mercedes-Benz brochure, absolutely free.

Blastoff Near For Orbiting Telescope

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The U.S. Space Agency readied the world's largest space telescope for launch at sunset today to give astronomers their clearest view yet of distant stars and galaxies.

The $83 million Stargazer, third of four automated Orbiting Astronomical Observatories (OAO), was to be propelled into a 466-mile high orbit by an Atlas-Centaur rocket. Everything was reported proceeding smoothly toward a 5:30 p.m. EST blastoff.

The 4,680-pound spacecraft is considered the most complex unmanned satellite built by the United States and its 38-inch diameter Cassegrainian telescope is the most powerful to be placed in space.

Operating from above Earth's hazy atmosphere, the satellite will be able to observe heretofore unseen detail of stars and galaxies deep in the universe. It is expected to be able to see stars eight times fainter than those seen by the 16-inch telescope in OAO 2, launched two years ago.

The primary objective of the new spacecraft is to study the ultraviolet light emitted by unusually hot stars. These stars have a relatively brief life span —measured in millions of years —and can be seen from space in all stages of development. The view is blocked from ground observatories by Earth's atmosphere.

Those orbital observations are expected to tell astronomers more about the birth, life and death of stars.

Artificial Turf Is On Agenda

The Fairfax School District board, meeting tomorrow at 7:45 p.m. at the district office, will reconsider purchase of artificial turf for school playgrounds.

The board, at an earlier meeting, approved $300 for ground cover which is similar to Astroturf but contains air pockets to prevent injury from falls. However, a later estimate for the cover was about $800.

The board will also hear reports on enrollment and the county's project on performance objectivies for students.

Sandbags Come In Very Handy

EASTBOURNE, England (UPI) — The sandbags and World War I helmet Bill Bailey keeps in his wine cellar come in handy when he makes a batch of wine.

"I make wine from all kinds of fruits and vegetables," Bailey said. "Grape wine is the most dangerous. The bottles sometimes blow up."

Bailey crouches behind the sandbags and wears the helmet when handling bottles of his product.

Indian Leader In Hospital —Head Pains

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Richard Oakes, Indian leader who was hit on the head with a pool cue during a tavern fight last June, was admitted to Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital on Sunday because of head pains.

Joe Morris, a member of the Alcatraz Indian movement, said Oakes complained of a severe headache.

"I think he bumped his head when he was getting out of a car and they took him to the hospital when he got a bad headache," Morris declared.

Other than to say Oakes "seemed to be in fair condition," a hospital spokesman would not comment.

Oakes, a Mohawk who was one of the leaders in the year-long Indian occupation of Alcatraz Island in San Francisco Bay, suffered a lengthy coma because of the tavern brawl injuries.

He was arrested last week near Santa Rosa when officers said he attempted to charge motorists a $1 toll to drive through a Pomo Indian reservation and is free on his own recognizance.

Police arrested a Samoan in connection with the tavern fight.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Stark Contrast In Sunday Fare

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A vivid illustration of how network television, as a mass medium, tries to be all things to all people was offered on NBC-TV Sunday night in two back-to-back programs with wholly different social orientations.

First came a much-publicized, enormously expensive 90-minute special called "Swing Out, Land," with John Wayne as the host of numerous stars who took part in comedy and musical segments keyed to the theme of American history.

Following this came the second hour of a two-part episode of "The Bold Ones" in which a special commission, headed by an idealistic U.S. senator (Hal Holbrook), investigated two student deaths stemming from a campus confrontation with the National Guard—a tale clearly based on the Kent State incident.

To no one's surprise, "Swing Out, Sweet Land" had a traditional patriotic tone throughout. There were several small surprises, however. I mean, who ever imagined that a John Wayne special would include a segment in which Tom Smothers joined in on "God Bless America"?

"Swing Out, Sweet Land" is the latest and most elaborate of an increasing number of network video specials extolling the virtues of America, a program trend that has unquestionably taken shape since "silent majority" became a household term.

As an entertainment offering, the Wayne outing is certain to get blockbuster rating results for there was a huge cast that included Jack Benny, Lucille Ball, Bob Hope, Red Skelton, Ann-Margret, Lorne Greene, Dan Blocker Bing Crosby, Johnny Cash, Dean Martin, and Leslie Uggams, to name a few.

"The Bold Ones," meanwhile, wound up its two-parter by continuing to use the "Rashomon"-style storyteiling technique in which the various principals testifying before the commission—the governor, the commander of the guard, etc.—gave differing versions of what happened.

In the end, the commission found virtually no one blameless, including the guard, which it felt acted with excessive force—and recommended a grand jury investigation. As a dramatic entry, the two-parter offered some powerful acting by Holbrook and his colleagues, and some blistering scriptwriting by David W. Rintels.

One wonders: Did the people who watched "Swing Out, Sweet Land" also watch the two-parter on "The Bold Ones"? And did those who watched "The Bold Ones" watch "Swing Out, Sweet Land"? It's a big country, and the two programs Sunday night showed just how big and complex.

Fulbright: Pentagon Misrepresents Facts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and the Pentagon misrepresented the facts about American raids in North Vietnam the weekend of Nov. 21, says Sen. J. William Fulbright.

Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Sunday handling of information on the raids was part of "the process" by which "the military establishment runs nearly the whole country."

"They misrepresent the facts ... and they do it all the time," Fulbright said. He appeared on the television program "Face the Nation —CBS."

Laird appeared Tuesday before the Foreign Relations Committee but did not mention air strikes were conducted in connection with an American commando raid on a camp for U.S. prisoners near Hanoi. The bombing later was disclosed by the Pentagon.

"Then as it was revealed by the press and others, then they admitted" there was some bombing near Hanoi in connection with the raids, Fulbright said.

ACLU Seeks Vote At Kent State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio is preparing a court suit to force Portage County officials to permit Kent State University students of voting age to vote in local elections.

ACLU executive director Benson Wolman said Sunday local officials require students to prove an intent to settle permanently in the community as a condition to voter registration.

Thus, Wolman said, Kent students are forbidden "the right to have a voice in determining who makes the laws, who administers the laws, who sits in judgment and who is eligible to serve on juries."

TRAINING PEREGRINES

Their Only Food Source

By PAT EALMES

Talons spread, the falcon streaks to the girl's glove for a bit of meat. The falconer balances her bird of prey on her wrist, clenching its leather tresses, while it greedily devours its reward. Kim Hallatt smiles. Her young bird will soon be hunting for her.

The 21-year-old animal trainer carefully inspects the feathers for damage and carries the bird back to its wooden block. Again the falcon crouches, glaring at Kim's empty glove as the girl walks backward playing out 10, 20, 30 feet of nylon line, called creance, tied to the jesses. Again a morsel is put in the glove and immediately the small brown peregrine hits the fist.

Kim's blonde hair blows in the wind at Phoenix Lake's dam where she daily trains her two peregrines in the lost art of falconry, practiced by ancient Persians, Chinese and Arabs. Kim is teaching her peregrines to regard her as their only food source. She often spends two or three hours a day taming her male and female eyasses (birds taken from the nest and taught to hunt by man instead of their wild parents). Fully trained, the rare peregrines are valued at $1,000 each.

A professional dog trainer and graduate of College of Marin, freckled, blue-eyed Kim wants a career in wild life management or animal psychology. In January she plans to go to Humboldt State College to study these subjects. Eventually, she may work at a wild life preserve or further her interest in zoo animal's psychological disorders. "I want to get out of rat and chimpanzee studies and work with other kinds of animals," explains the student.

"I'M INTERESTED in DDT and how it effects animals' behavior, especially peregrines. There are probably not 50 left in the United States," guesses Kim. Like the condor and the brown pelican, the peregrines have been practically wiped out as a breeding population because of the concentration of DDT in fish or birds which feed on fish, according to the animal trainer.

"Peregrines are protected by California state law. "It's illegal to rob a nest. Federal law required hunters to study the peregrine's silhoutte, but they shoot everything!" the girl says bitterly.

At College of Marin, Kim made a psychological-conditioning film for a psychology course starring a black-collared hawk from South America. Kerry had been with Kim during her freshman year at Pacific University in Oregon. "Kerry liked the snow, but not the optometry students who were constantly peering into her huge retina with their instruments," says Kim, adding our eyes would have to weigh five pounds to be in the same proportion to our bodies as hawks' eyes are to theirs. Next Kerry accompanied Kim to summer school at San Francisco State. "Where I went, my bird went. Kerry could pick me out of a crowd coming out of a store in the middle of Stonestown." Kerry was one of the half-dozen birds Kim has trained, including an eagle.

"I could only hold up the white-crested eagle half an hour at a time to work with him. He weighed eight pounds," says the young woman who kept her distance from the eagle until she established herself in its mind as its food source. She carefully kept it away from her face.

Between the ages of eight and 16, Kim raised homing pigeons. She was the only girl in the club. Peregrines were an obstacle in a pigeon race. "How I hated them, but how I admired them! If one of my pigeons was late, I knew what had happened. A peregrine or hawk hit him," she remembers.

WHEN KIM told her parents in Berkeley that she wanted a peregrine, they weren't too worried. "They thought, 'She won't be able to buy one in Berkeley'," she grins. But Kim was able to secure a pair of eyasses at $300 each from a Colorado animal supplier.

Their mew (hawk house) is far from homes. The noise of their cries and whistles of defiance and hunger at Kim's approach are so loud they drown out conversation. The mew, made of wire mesh to keep raccoons out, is lined with mosquito netting to prevent breakage or precious feathers. According to her falconer's license, she may keep only two hunting birds.

For the past three months, Kim has been manning the peregrins; handling them to calm and stabalize them for hunting. You can't teach a nervous bird to hunt," explains the trainer. When an untrained bird of prey is frightened or sees a quarry it may bat off the wrist; hysterically beating its wings while hanging upside down by the jesses.

Her students have different personalities. The female (falcon), Pride, is more sophisticated. The smaller male (tiersel), Reor, hits harder and is more skillful. Peregrines beat their wings four times a second and are capable of a 180 to 200 mile per hour dive (stoop). In the wild a tiersel would flush a pheasant, quail or duck twice its size by swooping 10 feet above the ground, while the falcon waits on, circling 1,000 feet above to stoop upon the escaping bird in flight.

In the wild, peregrines can do only limited hunting during their three to six months molt. This accounts for the high mortality rate during their first year, she said. Kim spends a dollar a day to keep each peregrine in meat-rewards. Because their pointed wings make them swoopers and divers of open spaces, peregrines cannot maneuver among trees.

WHEN BOTH birds are flying to Kim from the end of the 100 foot creance, she will advance them to a lure. As Kim spins the football shape, decorated with pheasant wings and a bit of meat at the head, around her and whistles, the divers will hit the lure at 100 miles an hour. They will learn to leave their kill and come back to Kim for their food-reward.

The first freedom from the creance will be allowed only when the birds are hungry, so they will only think of food on the lure and not fly away. Bells will be attached to their legs, however, in case they are lost.

Kim contrasts sport with art, saying there is no place for competition in the art of falconry. "A falconer prefers to hunt along with a dog to flush quarry," she explains.

Walking back to the mew after a session at the dam, Kim is followed by her elkhound, Thor. "I was one of those little kids who want to put their arms around a dog," explains the trainer. Currently she is training individual dogs on the busy Ross Common.

THOR MADE Kim's reputation as a dog trainer. At 16 she trained him in an obedience class at Berkeley High School and took him to her first dog show. Out of a possible 200 obedience points, Thor got 200 and took home six trophies in different classes. Kim's elkhound was the highest scoring elkhound in obedience that year in the United States.

Kim loves dogs, but is demanding. "People who train dogs have to more objective. A trainer can't think that his dog doesn't make mistakes," she explains.

"A good many people I have known own a dog as an object. They just have a dog to have a dog. When their dog is trained to know what is expected of

"MY PEREGRINES wouldn't know me in a skirt," claims falconer Kim Hallatt as she walks to the mew after a training session at Phoenix Lake's dam. Her falcon and tiersel peregrines, when fully trained, are valued at $1,000. They are threatened with extinction. "There may be only 50 peregrines, including captives, in the United States," says Kim.

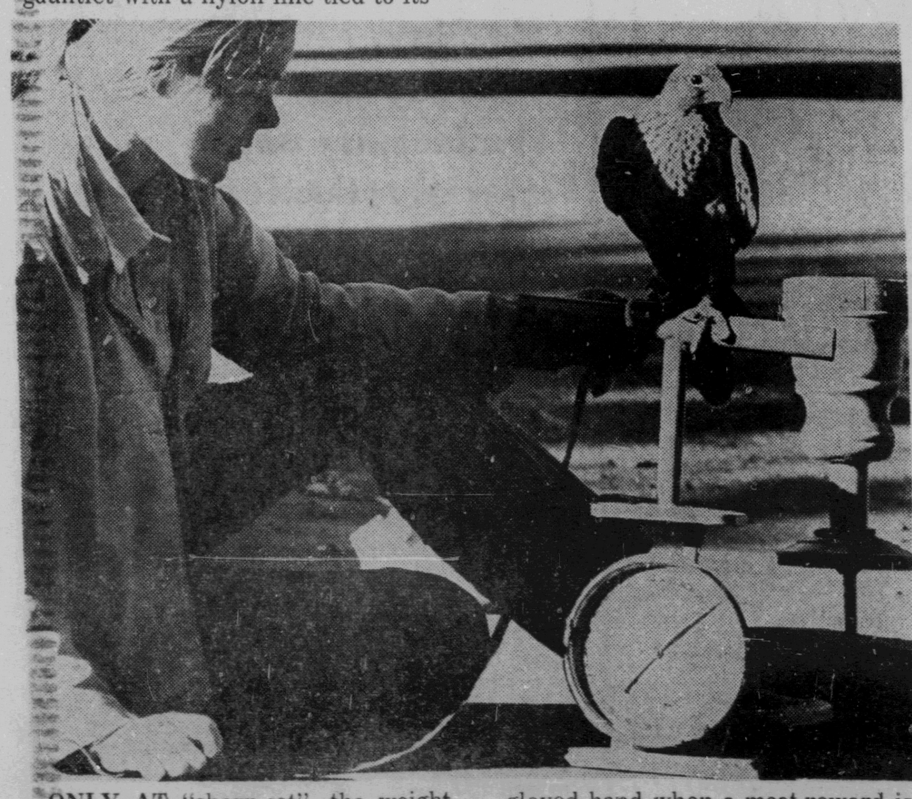
FLASHING CHOCOLATE and tan barred feathers, a female peregrine, called falcon, learns hunting from Kim Hallatt. The young bird of prey flies from a wooden block to Kim's gauntlet with a nylon line tied to its leg. When Kim establishes herself in the bird's mind as its only food source, the falcon will fly to her without bonds when she whistles or spins a lure.



ONLY AT "sharp-set", the weight at which the falcon is keen and hungry, will the bird fly quickly from its wooden block (right) to Kim's gloved hand when a meat-reward is offered. Here Kim sees 1.69 pounds register on the special scale beneath the perch.

Parents Shouldn't Be Overly Generous At Christmastime

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — It is the "think toy" season throughout the land. Pre-Christmas buying accounts for the major jangles of cash registers in toy departments, with 1970 sales expected to exceed 1969's record $2 billion-plus.

Now comes a consultant for the world's largest manufacturer of playthings with a suggestion for dotting parents, other relatives and friends. Spread your toy dollars through the year. The rewards for the children will be greater enjoyment.

Jerri Jorgensen, a parent of a girl of 8 and boy of 17 as well as a toy consultant, puts her suggestion this way:

"I always advise parents not to be overly generous at Christmas. Toy purchases should be year-round planning.

"A PARENT WILL tell me, 'I spent $200 at Christmas on that kid and in July he complains he has nothing to play with' . . ."

What parents and others forget in the holiday rush is that a child's tastes and interests change as he develops, she said.

One major error in selection is the over-estimation of interest and ability span, she said. Mrs. Jorgensen, wife of an aerospace engineer, David Jorgensen, cited her 8-year-old daughter's fascination with puzzles of all kinds including jigsaws. So one holiday, the Jorgensens shot the works and gave her one of the giant jigsaws with "1000 or so pieces."

It overwhelmed the child. She came in one day to announce that "This is a rotten game."

Mrs. Jorgensen recommends a "balanced toy box," especially for the early years. It would include a ball, a wheel toy, a doll for boys, maybe an astronaut doll, a toy to cuddle, a puzzle or put-together toy, and books — "most children love books."

BUT LET children have a hand in deciding what they want for "making decisions, saying 'yes' or 'no' all are part of growing," she continued.

Jerri Jorgensen grew up in San Bernadino, and is a graduate of Valley College. A trim brunette, she still looks like a coed although the record shows solid experience in marketing, especially in the youth field.

She came to Mattel, Inc., five years ago as adviser and roving ambassador with the Hawthorne, Calif., firm which

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Why The Father Of The Bride Has Decided He's For Trial Marriage

DEAR HELEN:

I was rabidly against trial marriages or five-year renewable marriage contracts, until. . .

Our daughter got married to the tune of about $2,500 out of poor old pop's pocket.

Now, she is getting a divorce, less than a year later, and guess who's paying through the nose again.

We were almost sure it wasn't going to work, but you can't tell lovesick girls anything. Had she decided for a "trial" arrangement the wedding would never have happened. More important, there would have been none of this bitter feuding and the "failure complex" our daughter now has. At the end of the year (perhaps before) they would simply have agreed they weren't right for each other. Sure, there'd be tears and angry words, but not such lasting scars.

In these times, when nothing seems permanent, I vote for an end to elaborate weddings and "forever" vows that seldom are. — FATHER OF THE DIVORCED BRIDE

DEAR FATHER:

You have lots of company, from Margaret Mead to a growing number of young people.

Comments anyone? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Today I saw my estranged wife. I scarcely recognized her, for she had on makeup, her hair was fixed up, and she looked sharp. She even had a smile on her face, something I seldom saw when we were 'together.

I'm not excusing myself. I stepped out, and she had a right to leave. But maybe if she had looked the way she did today, more often, I might not have looked elsewhere.

At any rate, I was a fool and I want her back. She seems agreeable, but I don't want things as they were before. If I'm willing to sign a document stating that I won't chase other women, do you suppose she'd sign one promising to keep her weight down and her appearance up? — WANTS TO MAKE IT LEGAL AND BINDING

DEAR WTMILAB:

Why not? And while you're at it, how about a written agreement that each will make every effort to see the other's side? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You won't believe this, but my 73-year-old husband is becoming a dirty old man. He chases every woman who comes to our house, then denies it.

Not that he'd be a threat if he caught one, but it's very embarrassing, especially when there are teen-aged girls around and he begins to act silly, patting them, and flirting with them.

He even kisses our granddaughter with more than grandfatherly affection. If I tell the family about this, they wouldn't believe me, or they'd brush it off as "sentimental old age."

What can I do? — ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED:

It probably is about half "sentimental old age," the other half regret for things past. Inasmuch as your husband is "no threat," why not try to understand. I'm sure others do. — H.

him, there is much more full communication between the two." Dismayed at owners who put barriers in their cars to separate them from their ill-mannered, noisy dogs, Kim says, "All the owner has to do is get across that this is not good behavior."

Contrasting her method to fear training, such as military training, Kim plans a pleasant routine for her student dog, allowing leeway for his mood. She works with an individual dog alone daily and with his owner once a week. "A dog has as many psychological hang-ups as a child. Some dogs should not be with some owners," she warns. "If you have a nervous person, you have a nervous, flighty dog."

"As far as I am concerned, a person who lets his dog run loose is no more fit to own a dog than he would be a fit parent if he did not know where his child was. A domestic dog is a major responsibility.

Kathy Moriarty Is Wed To James Kummer In Tiburon

Kathy Moriarty became the bride of James Kummer Nov. 21 in a ceremony at St. Hilary's Catholic Church in Tiburon. A reception followed at the Tiburon home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Moriarty.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Alvin Simon of San Rafael, and Celeste Pries of San Rafael and the bride's sister, Elizabeth Ann (Missy) Moriarty, were bridesmaids.

Bernard Bernhardt of San Mateo was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by Bill Bernhardt of San Mateo and the bride's brothers, John and Kerry Moriarty.

Kathy was graduated from Redwood High School and College of Marin and is employed by Pacific Telephone Co. in San Francisco. Mrs. John Moriarty of San Francisco is her grandmother.

James is the son of Alex Kummer of Cheyenne, Wyo., and Mrs. T. M. Van Wart of Mountain View. He is a graduate of San Mateo High School and College of San Mateo. The bridegroom is employed by Peninsula Office Supply Co. in Redwood City.

The couple will live in San Mateo when they return from a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe.

Government Book Compares The Performance of 1971 Model Cars

By ARTHUR E. ROWE

WASHINGTON — A little-publicized set of books just published by the U.S. Department of Transportation contains valuable details about the performance ability of 1971 automobiles.

From these publications, potential buyers can compare all brands and models for acceleration and stopping ability under uniform conditions. The books also indicate a tire safety factor: the ability of recommended tires to carry loads beyond the recommended capacity.

The federal government is interested in these matters because of their relationship to automobile safety. The buyer, of course, would also have to consider other safety features plus such things as price, size, comfort, color and engine power.

THE LATEST books include the second edition of one published earlier this year, too late for most buyers of 1970 models.

Neither edition is easy to use. The first edition was such a confusing mass of data that Sen. Philip A. Hart, (D-Mich.), who received the first copy at a public hearing, chided the government for issuing such a hodge-podge of statistics.

The new edition is still confusing, but government officials have made an attempt to help buyers by publishing two auxiliary booklets containing rankings of all models for stopping ability and tire safety margins.

The book on stopping ability, for example, shows foreign cars taking the first 12 ranks among 74 listed.

FIGURES IN the books are not results of official government tests. They are supplied and certified by auto manufacturers.

Stopping ability is indicated by the number of feet necessary for a car to stop without skidding from a speed of 60 miles per hour under certain load and pavement conditions.

Pickup ability is shown by the number of feet and seconds necessary for a car to pass a truck under two speed conditions: from 20 to 35 miles per hours and from 50 to 80 miles per hour.

Tire safety margin is the excess carrying capacity of factory-equipped tires beyond their recommended load capacity. The margin is expressed in percentage terms and called "tire reserve load."

MOST CARS are equipped at the factory with tires just capable of carrying the maximum capacity or very little more. Tire reserve load margins fall mostly in the range of 0 to 5 per cent.

But for most models, more than one tire size is listed with its recommended pressure in pounds per square inch. Thus, a safety conscious buyer can compare tires in this regard by merely consulting the book.

The principal book, listing performance data for all three categories, is entitled "Performance Date for 1971 Passenger Cars and Motorcycles." It can be purchased for $2 from the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20240. (New car dealers are required to carry such data only for the cars they sell.)

The booklet of rankings for brake efficiency, "A Comparison of Braking Performance," sells for 20 cents also from the GPO, as does the other booklet of rankings, "A Comparison of Tire Reserve Loads."

For a digest of these listings for more than 40 American cars by model, send 20 cents in stamps to Consumer News Inc., 813 National Press Building, Washington, D.C., 20004.

ON THE AGENDA

Clipped Wings Is Among Groups Planning Parties Saturday Night

Saturday evening will be party time for several Marin organizations. The Clipped Wings Chapter of Marin, former airline stewardesses, will have the annual Christmas cocktail party for members and their husbands on Saturday at the home of the Robert P. Galloways in Novato. Guests will arrive at 8:30 p.m. bearing small gifts. Each couple will draw a number to determine their turn to select a gift. Then a timer is set and all can trade their gifts with each other until the time limit runs out.

Mrs. David Graves of Novato is social chairman for the event.

IT WILL BE a wine tasting party and art auction Saturday, beginning at 7:30 p.m. for Marin County Chapter of Women's American ORT. The festivities will be held at Congregation Rodef Sholom, 170 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

Framed paintings, lithographs and engravings owned by the R. Sills Galleries of Los Angeles will be auctioned. Proceeds will go to the ORT program for vocational training and education by 650 schools in 22 countries.

"THE HOLIDAY BALL," the Outdoor Art Club's ninth annual dinner-dance heralding the Christmas season will be held on Saturday at the clubhouse in Mill Valley.

The ways and means event, planned by chairman Mrs. J. Harvey Mielenz, will be under the direction of Mrs. Vincent White.

Festivities will start at 7 p.m. with a social hour, with past president Mrs. Edward Johnson and Mr. Johnson in charge. President Mrs. Earl Reinke and Mr. Reinke will welcome members and guests. Other past presidents and their husbands assisting will be Messrs. and Mmes. J. Paul Hurd and Joseph Brewster.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keane will prepare and serve at 8 p.m. their traditional roast beef dinner. Dancing to the music of an orchestra will complete the evening.

Other chairmen are Mmes. George Kahler, decorations; Fred Wight, table settings; and Ernest Brymer, serving. Mrs. Richard Sloan is reservations chairman.

AN INTERNATIONAL bazaar and festival will be held at the United Methodist Church, 9 Ross Valley Drive, San Rafael from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

Features will be new and hand-crafted articles including numerous driftwood items, needlework, toys, stationary, candles, Christmas ornaments, home decorations, home-made chutneys jellies, mincemeat, breads, cakes, cookies, candies, plants, jewelry, selected white elephant gifts, used tools and hobby items, and Christmas trappings of all kinds.

Hot luncheon and family-style dinner will be served on Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. On Saturday a salad-bar luncheon will be served. Home-made refreshments will be available during other hours.

Sponsor is the Women's Society of Christian Service. As an international service organization, WSCS works in many countries. The decor and gift items of the bazaar will carry out this international service theme and attendants will be in costume.

THE TROJAN Boosters of Terra Linda High School will hold a rummage and bake sale on Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the school cafeteria. The Associated Girl Students and senior girls will also participate with tables featuring cookbooks, Christmas cookies and candles.

Proceeds from the sale will assist all athletic teams sponsored by Terra Linda High School.

THE ZONTA Club of Marin will present its annual Christmas luncheon Wednesday beginning at 11:30 a.m. at Dominic's Restaurant in San Rafael. Special guests at the luncheon will be some of the foreign students from College of Marin and Dominican College.

Greeting members and guests at the event will be Mrs. Anne Ciampi, Zonta Club president.

A BEGINNER square dance will be given by the Petaluma Whirlers and Ph.Ds Square Dance Clubs Saturday evening at Kenilworth Junior High School in Petaluma. Ray Wester announces that all beginners and their callers are invited to the dance.

The two square dance clubs will merge to form one club at the beginning of the new year. The new club will be called the Petaluma Adobe Squares, with Ralph Thomas the caller. Sponsor will be the City of Petaluma Recreation Department.

THE NORTH Bay Dairy Women will meet tomorrow at Sonoma Joe's in Petaluma. A social hour will be held at 11:30 a.m. followed by lunch at noon.

Reservations chairmen are Mmes. Irving Nahmens, Santa Rosa; Jack Dei, Sebastopol, and Newton Peterson, Petaluma.

THE DIARY Women also are leading a citizens group in sponsoring a testimonial dinner in honor of E.L. (Ned) Davis Jr. A former Petaluma Chamber of Commerce manager Davis is now director of the Petaluma City Schools' work experience program. The dinner will be held Wednesday at the Green Mill Inn in Cotati at 8 p.m. Cocktails will precede the prime rib entre beginning at 6:30 p.m. Reservations chairman is Mrs. Carl Hadermann or the Petaluma Chamber of Commerce.

AN OPEN meeting for mothers of young boys, ages 9 thru 15 interested in baseball, is being planned by the Women's Auxiliary of the American Little League of Petaluma Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Petaluma Boys Club. Election of officers, adoption of by-laws and a discussion of the formation of a senior little league is slated. Mrs. Richard Stephens, president, states that in an effort to keep pace with the area's rapid growth the league is making plans to increase the number of teams for players ages 9 thru 12 from eight major and eight minor teams to twelve each. The senior league would include ages 13 thru 15.

PETALUMA WOMAN'S Club will meet tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. for their annual Koffee Klatch. Program chairman Mrs. Leroy Jewett said music will follow a continental breakfast and short business meeting. Mrs. Elmo Garzelli and Mrs. William Barboni co-chairmen said members will bring donations of canned goods for the five Christmas baskets pledged by woman's club for the Community Christmas Cheer endeavor. Mrs. Edward Fratini and Mrs. William E. Schneider will decorate.

"CHRISTMAS - PHILANTHROPIC Tea" — will be held at the San Rafael home of Mrs. James Teacher tomorrow from 1:30 to 3:30.

In the receiving line will be Mmes. Americo Oberto, Teachnor, Arthur Aviron, Charles Tacchi, and Albert Walz. Chairman is Virginia Shattuck.

A strolling musician will play while tea is being served.

Parents Are Turning Away From Violence

The consultant takes the parental pulse through names sorted from a computerized card file system by which every warranty signed and returned is indexed.

During an East Coast swing, she told me what some of her talks with parents — and children — have produced. First, there is the turning away from toys of violence.

"PARENTS GOT across to us that violent play makes for a violent adult," she said, so Mattell makes none of the so-called war toys.

There is a return, too, to simplicity of toys. Mothers asked for "a doll that doesn't do everything," so a soft cuddly one is in the line.

Wolfback Ridge Appeal On Tap

Two developers who want to build a 396-unit apartment development on Sausalito's Wolfback Ridge will appeal tomorrow a planning commission refusal to change the zoning of the property at the Sausalito City Council meeting at 8 p.m. in city hall.

On Aguust 6, developers Frank Lynch and E. R. Fitzsimmons asked the commission to rezone 90 acres on the ridge from a single family to duplex designation. The commission unanimously denied the request.

The council will also consider an ordinance to require the seller of a single family home in the city to provide the buyer with a record of any planning commission or council actions which affect future use of the property.

North Bay Artists To Sell In Novato

North Bay Artists will hold a "Starving Artist Art Sale," Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Novato Downtown Shopping Center, Seventh Street and Grand Avenue.

The sale will feature art works of many kinds, including crafts and handmade items. A percentage of all proceeds will go the artists' scholarship fund, according to Mrs. Jay L. Ward of the artists' group.

Cafeteria Closing At Civic Center

Beginning today, service at the Civic Center cafeteria has been curtailed by manager Cecil Bruton in preparation for a pullout by Dec. 17.

The county terminated the contract with the present operator and will seek bids from private firms.

Breakfast will continue to be served, but no more hot lunches are available. Coffee, sandwiches and desserts will be served through Dec. 17. The cafeteria will be closed on Dec. 18 for final inspection and moving.

Reopening of the cafeteria under a private operator will depend on when the bids can be awarded and how soon the new operator can take over.

Michael A. Chrystal, senior administrative analyst in the county administrator's office, said it is conceivable that the Civic Center will have no cafeteria service for several weeks after Dec. 17. In that event, the cafeteria will be open for use by county employees who bring their own lunches.

New Corte Madera Manager Was Fired

Corte Madera's new town manager, Ronald E. Bartels, was fired in January from his former position as city manager of Eureka, it has been disclosed.

A report in the Eureka Times-Standard dated Jan. 14 said Bartels resigned his $22,140 per year position "at the request of a majority of the city council."

Bartels difficulties with the Eureka City Council were known to Corte Madera city councilmen at the time of his selection according to Edward W. Colthurst, mayor of Corte Madera.

The problem had been mentioned by Bartels, Colthurst said today.

Colhurst said that the Corte Madera councilafter investigating decided "the problems he encountered up there are not present here. We have a different situation."

No reason was given for Bartels's firing, the newspaper said, but it speculated the firing involved delays by the manager in acquiring a $2 million federal grant for construction of a fish processing plant, a long-standing dispute over the city's pension plan and discovery by a councilman that a freeway study by a city consultant had not been presented to the council.

The newspaper said that in a letter of resignation from Bartels he wrote that since "a mutual feeling of trust and confidence no longer existed. . . it's the manager's responsibility to leave regardless of personal desires. . ."

Bartels, now a consultant to the state's Council on Intergovernment Relations, accepted the Corte Madera position last Monday after being interviewed by the town council. He will be paid $20,000 per year and will assume his duties Dec. 12.

Bartels is a graduate of Pomona College at Claremont and has received his master's degree in political science from the University of California at Berkeley.

Bartels, 37, also has worked as an administrative intern for the City of Pasadena, an administrative trainee for the City of San Diego, administrative assistant to the city engineer in San Diego, assistant city manager in Eureka and administrative consultant to the cities of Vallejo and Pomona.

Bartels's predecessor, Ronald L. Usher, quit in September to take a higher-paying position in Juneau, Alaska.

Bartels is married and has three children.

Two Held In Grass Investigation

Two Berkeley men were booked into Marin County Jail Saturday on suspicion of drug offenses after a California Highway Patrolman noticed their auto holding up traffic northbound on Highway 101 north of the Greenbrae interchange.

Marc Hampton Baum, 18, driver of the car, was held for investigation of driving under the influence of drugs and James Martin Singer, 22, was booked on suspicion of possessing marijuana.

Officers said they saw Baum's car going 40 miles an hour in the center lane of the highway about 3:20 p.m. and impeding the flow of traffic. According to the highway patrol, Baum cut in front of another car, slowed to 20 miles an hour and was stopped by officers as he exited the freeway onto Francisco Boulevard.

Both Baum and Singer appeared glassy-eyed and unsteady on their feet when asked to get out of the vehicle, officers reported. They said a search of the auto revealed 10 small seeds on the right front seat and a plastic bag containing a substance believed to be marijuana in a pocket on the auto's right front door.

Singer was freed on $315 bail to appear Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court and Baum was held in lieu of $1,000 to appear today in municipal court.

Ski Resorts Get Snow On Weekend

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The weekend storms brought fresh snow to ski resorts in central and northern California.

Six resorts were open today and a seventh will operate Wednesday. Chains are required on most mountain roads and a new storm was expected to hit the mountain areas tonight.

The 10 a. m. snow depth report as compiled by the California Automobile Association in San Francisco:

Interstate 80: Boreal Ridge five feet of powder and packed powder. Daily operation. Conditions good. Snowing. Chains are required.

Highway 89: Alpine Meadows 11 inches new snow for a total of 30-60 inches. Snow is packed and conditions fair to good. Two lifts operating daily.

Highway 50: Heavenly Valley new two and one-half feet for a total of two and one-half to four feet. Packed powder. Conditions good with six lifts operating daily.

Sierra Ski Ranch: New three and one-half feet for a total of 33-60 inches. Powder. Conditions good. Daily operation.

Highway 108: Dodge Ridge 10 inches of new snow for a total of 33-60 inches. Powder. Conditions good. Daily operation with four lifts. Chains required on 108.

Mammoth Mountain: New one foot for a total of four to five feet of powder and packed powder. Conditions good. Four lifts operating daily. Chains required going into area.

Conviction Upheld

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—The Virginia Supreme Court today upheld the conviction of John Patler for the 1967 murder of American Nazi Party leader George Lincoln Rockwell.

Girl Takes Patrol Car, Runs Away

A 16-year-old girl, stopped at Rohnert Park today by the California Highway Patrol for speeding on Highway 101, swiped the patrol car and escaped.

Three passengers in the car of the Santa Rosa girl, Denise Lincoln, were arrested. She remained at large.

The highway patrol said the car driven by Miss Lincoln was stopped at 2 a.m. and she was taken to the patrol car by Patrolman Edward McClintick of Petaluma while the other officer talked to three passengers in her vehicle.

McClintick said the girl was seated on the right side of the patrol car when he went back to assist the other officer in subduing the passengers, who reportedly had been drinking.

As he walked from the patrol car, he said the girl started the motor and sped away. The car was found at 2:30 a.m. in a ditch at East Cotati Avenue and Snyder Lane, Rohnert Park, having suffered about $200 damage.

Her passengers were arrested: Robert Stra, 19, of 757 Goodwin Street, Pinegrove, on suspicion of resisting arrest, possession of alcoholic beverages and being drunk in public; George Rodgers, 28, of Penngrove, on suspicion of furnishing alcoholic beverages to minors; Esther Holguin, 19, of Santa Rosa, on suspicion of possession of alcoholic beverages by a minor.

The two men were held in Sonoma County Jail to appear this afternoon in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court. Miss Holguin was released to her parents.

New Try For Bill To Protect Coast To Be Launched

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A new try at legislation to protect California's coastline will be launched by an Assembly committee on Wednesday in San Francisco.

Four bills creating regional agencies to protect the coastline from uncontrolled growth and poor planning were introduced in the 1970 session of the Legislature, but all were defeated.

The hearing by the committee on natural resources and conservation will begin at 9 a.m. in room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue.

Witnesses will include spokesmen for conservation groups, the League of California Cities, the County Supervisors Association of California, the State Chamber of Commerce and for utility, real estate and oil interests.

Pressure Is On 49ers For Last Three Games

JIM GILMARTIN

A Frustrating Time At Kezar Playground

I haven't heard so many hearts drop since Raquel Welch got married.

And I haven't seen such a magnificent defense since the chastity belt.

I refer (1) to the 59,602 fans at Kezar Stadium yesterday and (2) the Los Angeles Rams who rammed the San Francisco 49ers 30-13 with a chastising 24-0 second half performance.

Those who entered the stadium thinking perhaps of a miracle like a Super Bowl for the Niners left thinking more about a Stupor Bowl. There were so many liquor-induced hot heads that fists started flying throughout the stands late in the fourth quarter and didn't stop until nearly an hour after the biggest game the 49ers have blown in many years. It looked like amateur night at the Cow Palace.

On the way out I heard one veteran fan growl: "Boy, I think I'm going to be a Raider fan from now on."

J.B. Emblem Is Ripped Off

And also there was James S. Todt of San Rafael, president of the John Brodie Fan Club, throwing himself off the curb in a blatant case of sewercide, after which he had his "J.B." emblem ripped off his shirt to the roll of drums.

"It was our biggest win in five years," cheered L.A. Coach George Allen. It was our (49er) biggest loss in 13 semesters. I refer to the 1957 National Football League playoff loss to Detroit in 1957.

After the 49ers got their early lead, you could see the Rams gaining momentum with time. Their quarterback, Roman Gabriel, had a awful first half but he really came to life down the homestretch. Which just goes to show that, indeed, Rome wasn't built in a day.

The 49er management lucked out in one respect. The heavy rains of the week petered out in the first half and the second half was played in the sun on a surprisingly dry field. Sun of a gun! It rained pretty heavily just before the lickoff and intermittently through the first half.

Two Ends Of The Rainbow

Just when 49er Bruce Gossett's large metatarsal propelled the oblate spheroid westward at 1:08 p.m. for the opening kickoff I noticed a rainbow over the 49er locker room, immediately thinking: "Goodie, goodie, the Prospectors finally struck gold."

But what I didn't see was that the other end of the rainbow was over the Rams' end zone.

Things started beautifully. It was the most colorful crowd I've seen at Kezar in years. With the threatening weather, everyone came wrapped in plastic. It looked like a wall-to-wall meat department at the world's largest supermart.

Don Ho, the noted Hawaiian vocalist, gave a beautiful rendition of the national anthem, hundreds of balloons were released into the leaden skies and the bands, Marine color guard etc. made for a beautiful setting.

Even at halftime the crowd was deliriously happy with a 13-6 lead for the 49ers, and soaking up the halftime pageantry that included a choir, bands and the whole gang from Disneyland — Donald Duck, Mickey Mouse, Granny Goose, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs.

Oh! That Second Half!

It was great, but the trouble was the 49ers didn't come out for the second half so the Disneyland "11" took on the Rams Don Ho? Don Duck? Quack, I said with mallard aforethought.

There were the old faithful from Marin throughout the stadium. In addition to the aforementioned Todt, there were the usual busloads from George's Recreation Parlor and the San Rafael Elks Club. Also, side-by-siders in the press box were the former great gridder Ernie Nevers of Tiburon, barkeep Lou Buecher of San Rafael and Mr. and Mrs. Russ Hodges of Mill Valley, he of "Bye-Bye Baby" fame.

Nevers, whose Stanford and pro days are still memorable, was paraded around the track at halftime in an open converitble, two lovely young ladies on either side to ward off the chill. Lucky ol' Ernie.

Also, the 49er stage coach circled the soggy track at great speed, pulled by some mudders. Hmmm? No, not the Rams, those mudders; I mean two old gray horses, silly.

You Can Tell In His Voice

Larkspur's David Eric Scofield, the "Voice of Kezar," was in progressively deteriorating spirits. Early in the fray his prejudiced tonsils fairly reeked with good cheer, but as the hopeless pattern became evident in the second half, so did Dave's verve.

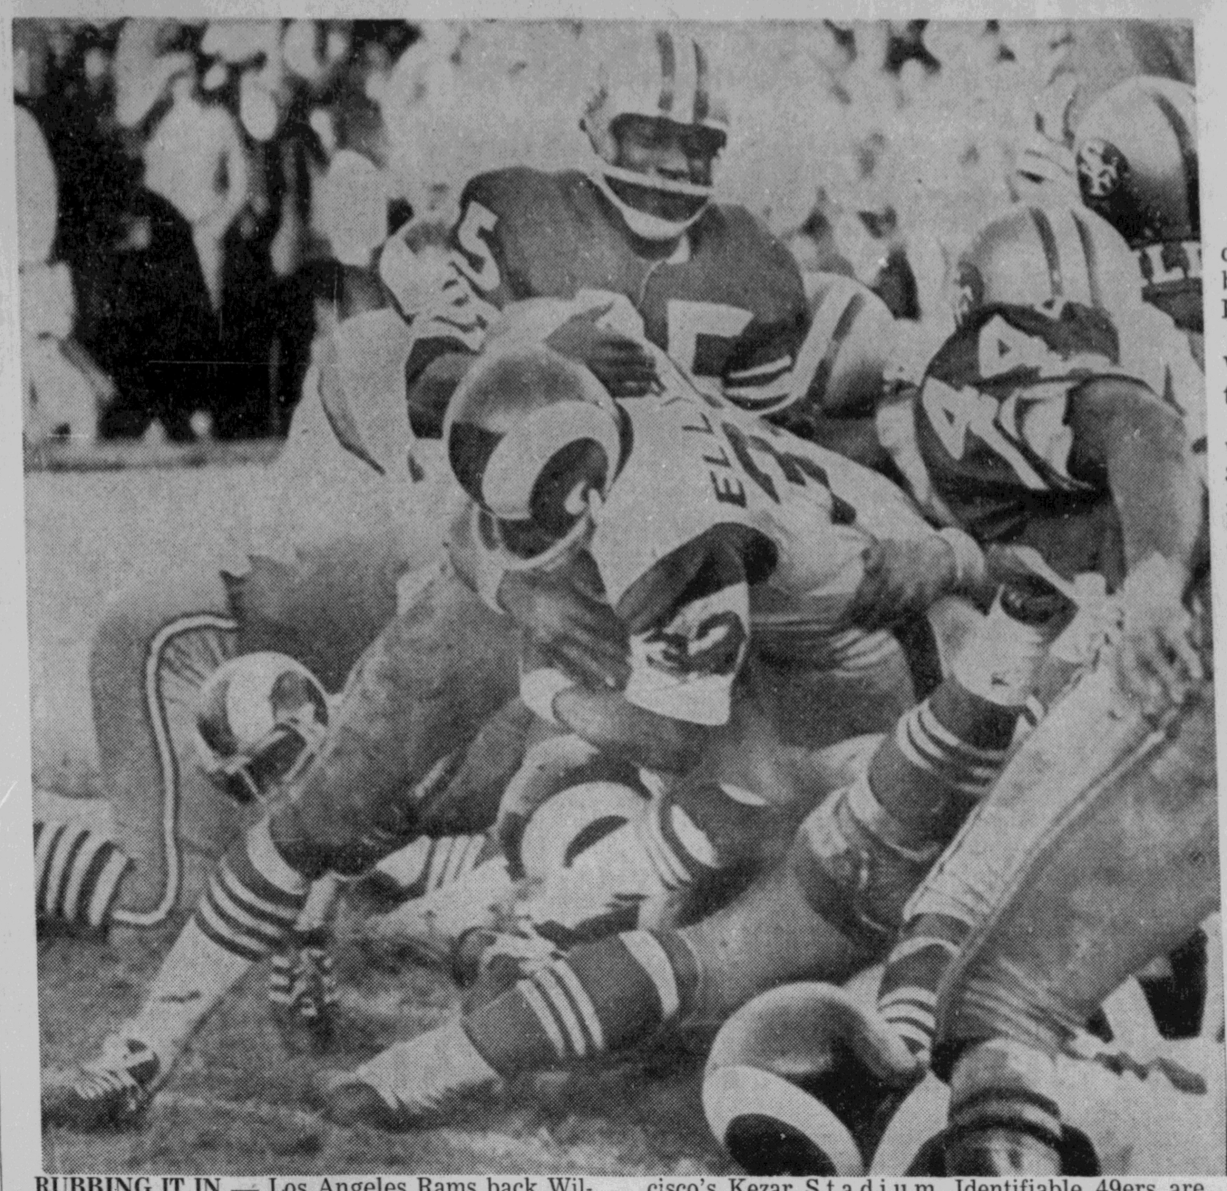
At one point he announced: "R. C. Owens, go to Gate 1," referring to the former 49er great pass receiver. One press box wag nodded: "They'd better reactivate him."

And as the final gun killed the 49ers, Scofield summed it all up quite succinctly with the simple announcement, "Game's over," his voice sounding like a sobbing suitor who had been jilted by the 49ers for the 25th consecutive year.

Oh, there's still hope for the 49ers to reach the playoffs and possibly even the Super Bowl, but off yesterday's performance you have to bet against them.

Slinking away from the crusty old stadium, as crestfallen as I have been with Scofield and other die-hards for a quarter of a century, I passed a little old man who was peddling 49er pennants, without much luck.

He kept repeating: "Pennance, pennance, pennance," and I couldn't help but think, "Um-hm, the 49ers have sinned again."



RUBBING IT IN — Los Angeles Rams back Willie Ellison scores two-yard touchdown during his team's 30-13 victory over the 49ers at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium. Identifiable 49ers are Bruce Taylor (44) and Roosevelt Taylor (25).

Crushing Victory For L.A. Rams

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — And now it comes down to a question of who can stand the pressure better — the San Francisco 49ers or the Los Angeles Rams.

The Rams made it a "new" season in the NFC West Sunday by beating the 49ers, 30-13 in a game they had to win.

The victory put the two old West Coast rivals all even at 7-3-1 with three games to go. Los Angeles plays New Orleans at home next Sunday while the 49ers host Atlanta.

After that, Los Angeles plays Detroit at home and then winds up the season in New York against the Giants.

The 49ers have things a bit tougher, finishing up on the road against New Orleans and the Oakland Raiders.

The Rams, with Willie Ellison, Les Josephson and Larry Smith handling a fine running attack, and David Ray booting the points, out-muscled the 49ers in Sunday's game.

The Los Angeles defense shut off the 49ers and quarterback John Brodie in the second half, keeping them pinned in their own end throughout the two periods.

"Field position was the big difference in this game," said 49er coach Dick Nolan. "We never got it out where we could do something."

ENOUGH

The Rams, who were in the position of having to win to stay alive, didn't exactly set the world on fire with their offense but it was enough for victory, and that's what counts.

Josephson, their bread and butter runner, piled up 54 tough yards in 13 carries, Ellison picked up 51 in nine and Smith got 50 in eight.

Ellison scored from one, two and eight yards and Ray booted field goals of 36, 9 and 22 yards.

Roman Gabriel, Los Angeles' veteran quarterback, threw the ball only 21 times, a low total for him, and hit just seven times. But the times he connected—to Billy Truax and Jack Snow—it kept drives in motion.

Brodie threw 36 times and hit on 18 for 160 yards, 90 more than Gabriel, but a pair of interceptions by Jim Nettles spoiled the San Francisco quarterback's day.

The second Nettles theft paved the way for an insurance touchdown—one that put the Rams ahead by 10 points with 4:57 left.

6-0 LEAD

The 49ers jumped ahead 6-0 by the first minute of the second quarter on field goals of 14 and 44 yards by Bruce Gosset.

Ray matched them with two of his fielders but the 49ers took a 13-6 lead into the intermission after Brodie hit Gene

Marin Tar Cagers Triumph

The College of Marin Tars, led by the devastating inside shooting of Roosevelt Green, romped to their second straight preseason basketball victory Saturday night, 79-67 over Diablo Valley Junior College at Concord.

Cutting their ball-control errors in half from the previous night, when they won a 90-75 season-opening game over San Mateo, the Tars soared to a 12-point halftime lead and never looked back. Green, a 6-foot-6 forward playing his first season at the Kentfield school, spearheaded the attack, mostly with hooks and bank shots from around the key.

Green got help from Mike Peden with 17 points, Joe Smith with 12, and Ron Small with 11, and from guard Charlie Flynn, who hit him with a number of beautiful passes that went for assists.

"We moved the ball a lot better than the night before," said Tar coach John Panagakis. "They were a lot faster than San Mateo, but we played real well in spots."

Panagakis was especially impressed that his team was able to cut down effectively on ball control errors.

Seals Finally Halt Skid

BUFFALO (UPI) —It was a long time in coming, but the California Golden Seals have finally racked up their sixth National Hockey League triumph.

And their 2-1 victory over the Buffalo Sabres Sunday didn't come easy.

Two separate fights broke out in the third period which resulted in Doug Barry of the Sabres and California's Tony Featherstone being sent to the penalty box for five minutes each and Reg Fleming of Buffalo and the Seals' Carol Vadnais also being slapped with five-minute penalties.

Vadnais also received a 10-minute misconduct penalty.

Ernie Hicke's 20-foot slapshot with 4:30 left in the final period gave the Seals their win. It gave the Seals a 6-15-2 record and put them just three points behind sixth place Los Angeles in the Western Division race.

Denis Hextall's goal after 2:16 of the second period put the Seals ahead 1-0 but the Sabres tied it with 17 seconds left in the period on Cliff Schmautz' unassisted goal.

Goalby's Mental Gimmick Helps In His Golf Victory

HILTON HEAD ISLAND (UPI)—Bob Goalby, who won many tournaments in recent years, raised a few eyebrows when he laid advance claim to the Heritage Golf Classic title upon arrival at this off-coast pleasure resort.

"This was only the second time in my 14 years on the tour that I really thought I could win," Goalby said after posting a four-stroke victory in the $100,000 tournament Sunday. The other time was last year at Robinson (which he also won).

"I told several people that I knew I could win here," Goalby continued. "I have a mental gimmick going."

FIVE UNDER

The dark-haired, 39-year-old veteran, who had won only the Robinson in the more than 2 1-2 years since he won the coveted Masters, fired a 5-under-par 66 over the "demanding" Harbour Town course Sunday for a 280 thas was worth $20,000.

"I wouldn't have thought I could shoot 4-under for four days on this course," Goalby said. "I was aiming for a 70 and I really thought par would win it. I shot 280 but I don't think I could do that here again. I didn't miss a short putt for four days—and I've seldom seen a golfer do that."

Goalby, who has won one tournament in each of the past four years and 10 overall, raised his earnings for the year to $56,346—guaranteeing his finish in the top 60 and extending his qualifying exemption for another year.

Last year, having gone 18 months since winning the Masters, Goalby was close to losing his exemption before winning at Robinson. And he was a border-line 58th coming into the Heritage.

"I've always said that when I fall out of the top 60, I'll quit," Goalby said ."But, I'm going to play as long as I can make money out here. It's easier than working."

Lanny Wadkins, the 20-year-old Wake Forest junior who is the reigning U.S. Amateur champ, shot a 68 Sunday and took the runnerup spot in the Heritage with a 284—two strokes ahead of the next three pros, defending champion Arnold Palmer, Billy Maxwell and Bob Murphy. All but Goalby and Wadkins were over par on the tight, tricky course.

The only other amateur in the field, Steve Melnyk, started Sunday's final round tied for the lead with Bert Yancey, a stroke ahead of Goalby, but fell apart on the back nine to wind up at 77-290 and tied for 11th. Yancey fared even poorer, shooting 80-293 that left him tied for 25th.

Stars Bring Out Best In Thurmond

By LARRY MOWELL

OAKLAND — San Francisco Warrior center Nate Thurmond seems to save his best performances for basketball's top pivot men.

Saturday night was no exception as he scored 27 points, including the winning hoop, against Wilt Chamberlain while leading the Warriors to a 92-88 win over Los Angeles.

Thurmond held basketball's all-time leading scorer to one point and six rebounds in the second half, then broke an 88-all tie with 17 seconds remaining by hitting a short jumper over the mammoth Laker center.

Player-coach Al Attles ran the final score to 92-88 with two free throws after time ran out, but it was Thurmond and forward Jerry Lucas who thrilled the 9,261 fans at the Oakland Coliseum.

Lucas steadied the error-prone Warriors in the first half with 17 of his 27 points as the Lakers built a 47-43 half-time lead.

The Warriors ran off seven straight points early in the third quarter to set up a hotly contested second half. Neither team led by more than three points in the final quarter before Attles' free throws.

With Thurmond pulling down 22 rebounds and Lucas adding 17, the Warriors enjoyed a 61-49 edge in rebounds, but the key to victory was shutting off Laker guard Jerry West and Chamberlain.

West made only four of 22 shots and scored 16 points, 11 below his season's average. Wilt's 12 points was half his average output.

Now 14-10, the streaking Warriors will battle the tough Atlanta Hawks at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Cow Palace without Adrian Smith, who underwent knee surgery Friday, and possibly Joe with an ankle injury Saturday. with an ankle injrury Saturday.

The Hawks, who have slumped to 6-15 this year, feature rookie wonder Pete Maravich.

Terra Linda Quintet Wins, Others Lose

Marin County Athletic League teams went one for three in preseason basketball games played over the weekend. The Terra Linda High School Trojans evened their record with a 59-32 win over Healdsburg, but Marin Catholic lost to St. Patricks of Vallejo, 63-48, and Novato bowed to Santa Rosa, 67-57.

Guard Larry Kerr pumped in 16 points to pace the Trojans, who led from start to finish, and poured it on in the final quarter with 20 points to just eight for the Greyhounds. Joe Casteel helped the Trojan cause with 10.

Marin Catholic, after winning its season opener Wednesday over Rancho Cotate, stayed close until the final four minutes against St. Pat's, but all-California Athletic League star Dan Dion, who rifled home 31 points, sparked a pull-away rally that left the Wildcats in the dust. Bill Donellan contributed 19 points to the losing effort.

The Novato Hornets absorbed their second straight loss, despite a 22-point performance by junior Marty Moroski. The Hornets held an 18-14 lead at the end of the first quarter, but Santa Rosa took command for a 36-27 halftime lead, and the game was never close again.

Joe DeMaestri backed up Moroski with 12 points.

Baylor's Basketball Career May Be Over

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Elgin Baylor's illustrious National Basketball Association career could be at an end.

The man many regard as the best forward to ever play the pro game will undergo surgery Wednesday to repair a torn Achilles tendon, the Los Angeles Lakers announced Sunday night.

"I still want to play," Baylor said.

Dr. Frank Jobe, who will perform the surgery at Centinela Hospital here, said he was optimistic.

But Baylor's age and the seriousness of the injury would seem to rule out the 36-year-old superstar coming back. His right leg will be in a cast for two months and he will need 30 more days of rehabilitation before he can play. The season ends in March.

Baylor, the second oldest player in the league, tore the bottom part of the tendon in the Lakers' first game of the season at Chicago Oct. 16. He tore the top part against Phoenix in a home game Friday night.

In his only two games this season, he played 57 minutes and scored 20 points.

The No. 2 NBA all-time scorer with 23,023 points behind teammate Wilt Chamberlain starting the season, Baylor is in his 13th pro year.

McKay Next Ram Coach? Ridiculous, Says USC Mentor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — George Allen says he knows nothing about it and John McKay says it's "ridiculous."

What the two highly successful coaches were commenting on was a report Sunday that Allen would leave as head man of the Los Angeles Rams and that he would be replaced by McKay, the present coach at the University of Southern California, on a 10-year, one-million dollar contract.

The report was in a story by columnist Dan Hruby of the San Jose Mercury-News.

After the Rams' 30-13 victory over the San Francisco 49ers, Allen said, "I'm only concerned about my responsibilities to the players, coaches and fans; I'm not worried about my future."

Later, however, he added, "If I'm not with the Rams next year, I'll have a job four times better." That could be with either the Green Bay Packers or New Orleans Saints were rumors have him going.

Contacted in Los Angeles, McKay, whose Trojans capped a 6-4-1 season with a 38-28 upset over previously unbeaten Notre Dame Saturday, emphatically denied the story.

"I never heard of anything so ridiculous," he said. "I've never been approached with any such offer."

The Mercury-News story said the offer to McKay calls for $60,000 a year for ten years plus fringe benefits which also include a radio-television show.

At USC, McKay has professional tenure and he conducts a weekly television show during the football season.

GOALBY

Goalby after three rounds. But Lewis wound up at 73-287 where he tied for sixth place with Phil Rodgers and Archer was 76-290.

Goalby moved into a tie for the lead with birdies on his first two holes Sunday and grabbed the lead for good at No. 9 when he hooked his drive behind a clump of trees, "in bogey territory," played a sand shot out to 20 feet from the pin and sank the putt for the go-ahead birdie.

"But I didn't feel secure until I put birdies back-to-back at 15 and 16," Goalby said. "I know better than to try to play it safe. I can remember blowing a five-stroke lead one time."

Marin Weightlifter Wins Second Place

David Gottlieb of Marin County's Marvel Athletic Club placed second Saturday in the California State Open Weightlifting Championships.

A sophomore at San Rafael High School, the 123-pound Gottlieb earned his honors with lifts of a 130-pound press, 110-pound snatch and 170-pound clean and jerk for a 410-pound total.

Stanford Tops All-Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Pacific 8 Conference champion Stanford, led by Heisman Trophy winning quarterback Jim Plunkett, placed six players on the 1970 United Press International All West Coast College Football team it was announced today.

Plunkett, who set every conference passing and total offense record as well as the national marks in both categories, received every vote except one from the panel of sports writers, broadcasters and coaches who helped UPI select the mythical team.

Besides Plunkett, Stanford placed tight end Bob Moore, offensive tackle Steve Jubb, center John Sands, flanker Randy Vataha and defensice lineman Dave Tipton on the team.

Bob Newland of Oregon, who led Pac-8 receivers with 67 catches for 1,123 yards and seven touchdowns, tackle Bob Richards of California, guards Steve Busch of Washington State and Ernie Janet of Washington and running backs Dave Schilling of Oregon State and Bobby Moore of Oregon completed the first offensive team.

The defensive 11 included besides Tipton, Charlie Weaver of USC and Terra Linda's Jim Sherbert of Oregon State at end, Tim Osterling of UCLA and Craig Hanneman of Oregon State at tackle, Sherm White of California and Dave Chaney of San Jose State at linebacker and Jim Lilly of Oregon State, Cal Jones of Washington, Ray Youngblood of California and Lionel Thomas of Washington State in the backfield.

There was some juggling of positions on the defensive team so that the best man could be fitted in. Chaney, about the only bright spot on San Jose's hard-luck team, was the lone non-Pac-8 player to make the team. Pro scouts consider him a hot prospect.

Plunkett, of course, was the glamor choice on the team and an easy winner of the Player of the Year Award as well. His statistics were staggering.

He led the Pac-8 in completions (191), yardage gained (2,715), touchdowns (18), percentage (53.4) and game average (246.8) while steering the Indians to a 6-1 record in the conference and an 8-3 mark overall, good enough to put Stanford in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day opposite Big 10 champ Ohio State for the first time in 19 years.

49ERS

Washington with a nine-yard strike with 1:11 left.

While the 49ers were able to run on the Los Angeles defense in the first half, they couldn't gain anything on the ground — to speak of — in the second. Brodie had the same problem, hitting on nine of 18 passes for 108 yards in the first half and seven of 18 for 52 yards in the second.

Naturally, Rams coach George Allen, reported on his way out at Los Angeles at the end of the season, was happy with the victory.

"We won the game we had to win," he said.

Americans Claim Prizes In Sweden

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif. won the cheers Sunday but two other Americans won the big money in the $35,200 Stockholm Open Indoor Tennis Championships.

Smith, playing the best indoor tennis of his life throughout the event, overcame topseeded Arthur Ashe of Gum Springs, Va., in the final 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 after an exciting two hour duel.

But Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex. and Ashe gained more than that. Richey through his semifinal place here scored the first Grand Prix prize of 25,000 dollars and got further 2,000 dollars for his play in this tournament while Ashe could leave Sweden for Switzerland and a ski vacation with $21,000 in his pocket from Grand Prix and the Stockholm events.

Football

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Minnesota Vikings quarterback Gary Cuozzo was scheduled for X-rays today to determine the extent of the ankle injury he suffered in Sunday's 20-10 loss to the New York Jets.

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Montreal Alouettes, the undisputed champions of the Canadian Football League, returned home Sunday proudly bearing the Grey Cup as proof of their supremacy. Led by Mayor Jean Drapeau, thousands of loudly cheering Montrealers turned out to give the heroes' welcome to the team that returned the trophy to Montreal after a 21-year absence.

The Alouettes defeated the Calgary Stampeders, 23-10 Saturday in Toronto in the Grey Cup Classic.

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Dooleys had the Peach Bowl sewed up. It was just a matter of whether it went to Vince at Georgia or his younger brother Bill at North Carolina.

Georgia Tech settled that issue Saturday with a 17-7 victory over Vince's Bulldogs. In fact, Peach Bowl officials didn't even wait for that game to end before they phoned Bill and invited the Tarheels to meet Arizona State in the third annual bowl in Atlanta Dec. 30.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A gritty Tulane team will meet Colorado in the 12th annual Liberty Bowl at Memorial Stadium Dec. 12 and sponsors expect a 50,000-plus sellout.

Tulane moved quickly Saturday to accept the invitation to the post-season game extended by bowl executive director A. F. "Bud" Dudley.

Boat Racing

LAKE HAVASU, Ariz. (UPI) — Veteran speedboat driver Bill Sirois of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., captured the World Outboard championship Sunday when he staged a belated rush in the second day of competition.

The two-day event was marred by one death and seven injuries serious enough to send the victims to a hospital as wind and rain whipped the four-mile Lake Havasu course.

Auto Racing

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (UPI) — Oscar Kovaleski, the clown of the Canadian American series, captured the A-sports championship on the final day of the American Road Race of Champions Sunday after a thrilling stretch duel with defending champion Jerry Hansen.

Kovaleski, of Clark's Summit, Pa., roared ahead in his McLaren 8B on the last lap and edged across one-tenth of a second ahead of Hansen's Lola.

Bowling

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Nelson Burton Jr. of St. Louis shot his poorest six-game block Sunday night but still remained the qualifying leader going into the finals of the $50,000 Bellows-Velvair Open bowling tournament here.

Burton, 28, winner of four tournaments this year, shot a 1,331 series in the final qualifying session, an effort considerably short of his three earlier performances whidh saw him average better than 243 pins per game. Burton totals 5,909 pins after 24 games.

Baseball

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Baltimore Orioles completed the first trade of the winter baseball meetings today when they swapped veteran relief pitcher Myron "Moe" Drabowsky to the St. Louis Cardinals for 25-year-old infielder Jerry DaVanon.

General

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The 83rd convention of the National Amateur Athletic Union AAU which opens here today could turn out to be one of the most important in recent years.

According to one source, the AAU will update and "modernize" its definition of an amateur, making it permissible for athletes in some instances to receive money over and above natural expenses.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Upsetting Day For The Irish

By United Press International

The end of the college football season can be very upsetting.

It can bring tears to the eyes of the favorites' fans, second guesses from those too-hasty bowl selection committees and excuses from the coaches. Notre Dame and Army found out just how upsetting it can be last Saturday against season-ending rivals.

Southern California, finishing the season with only a 6-4-1 record and a 12-point underdog, tripped the third-ranked Irish 38-28, and Navy salvaged a dismal season with an 11-7 finale over arch-rival Army.

This week more of the same can happen when first-ranked Texas faces sixth-ranked Arkansas in a Southwest Conference showdown that means the national title and Cotton Bowl berth.

OTHER GAMES

That clash is only the featured attraction of a weekend that also has Louisiana State (No. 8) facing Mississippi (No . 10), Tennessee (No. 5) going against UCLA (No. 14) and spoiler Miami taking on Houston (No. 16), Ole Miss already got a dose of that late-season upset pill with a 19-14 loss to Mississippi State that probably will cost it a spot among the elite top ten.

In other games last weekend, Tennessee, bound for the Sugar Bowl, defeated Anderbilt 24-6; Georgia Tech, in the Sun Bowl, beat Georgia 17-7 and spoiled the Bulldogs' Peach Bowl aspirations; Oklahoma, headed for the Bluebonnet Bowl, crushed Oklahoma State 66-6; and Gator Bowl-bound Auburn defeated Alabama, a Bluebonnet Bowl team, 33-28.

HOPEFUL

Louisiana State, still an Orange Bowl hopeful if it can beat Ole Miss, defeated Tulane 26-14, but despite the defeat the Green Wave got a Liberty Bowl invitation; underdog Miami held on for a 41-13 victory that ruined Florida's Liberty Bowl hopes; Southern Methodist whipped Texas Christian 26-17; West Virginia beat Maryland 20-10; Boston College shut out winless Holy Cross 54-0; and Louisville, which will play Long Beach State in the Pasadena Bowl, beat Wichita State 34-24.

Southern Cal's upsets over Notre Dame teams sporting perfect records are becoming as traditional in late November as Thanksgiving turkey. The Trojans ruined perfect seasons for the Irish in 1938 and again in 1964. The latest upset came after nine straight victories for Notre Dame, which goes to the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day.

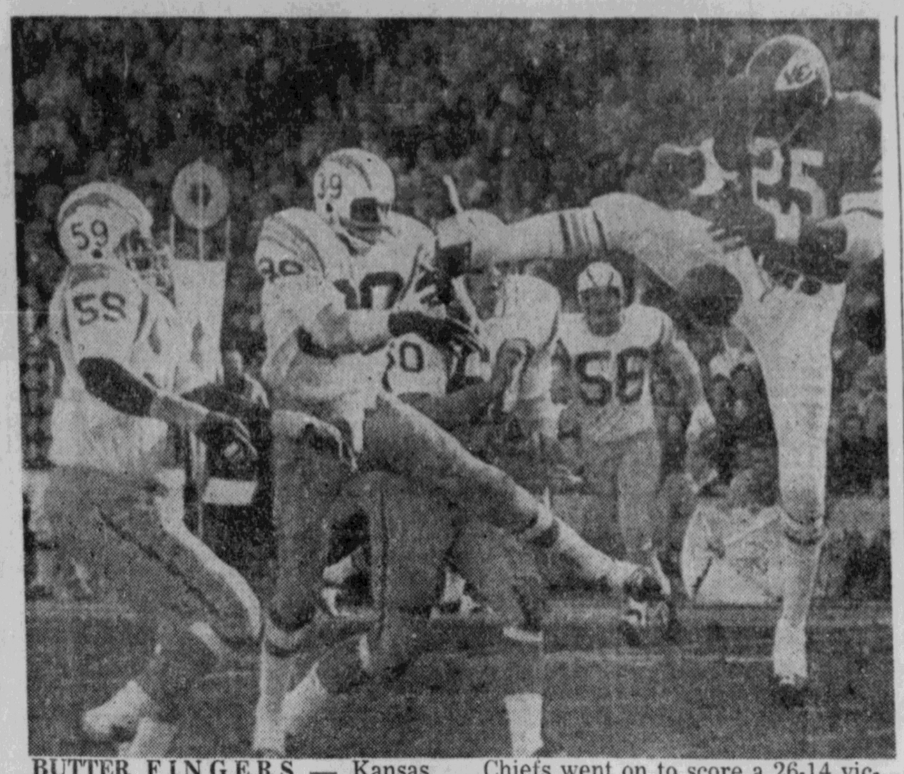
USC tackles Pete Adams and John Vella recovered end zone fumbles for touchdowns in the third period and Clarence Davis ran for two more on Saturday. After the game coach Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame admitted the two fumble recoveries meant defeat.

DIFFERENCE

"The two quick TDs that we gave USC early in the third quarter prevented us from catching up," Parseghian said. "We made more mistakes than we have in any game this season. All you have to do is look at the turnovers and it will answer a lot of questions."

However, even in defeat, Notre Dame Joe Theismann stamped himself as one of the great quarterbacks in the school's history. In a heavy downpour, he passed for 526 yards, breaking Terry Hanratty's single game school record of 366 yards set against Purdue in 1966. He scored on runs of 25 and one yard and passed for two more TDs.

Army and Navy had only two victories between them going into their annual fracas at Philadelphia, but that final game traditionally makes the season a success or failure. Army, an 11-point favorite over Navy, wound up 1-9-1, and the Middies finished 2-9.



BUTTER FINGERS — Kansas City's Frank Pitts (25) can't hold onto the ball as he tries to catch a pass from Len Dawson. It happened in first period of game at Kansas City yesterday and the hometown Chiefs went on to score a 26-14 victory over the San Diego Chargers. Jim Hall (39) broke up the play and other Chargers are Pete Barnes (59), Bob Babich (60) and Bob Bruggers (56). (UPI Telephoto)

Football Bowl Lineup Nearly Set

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Only two major bowls have not been filled, and that situation will be remedied this weekend.

The remaining berths are in the Orange Bowl at Miami and the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. The winner of Saturday's game between Texas and Arkansas will be invited to the Cotton Bowl, and Louisiana State (8-2) can earn the Orange Bowl bid with a victory over Mississippi.

The lineup for the bowl games:

Dec. 12, Liberty Bowl at Memphis, Tenn., Colorado (6-4) cs. Tulane (7-3).

Dec. 19, Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., Georgia Tech (8-3) vs. Texas Tech (8-3).

Dec. 30, Peach Bowl at Atlanta, Arizona State (9-0) vs. North Carolina (8-3).

Dec. 31, Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, Alabama (6-5) vs. Oklahoma (7-4).

Jan. 1, Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, Air Force (9-2) vs. Tennessee (9-1).

Jan. 1, Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., Stanford (8-3) vs. Ohio State (9-0).

Jan. 1, Orange Bowl at Miami, Nebraska (10-0-1). vs. team to be named.

Jan. 1, Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Notre Dame (9-1) vs. Texas (9-0) vs. Arkansas (9-1).

Jan. 2, Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., Auburn (8-2) fs. Mississippi (7-2).

Petaluma Cagers Rout Cardinal Newman '5'

By GARY LONDON

Joe Rodola exploded for 23 points in the first half Saturday, and went on to score 30 to lead the Petaluma High School Trojans in an 84-65 basketball rout over the highly touted Cards from Cardinal Newman in Santa Rosa.

"Jumpin' Joe" who was an All-NBL I forward last year, put together a 15-point second quarter to completely baffle the Newman team.

Cardinal Newman fast broke its way to an early 12-4 lead, until Trojan coach Bob Donahue called a time out to show his team how to cope with the surprising fast break. What Donahue told his team worked, and they came right back to go ahead 13-12. At the end of the first quarter the contest was tied, 21-21.

The second quarter showed Rodola and friends pick up the pace and end the half with a 50-32 lead.

In the third quarter 6-foot-6 Dave Thomas showed some shooting accuracy, scoring 12 points. Thomas ended up with a respectable 18 points for the evening.

Phil Magrini was the high man for the Cards, scoring 24 points in the losing effort.

The Newman game was supposed to be the testing ground for the Trojans, who have one of the best teams they've had in years. Next week comes another test when they meet Sonoma, another NBL powerhouse.

Exposure Charge Against Rentzel

DALLAS (UPI)—Lance Rentzel, star flanker for the Dallas Cowboys and husband of dancer-songstress Joey Heatherton, was charged Monday with indecent exposure. He was freed on $1,500 bond.

Police in suburban University Park charged Rentzel in connection with an incident involving a 10-year-old girl Nov. 19.

Rentzel had appeared at the University Park police station with an attorney Nov. 23 and was advised of his rights. There was no indication as to why charges were delayed another week.

"We recommended that bond be set," said Dallas County District Attorney Henry Wade.

Indecent exposure, a felony, is punishable by as much as 15 years in prison.

"Of course probation could be recommended," Wade said.

There was no immediate comment from Rentzel or officials of the Dallas Cowboys.

NFL ROUNDUP

Very Close Races

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The six division setup which the National Football League put into effect in this first year of the merger is working out much better than originally anticipated.

With only three weeks remaining in the regular season, there is not one divisional race which has been decided and the possibility still remains that all six races could go down to the final week before the winners are determined.

THREE HITS

Because the Los Angeles Rams, Kansas City Chiefs, Cincinnati Bengals and Pittsburgh Steelers all won Sunday, there is a tie for first place in three of the six divisions. And, in the other three divisions the most that separates the first and second place teams is a spread of two games.

In the American Football Conference, there is a three-way tie for first place between Cleveland, Cincinnati, and Pittsburgh in the Central Division and tie for first between Kansas City and Oakland in the West Division. Baltimore holds a two-game edge over Miami in the East Division, but that could be reduced to a game and a half if the Dolphins can beat the Atlanta Falcons tonight.

In the National Conference Los Angeles and San Francisco are deadlocked for first place in the West Division, St. Louis holds a game and a half edge over the New York Giants in the East Division and Minnesota leads Detroit by two games in the Central Division.

CONTRAST

This year's races offer a marked contrast to last season's NFL and AFL standings. Dallas, Cleveland, Los Angeles and Minnesota all coasted to championships in the four divisions of the NFL last season and the New York Jets won the AFL's East Division rather easily. The only close race was in the AFL's West Division where Oakland edged Kansas City by one game during the regular season, only to lose to the Chiefs in the playoffs. Kansas City, of course, went on to win the Super Bowl.

The three divisional ties came about Sunday as a result of Los Angeles avenging an earlier loss to San Francisco, 30-13; Kansas City defeating San Diego, 26-14; Pittsburgh beating Cleveland, 28-9; and Cincinnati trouncing New Orleans, 26-6.

In other games Minnesota missed a chance to clinch its division title by losing to the Jets, 20-10; the Giants edged Washington, 27-24; St. Louis topped Philadelphia, 23-14; Baltimore nipped Chicago, 21-20; Houston defeated Denver, 31-21; and Boston snapped a nine-game losing streak by topping Buffalo, 14-10.

DAWSON

Lenny Dawson connected on 17 of 24 passes for 208 yards, including a 50-yard scoring pass to Morris Stroud, and Jan Stenerud added four field goals as the Chiefs moved into a tie with Oakland with a 6-3-2 record. The Chiefs and Raiders played to a 17-17 tie earlier this year but will meet again on Dec. 12.

Terry Bradshaw threw scoring passes of 81 yards to Ron Shanklin and 57 yards to Johnny Fuqua in sparking the Steelers to a victory over the Browns.

Horst Muhlmann's four field goals and a 26-yard TD run by Paul Robinson paced the Bengals' triumph over the Saints.

George Nock gained 117 yards, including a 15-yard TD run, and the Jets intercepted four passes in snapping the Vikings' seven-game winning streak. The loss was only the Vikings' second in 11 games.

Pete Gogolak's 20-yard field goal with 1:52 remaining enabled the Giants to keep pace with the Cardinals in the NFC East. Fran Tarkenton also paced the Giants victory with a pair of touchdown passes, the 199th and 200th of his career. New York (7-4) is tied with Dallas for second in the East.

Jim Hart threw two touchdown passes and Jim Bakken kicked three field goals as the Cardinals hung on to defeat the Eagles.

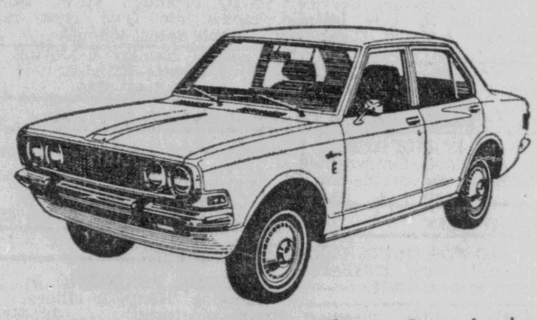
John Unitas' 54-yard TD pass to John Mackey with 3:47 remaining enabled the Colts to rally from a 17-0 deficit and edge the Bears. Unitas hit on 23 of 40 passes for 258 yards but had five passes intercepted and the Bears turned four of those into scores.

Charley Johnson's three TD passes sparked Houston's victory and the Patriots turned a fumble recovery and a pass interception into touchdowns to defeat the Bills.

Marin Hockey Club Has Perfect Weekend

Marin Amateur Ice Hockey Club teams scored three wins in three games over the weekend. The Squirts defeated Santa Rosa in Larkspur yesterday, 4-1, and the Pee Wees won twice, 6-1 over Belmont Saturday at Belmont, and 14-0 over Hayward yesterday in Larkspur. In those two games, Marin's Pat McPartlan scored a total of nine goals.

There's nothing old fashioned about the new Toyota Corona except the clock.



The new Corona four-door Sedan, $2,199.95 delivered in Marin, plus tax and lic.

In the "good old days" all fine cars came with a clock. Today the Corona comes with many such comforts. Four doors, for one, a convenience a family can't beat. Corona's advanced engineering has taken care of the rest — disc brakes, more power, four-on-the-floor or three speed automatic. Bring on the competition. We love it.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

After Age 3, Heredity Controls Growth; Clues To Size Available

Van Dellen

After the age of 3, growth is controlled by heredity. Environmental factors may play a role but are less important than they were before this time. A physician has very little to go by when assessing the growth of a child, except the size of the parents and clues obtained while the tyke matures.

Problems of these types are exemplified by the 11-year-old girl who is tall and wants to stop growing or shrink a couple of inches. Or, the plea of a short lad of 15 who wants to be taller and is becoming a nervous wreck waiting to sprout. There are ways of determining whether the youngster has reached full maturity or if further growth can be anticipated.

AN INDIVIDUAL usually does not become taller after the growth centers (epiphyses) at the ends of the long bones are fused. The adult size has been reached when all the epiphyses of the bones involved in stature cannot extend. This is easily determined by X-raying the skeleton. In addition, the films help to predict early, average or late maturation in a child.

A physical examination of the teen also offers clues. In the male, the first stage of puberty is an enlargement of the sex organs followed by the appearance of pubic hair. The last stage is the growth of the beard and hair in the armpits and on the legs.

IN THE FEMALE, the development of the nipple and breast are the first indications of puberty. This is followed by pubic and secondary sexual hair. In the healthy girl, menstruation (menarche) is a late manifestation of puberty. When this stage is reached, the adolescent growth spurt has reached its peak and from here on, begins to wane.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

PAINLESS, RED SWELLINGS

M. R. writes: What is erythema nodosum and what causes it?

REPLY

In this skin disorder, moderately tender, reddish-brown nodules develop along the long bones of the legs, theighs and forearms. The lesions are present on both sides of the body. For reasons unknown, te nodules develop in association with systemic diseases, such as tuberculosis, coccidiodomycosis, and strep infections. They also are produced as an allergic reaction to drugs.

NEEDS MORE THAN DIET

P. G. writes: Is diet of any value in pernicious anemia?

Yes, especially when the regimen contains foods rich in iron and vitamin B12, such as liver and other meats. But more than diet is needed to keep pernicious anemia under control. Injections of liver or vitamin B12 are essential. Many physicians teach the patient or a member of his family to give the bi-monthly or monthly injection of B12.

WASTING AWAY

A reader writes: If a fat person goes on a rigorous reducing diet and loses lots of weight, will she shorten her life span?

REPLY

Yes, especially if she takes her dieting so seriously it develops into anorexia nervosa, a psychiatric disorder. In addition, she will not learn the good dietary habits needed to maintain a slim figure.

PEPTIC ULCER

A. G. writes: One doctor tells me I have a gastric ulcer; another said I have a peptic ulcer. Do I have two ulcers or one ulcer with two names?

REPLY

Peptic ulcer is an all-inclusive term for stomach and duodenal ulcers.

Today's Health Hint— The youngster's bicycle should have a light on the front and a reflector on the back.

Maine Governor's Race Up In Air

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — They're still counting votes in Maine.

Only 890 votes separated victory from loss in the race between Democratic Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis and James Erwin, a Republican. Nov. 3 figures declared Curtis the winner.

Erwin picked up 70 votes in three days of recounting last week which resumed today following a Thanksgiving recess.

At least 20 other recounts were scheduled in the state, including four state Senate races and 13 House contests.

Ambassador, Wife Dead In Portugal

LISBON (UPI)—West German Ambassador Hans Schmidt Horix, 61, and his wife, Barbara, commited suicide Sunday night, the West German Embassy announced today. It did not elaborate.

The ambassador's death was caused by a self-inflicted bullet wound while his wife died of an overdose of sleeping tablets, the embassy said.

Horix had been in his present post since April 23, 1969.

The couple leave two sons and a daughter between the ages of 22 and 32. One son is studying at a university in France. The other two children are in Germany.

TEACHER OF WEEK

'New Math' Is Old To Joyce Palmer

The "new math" is the old math to Joyce Palmer.

Mrs. Palmer, who teaches mathematics at Novato High School, sees little difference between today's "new math" and that she learned and taught before the "new math" was introduced with much fanfare around 1960.

"'New math' is sort of a catchy name, really," she said today. "Good mathematics teachers always tries to teach understanding rather than just processes, and that is the basis of the "new math."

Mrs. Palmer took her A.B. degree from Oberlin College in Oberlin, Ohio. She taught in high schools in Michigan and Ohio before moving to California then became a teacher at Palo Alto High School. She interrupted her career for eight years to start rearing a family, then returned to the classroom when Novato High opened in 1954. She has been there ever since.

In the meantime, she took many graduate courses, mostly at Dominican College of San Rafael.

Her teaching has been "mostly math," she said, although during the first year of Novato High she also taught a home-making class. "Bob McKeay (the principal) told me, 'it's either you or me, "and I thought I could do a bit better with home-making than he could," she laughed.

She also is adviser to the Novato High chapter of the California Scholarship Federation, and to the Mathletes, who conduct mathematics contests in Marin Schools. And she is a scorer at school track meets — the last job coming her way, she said, because her husband, Novato City Atty. Clark M. Palmer, is a "track nut" and official timer at the meets.

The family she took time off to rear consists of two sons, one of whom is now a Navy ensign and the other a freshman at Stanford University.

Police Services Area Will Be Discussed

Proposals to set up both a county police services area and a county fire protection district in the unincorporated areas of Marin will come up for discussion tomorrow before the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The county administrator will ask that a date be set for a public hearing on the proposed formation of a police services area. The suggested hearing date is Jan. 26.

On the proposed formation of a county fire protection district a public hearing is set for 1:45 p.m. tomorrow.

Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows said that in each case, the intent is to have zones set up within the county fire district or the police services area so that only those communities which want more services than they are now getting will pay higher taxes for those added services.

Other items on the agenda will include:

YOUTH COMMISSION — Appointment to fill a vacancy on the Marin County Youth Commission. The vacancy exists in the third supervisorial district, South Marin.

PROMOTION — A special promotion for Sheriff's Inspector Ronald Reliana, from his present salary of $984 per month to $1084 per month.

PAY DISPUTE — An appeal by Audrey (Rey) Collins, draftsman in the county planning department, who seeks $803 in pay differential for work from July of 1969 through August of 1970, during which she worked as draftsman 1 when county supervisors had authorized a promotion to draftsman 2. On Oct. 31, the Marin County Personnel Commission denied the pay differential.

PROPERTY SWAP — An exchange of property between the county and Robert G. Mariani, who is forced to give up his home at 836 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, for street widening. The county plans to swap another property it owns at 814 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and pay Mariani a difference of $7,000.

SUBDIVISION — Pulbic hearing on Oliver Mauch's tentative map for an eight-unit subdivision on two acres of land at the entrance to Wild Horse Valley in West Novato.

LEGISLATIVE — New bills proposed in the county's legislative program for 1971.

SEPTIC TANKS — A hearing on amendments to the county septic tank ordinance to tighten regulations on the design and operation of septic tanks and leaching fields.

ENGLISH PUB — A hearing on Charles R. Felix's request for resort-commercial zoning of his 25,000-square-foot lot at the entrance to Muir Beach so that he can build an English pub and inn.

Lost Man Hours In Record Month Climb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department says idleness from strikes during October hit 0.64 per cent of the nation's total estimated work time—the third highest monthly percentage since World War II.

It said the strikes, including the lengthy General Motors walkout, cost 10 million man days of potential work during the month. For the first 10 months of this year, strike idleness was estimated at 51.6 million man days—49 per cent higher than for the same period one year ago.

Burglars Hit Two Businesses

Burglars hit two businesses and a school yesterday in East Corte Madera escaping with about $260 incash and equipment.

Police said today they were investigating a reported burglary at 9 p.m. at the Paradise Hardware, 5603 Paradise Drive, when they discovered another burglary at the Paradise Cleaners, 5593 Paradise Drive.

They said nothing was removed from the hardware store but about $62 in cash and tools were taken from the cleaners.

Principal Edward Mosconi of Granada Community School said today his school was hit between 6 p.m. yesterday and 7 a.m. today. He said a preliminary inventory of school equipment showed about $200 in audio-visual equipment missing.

Import Record

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Imports to the United States hit a one-month record of $3.53 billion in October but the value of exports was $178.9 million higher, the Commerce Department reported today.

Tot Lot Plan Bill Before Hub Board

San Anselmo School District trustees will try to iron out confusion over a bill for plans for the Wade Thomas School tot lot, at their meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the multiuse room of Isabel Cook School.

Supt. Kenneth W. Lowry said plans for the tot lot were discussed at a joint meeting of the trustees with the San Anselmo City Council. He reported landscape architect Henry Cole has submitted plans for a $23,000 development at the playground. However, "there is some lack of clarity at this point what were the district's intentions in continuing the development of . . . the tot lot, and . . . to what degree was Cole authorized to perform the work."

Lowry has recommended that if the board finds Cole performed the work in good faith the district pay his bill for $1,000 out of district capital outlay funds.

The trustaes also are to consider signing an agreement with the city for joint recreation outlay, discuss appointing a parliamentarian to help speed up board meetings, decide whether to offer an after-school drama class at a cost of $1,000, and consider changes in board minutes, agenda and meeting procedures.

Youths Hurt In Crash On Span

Two Marin County teen-agers have been slightly injured in a two-car collision on the Golden Gate Bridge.

James H. Smith, 18, of 49 Belle Avenue, San Anselmo, and Pat Salin, 16, of 15 Ross Avenue, San Rafael, sustained minor cuts when the car in which they were riding collided with a car driven by Stanley Goldstein, 34, of 1 Marinda Court, Fairfax.

The California Highway Patrol said Smith's car was southbound and apparently veered into a northbound lane, causing the accident about 8:20 p.m. Friday.

Students To Discuss A Bill Of Rights

A student bill of rights, drafted by the student advisory committee of Tamalpais High School, will be discussed by the Marin County Youth Commission tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Coral Room at Marin General Hospital.

Richard V. Godino, assistant county counsel, has been invited to explain the legalities of the student bill of rights.

Among rights sought by students are a public hearing or appeal before any disciplinary action is taken against a student; no search of student lockers or automobiles without written consent, unless the immediate physical safety of persons is endangered; no censorship of student publications, the right to organize student government in any manner, provided it complies with the will of the student majority; the right to have presented to them in a concise manner the school regulations with which they are expected to comply; and the right to have presented to them in a concise manner the rights they hold and with which the school is required to comply.

The youth commissioners will also elect permanent officers for next year. Acting chairman Paul Cohen and other officers have been serving on a temporary basis since last September because of several vacancies created by youths leaving for college.

Students Back Withdraw Plan

Students at San Rafael High School have approved by nearly 4-to-1 vote a student policy statement urging the total withdrawal of troops in Southeast Asia by June.

The statement, which will be sent to President Richard M. Nixon and congressmen, along with the vote totals, maintains the war is "immoral and unjustified."

The measure was approved 290 to 73, according to Kerry Easom, director of elections.

New Director For Foreign Investment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Donald P. Katz has been named director of the Office of Foreign Direct Investments in the Commerce Department. Katz, 34, was deputy director of the office.

He replaces Richard P. Urfer, appointed a special consultant to Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans.

Bay Model To Be Open Two Days

The Army Corps of Engineers's hydraulic model of the San Francisco Bay and Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta tidal actions will be open Saturday and Dec. 12 in Sausalito, the Army has announced.

Located at 2100 Bridgeway, the model will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

At a speed 100 times faster than the natural cycle, 118,000 gallons of water are pumped through the model to show tide actions and currents.

Radiation Device Demonstration

Marin Squadron 4, Civil Air Patrol, will conduct a demonstration of radiation detection devices at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Conditioning Center, Building 119, Hamilton Air Force Base.

John H. Kearns, radiological and intelligence officer, planning and operations division, state disaster office, will present the demonstration.

Representatives of police and fire departments and civil defense groups have been invited, reported Lt. Col. Francis E. Torr, squadron commander.

Another Big Storm Forecast

The first major storm of the winter eased last night after dropping more than six inches of rain in some areas of Marin and more than eight inches in Southern Sonoma.

The moments of sunshine yesterday and today were to end tonight when another storm moves in from Alaska. A weather bureau spokesman said the new storm may be "just as moist as the last one."

The California Highway Patrol blamed the weather for a series of traffic accidents which injured 13 persons.

ROAD CLOSED

North San Pedro Road was closed last Saturday morning in San Rafael's Peacock Gap area after pounding bay waters flooded the road and pushed debris over the sea wall.

Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Ross, flooded late Friday, remained closed throughout much of Saturday morning until mud could be cleared from the road surface.

All roads in the county were open this morning, as county road crews continued the job of clearing debris from catch basins to prevent water backup.

E. H. (Al) Lindelli, assistant road superintendent, said three slides disrupted traffic Friday night and Saturday on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard between Inverness Park and Inverness, but none was serious enough to block the road. The slides were cleared on Saturday.

TREE TOPPLES

A tree toppled on Pine Hill Road in Tamalpais Valley Friday, but this was cleared immediately.

Major flooding occurred in Granton Park in Kentfield and around the Nave Shopping Center in Novato Friday sight, was not repeated Saturday and, Lindelli said, all county roads remained open.

There was a 90 per cent chance of rain through tomorrow, according to the weather bureau, which predicted rains would be heavy at times.

Showers yesterday deposited .17 of an inch of rain in the Woodacre area in the 24 hour period ending at 8 a.m. today, bringing the storm total since Friday to 6.81 inches.

Novato had .11 of an inch at 8 a.m. and a storm total of 5.57 inches.

SOUTHERN MARIN

In Southern Marin, 24-hour and storm totals were: Mill Valley, .14 and 4.88; Sausalito, .48 and 3.81; Bolinas, .19, and 4.76; Tamalpai Valley, .20 and 4.40; Belvedere, .23 and 3.37 and Tiburon, .09 and 2.97.

San Rafael had .18 of an inch in the 24 hours ending at noon today and a total since Friday of 4.34 inches.

Some minor flooding was reported in Southern Sonoma where storm drains overflowed at intersections, but there was no report of storm damage. Petaluma had .56 of an inch of rain in the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today, which brought the total since Friday to 8.28 inches.

Rainy weather was blamed for most of a rash of traffic accidents which injured 13 people in Marin and Southern Sonoma Counties over the weekend, California Highway Patrol reported.

One person was hospitalized and another injured in a two-car accident at 7:35 p.m. Friday on

Nation's Population Jumps 25 Million

California Tops States With Almost 20 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Census Bureau reported to President Nixon today the 1970 population of the United States was 204,765,770 and that the congressional delegations of 14 states must be changed to reflect the increase of 25,442,959 Americans in the last decade.

Presentation of the final and official figures from the 10-year census will give five states more seats in the House of Representatives. Nine states will lose seats in the reshuffling of the 435-member House.

California, with a population of 19,953,134, compared to 15,717,204 in 1960, moved ahead of New York and officially became the nation's largest state. New York gained 8.4 per cent from 16,782,304 to 18,190,740.

California gains five seats for a total delegation of 43. Florida gains three seats, and Arizona, Colorado and Texas gain one seat each.

States losing seats in the complicated mathematical process of reapportionment will be New York and Pennsylvania, two each, and Alabama, Iowa, North Dakota, Ohio, Tennessee, West Virginia and Wisconsin, one each.

The changes will not take effect until the 93rd Congress, which will be elected in 1972 and convene in 1973. The 92nd Congress, elected earlier this month, will not be affected by the new apportionment.

The official figures released today were 4.5 million higher than the preliminary totals made public Sept. 1. The census said at the time that it expected the final figure to hit between 204 million and 205 million when all transients, military men and others were counted.

The census figures are the official count on which a myriad of decisions are based, including apportionment of federal funds in several programs.

President Nixon is required by law to submit the report to Congress during the first week of its regular 1971 session. Congress then has 15 days to act if it chooses to change the size of the House.

If Congress fails to act within 15 days, the existing law on apportionment would be applied to the new figures.

Since Congress is not expected to increase the size of the House —the only way that the larger delegations could be accommodated without taking seats from other states —it will be up to the state legislatures to make the adjustments required by the new apportionment.

If the legislatures fail to redraw congressional district lines, the assumption is that the courts will do it for them. During the 1960s, federal and state courts for the first time injected themselves into apportionment controversies to carry out the Supreme Court's "one man-one vote" rulings.

No states with more than one congressional seat will be able to have "at-large" congressional elections, as in the past.

A 1967 law repealed the previous provision that provided for "at-large" —or statewide —elections for newly-added seats where legislatures had failed to redraw lines. The old law also required all congressional candidates to run at large in states which lost seats and whose legislatures had failed to draw new districts to conform to the changes.

Texas moved from sixth place in population to fourth place, ahead of Illinois and Ohio, with 16.9 per cent jump from 9,579,677 in 1960 to 11,196,730 in 1970.

Florida jumped ahead of Massachusetts to No. 9 in population rank with a 37.1 per cent increase — from 4,951,560 in 1960 to 6,789,443 in 1970.

The report pointed out that migration patterns continued much as they had developed in the past from the middle of the country to the coasts, and from rural to urban areas.

About one-half of the nation's counties lost population during the last decade, and an additional one-fourth experienced a low growth rate, the census report said.

The District of Columbia and three states —West Virginia, North Dakota and South Dakota — actually decreased in population in the 1960s.

Runway Crash Kills Two In Tel Aviv

TEL AVIV (UPI) — A Trans World Airlines (TWA) 707 cargo jet streaking for takeoff at Tel Aviv's Lydda airport before dawn today crashed into an Israeli Air Force stratocruiser being towed on the runway.

Both aircraft exploded in flames, scattering rubble over the runway and forcing a shutdown of the airport for nine hours.

The three-man TWA crew scrambled to safety, two suffering minor scratches, but two Israeli ground workers died and two others were injured, one of them seriously, a police spokesman said.

One of the dead was the driver of a tractor pulling the stratocruiser and the other a ground crewmen whose charred body was found in the cockpit of the Israeli transport, the spokesman said.

Transport Minister Shimon Peres and air force commander Maj. Gen. Mordechai Hod hurried to the scene and, while billowing flames still rose from the hulks, named a five man commission headed by former air force commander Dna Tolkowsky to determine the cause of the collision.

The TWA captain, D. Meyerholz, told newsmen his four

Record Rains Cripple Many Southland Areas

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Record rains soaked southern California Sunday, crippling freeways and highways, causing massive power outages and triggering mudslides.

The rain, which also played a part in hundreds of traffic accidents, tapered off today with only light showers forecast. The storm front, spawned in the Pacific, was moving into Arizona.

Fifteen persons were reported dead or missing in crashes on rain-slicked highways, in air crashes in heavy overcast and two other rain-related accidents.

Two pilots were killed in air crashes, four other persons disappeared on another airplane flight, seven died in auto crashes, a surfer vanished in the stormy Pacific and a farm worker was electrocuted by wind-whipped power lines.

Another storm appeared to be developing in the Pacific Northwest late Sunday and the National Weather Service saw the 50 per cent possibility of rain in Los Angeles today and Tuesday. If the storm hits, it will be the third major frontal system to move through the area since the beginning of the Thanksgiving weekend.

Numerous area schools were closed due to flooding conditions. Landslides were prevalent in areas ravaged by recent brush fires in several counties.

Thirty-seven Boy Scouts and their scoutmasters were stranded in the Bear Canyon area in the Angeles National Forest Sunday night when the San Gabriel River rose to 45 feet across.

A sheriff's spokesman said the scouts could not cross the river but that they were in no danger.

Some 130,000 persons in southeast Los Angeles County were without power for several hours. Another 3,600 in San Diego were affected for 65 minutes.

In San Bernardino, sandbagging operations were being conducted in widespread portions of the city. Most businesses covered up front doors as water rose up over street curbs.

Rainfall totals for the storm ranged from about 4.5 inches at the Civic Center here to more than 11 inches at San Marcos Pass in Santa Barbara County late Sunday for a 24-hour period.

The heaviest previous rain on a Nov. 29 here was .75 of an inch that fell in 1892.

Two bridges in San Bernardino were washed out and a mudslide three miles west of nearby Devore derailed two cars of a 100-car Santa Fe freight train.

New Nationwide Rail Network Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Transportation Department unveiled a new nationwide rail network plan today that would cut over-all passenger service by 15 per cent.

The new system, operated by the newly created Rail Passenger Corp., would have 16 different rail passenger routes serving 85 per cent of the areas served by the present system.

Nixon Signs Three Year Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon signed into law today a three-year farm bill which includes the first ceiling ever imposed on federal crop subsidies.

The lengthy measure, which goes into effect with 1971 crops, includes a series of redesigned 1971-73 price support programs for grains and cotton.

The price support programs are coupled with a flexible new administration - designed "set aside" system for holding down overproduction of crops.

The subsidiary ceilings — $55,000 annual payments to any one farmer for cotton, wheat, and feed grains —will affect only about 1,100 of the nation's nearly three million farms. Most of those (about 950 are cotton producers.

The administration claimed the new support and control plans, which deemphasize the role of the old farm parity formula in fixing support prices, will give farmers more operating freedom plus better income with less dependence on government aid.

In signing the bill, Nixon said that unlike major farm bills of the past, the measure was a product of bipartisan cooperation, with Republicans and Democrats working together for passage.

"Farmers will have the opportunity to move away from frozen acreages on feed grains, wheat and cotton toward a wider choice of crops," Nixon said. "With this greater flexibility to meet immediate market

Reds Reject Allied Protest Over Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) —The official East German news service ADN said today the Soviet embassy rejected a Western allied protest against East German harassment of Berlin traffic. Delays of up to 10 hours backed up traffic for miles.

ADN said the East Berlin embassy considered the American, British and French notes delivered late Sunday "unsatisfactory" and inconsistent with the stated Western aim of reducing tension here.

ADN repeated the Eastern stand that a meeting here of West German Christian Democratic members of parliament was a provocation.

In reaction to the two-day meeting that began today the East Germans began Saturday to delay the passage of Berlin traffic through their highway checkpoints.

For the third day they played a cat and mouse game with trucks and automobiles, first closing the checkpoints and then reopening them after vehicles were backlogged for miles.

West German customs police said some trucks supplying West Berlin were held up for as long as 10 hours.

The action ignored a Western allied warning to the Russians that the harassment of traffic could endanger the Big Four ambassadors talks on Berlin.

Tired Pope Paul Gets Big Australia Welcome

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)— A weary Pope Paul VI received a tumultuous welcome today in Sydney, and as the day wore on he appeared to draw strength from the crowds. His weary smile became a broad grin and cheers brought him bouncing to his feet.

A crowd of 3,000 —far below the expected 25,000—waited for hours at Sydney airport to greet him when he flew in from Leulomega, Western Samoa. He ignored strict security precautions brought about by an attempt on his life in Manila and waded into the crowd to shake hands and offer his blessing.

In Sydney there were thousands of persons packed shoulder to shoulder in the streets in front of Town Hall for the official welcome by Lord Mayor Emmett McDermott, garbed in his ermine robes of office and official chain. The welcome more than made up for the sparse crowd at the airport, and by the time the Pope retired for the night police estimated 700,000 persons had turned out to see him.

The contrast between the poor South Pacific island of Western Samoa and the affluent continent of Australia was as sharp as night and day.

In Samoa he appealed to the world to send more missionaries to preach, teach and heal in such regions where the need for both spiritual and material aid is great. In Australia, on the other hand, the 73-year-old Pope warned that too much wealth has its dangers.

When he left Manila on Sunday the Pope drove into a squalid, muddy slum that even police dare not enter and talked with a poor family there. In Western Samoa he drove past open sided houses with grass roofs and a chair or two as the only furniture.

In Sydney he passed the manicured suburban houses and wellstocked stores that throw this nation into sharp contrast with its Asian neighbors.

The Pope said the primary purpose of his coming to Australia was to join in a meeting of Bishops in Australia and Oceania, as similarly he had joined a conference of Asian bishops in Manila.

A MUDDY DAY IN MALIBU

This is what happened to one resident of Malibu yesterday. He was bogged down both coming and going in an attempt to get to his car. It was Southern California's first big storm of the season. Wind-driven rain washed mud from the hills which were denuded during summer brush fires. Electrical power was out for hours.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Conakry Details

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (UPI) —Conakry Radio has begun giving details of the week-long fighting in Guinea, signaling the government's confidence in having won.

The Voice of the Revolution Radio in Conakry, monitored 600 miles away in Abidjan, said Sunday the government had given "irrefutable proof" to a U.N. mission that Portuguese national led an attempted invasion of Guinea. The radio also said that Guinean troops killed 38 "mercenaries" in fighting over the weekend in northern Guinea near the Portuguese Guinea border.

For the first time the radio said Guinean nationals had been involved in the fighting against government troops and gave some details on damage in and around the capital.

Ford-UAW Talks

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. and United Auto Workers bargainers hope to reach tentative agreement on a new national contract in time to prevent another economy-damaging UAW strike set for a week from today.

But Ford Vice President Malcolm Denise isn't going out on any limbs. "Things are not locked up yet," he said following Sunday's one-hour main-table negotiating session, during which union and company bargainers discussed specific details of a three-year pact presented by Ford.

The offer by the nation's second largest automobile manufacturer Saturday closely resembled the contract ratified by the UAW's 394,000 members at General Motors after a 67-day strike.

Papal Assurance

WARSAW (UPI)—The Roman Catholic primate of Poland said Sunday the Vatican is ready to recognize Poland's Oer-Neisse border as soon as it is settled between the Bonn and Warsaw governments.

Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski told 2,000 persons in St. John's Cathedral he discussed with Pope Paul VI during a recent visit to the Vatican the reorganization of former German dioceses now in Poland.

"I received a letter on this matter from the Holy Father, containing an assurance that, as soon as the political and legal situation is settled, the Holy See will not delay with the proper decrees," Wyszynski said.

East Berlin Plan

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviets today announced a summit conference of East European Communist states will be held in East Berlin during the early part of December.

The terse announcement coincided with a Soviet propoganda campaign against the "political provocation" the Kremlin sees in a meeting of West German politicians in West Berlin.

Panther Effort Off

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Black Panthers and their white sympathizers have abandoned an attempt to write a new U.S. Constitution.

Delegates to the convention, who numbered about 3,500, left Washington Sunday. Spokesmen said they had failed to find an adequate meeting place after being turned down in their requests for use of facilities at Howard University, the University of Maryland and the Washington, D.C., armory.

Huey P. Newton, defense minister for the Panthers, called off the attempt to hold the convention Saturday night.

Spokesmen said the group envisioned a constitution that would eliminate elements of oppression, outlaw racial exclusion and provide proportional representation.

Arson Suspects

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Three teen-agers and a volunteer fireman were arrested during the night on charges they set 11 farm fires in the past month, causing an estimated $250,000 damage, authorities said today.

Food Short In Pakistan

DACCA, East Pakistan (UPI) —An American medical researcher said Sunday the real disaster from the cyclone and tidal wave that devastated East Pakistan may still lie ahead unless massive relief is forthcoming.

Dr. Wiley H. Mosley, director of a Southeast Asia Treay Organization (SEATO) Cholera research laboratory in Dacca, toured the ravaged areas.

"If the people still alive are not given food there will be famine — starvation." Wiley said. He said the tidal wave Nov. 12-13 washed away nearly 100 per cent of rice crops at the height of the harvest.

He said food shortages over the next year appeared to be a greater threat than disease.

"It is areas where casualties were low that the danger is the greatest," Wiley said. "Areas where they lost their food supply but have nearly as many mouths to feed as before the storm."

Israel Claims UAR Installs New Missiles

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israel today accused Egypt of renewed violations of the cease-fire zone along the Suez Canal. It said Egypt was setting up new SAM2 and SAM3 missile bases.

A spokesman said the protest against the new "grave violations" was submitted to United Nations cease-fire supervisors in Jerusalem today.

"According to information which reached the Israel defense forces on Nov. 27, construction and other preparatory work was begun on the Egyptian side of the Suez Canal on new sites for ground to air missiles," the spokesman said. "In so doing the Egyptians violated the cease-fire."

Meanwhile, the Israeli cabinet decided Defense Minister Moshe Dayan will carry Israel's terms for a return to the Middle East peace negotiations with him when he meets with American leaders in mid-December.

The Israeli cabinet, at its Sunday meeting, commissioned Dayan to discuss Israel's terms with U.S. officials. Previously, Dayan's tour of the United States had been confined to speaking engagements.

With the scope of his trip expanded, the defense minister almost certainly will see Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, White House Security Adviser Henry Kissinger and perhaps President Nixon himself.

Prime Minister Golda Meir's cabinet will formulate its terms for resuming the talks under the auspices of U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring on the basis of clarifying discussions Israeli Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin will conduct when he returns to his base in Washington this week.

Israel has made it clear it is ready to resume the talks if certain conditions are met — but it has never spelled out the conditions. Israel broke off the original talks with Egypt and Jordan because of alleged Egyptian violations of the Suez Canal cease-fire zone.

Israel charged Egypt deployed SAM2 and SAM3 missiles in the zone after the Aug. 7 cease-fire began. Although the truce has been extended until Feb. 3, the talks have not resumed.

Confiscations

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese government today confiscated issues of three daily newspapers for alleged violations of the federal newspaper code and ordered the publishers to appear before the Interior Ministry to answer the charges at a later date.

Self-Applied Test For Pregnancy Sold

TORONTO (UPI)—A do-it-yourself pregnancy test, simple to perform and small enough to keep in the corner of a medicine cabinet, went on sale today in Canada.

Called Confidelle, the test costs $5.50 and takes two hours to perform. It is being marketed in a white, three-inch square plastic rack, which looks like part of a toy chemistry set.

Denver Laboratories (Canada) Ltd., the Canadian subsidiary of a firm based in Stamford, Conn., says Confidelle has been tested on several hundred women and was found to be accurate 96 per cent of the time. The firm says the test can detect pregnancy as early as four days after a woman has missed a menstrual period.

Dr. Alan Wohlman, a consultant biochemist involved in the research of the test, said it had been approved for sale by the Canadian Food and Drug Directorate. He said Confidelle is being marketed only in Canada now but would be sold also in the United States in "due course."

A brochure accompanying the kit says Confidelle is a test to determine if human "chorionic gonadotropin (HCG)", the pregnancy hormone, is present in urine.

The test kit consists of a small vial containing "dilutent," a liquid that dilutes the urine to proper concentration; a smaller tube containing a freeze-dried sediment of blood cells coated with HCG; and an eyedropper.

Based on a principle known as "hemaglutination inhibition," the test requires the person taking it to use the dropper to place some of her urine in the vile containing the dilutent. The mixture then is transferred with the dropper to the tube.

The resulting reaction without any urine would be to cause the suspended blood cells to clump together and form a solid mat at the bottom of the tube. The same reaction would be obtained if the urine was from a nonpregnant person.

But if urine containing HCG is used, it interfers with the clumping process, making the sediment form a clearly marked red ring at the bottom of the tube.

The Denfer brochure warns that Confidelle is not intended to replace a doctor's diagnosis. In bold type it advises the user to "see a doctor regardless of the Confidelle test result."

Denver says the test is intended to help send a woman to her doctore more quickly.

Locked Brakes Seen In Crash Evidence

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —Brakes on a military charter jet may have locked on takeoff, exploding two tires and causing the flaming crash that killed 47 persons, federal investigators said Sunday.

Pieces of rubber tires littered the 10,900-foot runway where the Capitol International Airways DC8 stretch jet made its takeoff run Friday.

In several places, rubber appeared to be melted into the asphalt runway of Anchorage International Airport.

A special team of investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) inspected mile-long skid marks, debris and wreckage Sunday and interviewed survivors.

Investigator Frank Malone said it was possible the brakes locked, causing tires to blow out as the Vietnam-bound jet with 219 passengers and a crew of 10 rolled down the runway at 170 miles per hour.

However, NTSB investigators said there were other possible causes and would not give a definite cause until flight and voice recordings flown to Washington, D.C., had been analyzed.

Malone said the Plane's No. 1 engine had been checked for a "slight vibration" before the flight departed Friday from McChord AFB, Wash.

Council Residency Requirement Is Hit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The 3rd District Court of Appeal Wednesday declared unconstitutional Sacramento's five-year residency requirement for city council candidates.

The court ruled that the requirement violates the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and was not justified "by a compelling government interest."

7,000 Mammoth Bones Discovered

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviets archeologists have dug about 7,000 bones from a graveyard of prehistoric mammoths in Siberia, the Soviets said today.

"Archeologists have discovered a vast cemetery of mammoths in the lower reaches of the Indigirka River not far from the Arctic Ocean," it said. "The expedition extracted 7,000 bones of animals of various age from under the permafrost layer."

U.S. Jet Hits Red Gun Site Above DMZ

SAIGON (UPI)—An American jet bombed and strafed a North Vietnamese antiaircraft gun position north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) today when the jet's electronic equipment indicated the Communist guns were aiming at U.S. B52s bombers.

It was the first such incident since the intense American bombing strikes in North Vietnam Nov. 21-22.

The U.S. Command said the F105 Wild Weasel jet fighter-bomber conducted "protective reaction" to "avert hostile action . . . with unknown results."

The Command said the F105 attacked the Communist gun-site 5-1-2 miles north of the DMZ and near the Laotian border. Military sources said the F105 picked up on its electronic gear evidence the antiaircraft position was getting a "fix" on the B52s the F105 was escorting.

The Communists have not been able to shoot down a B52 in the Indochina War. They fly at 35,000 feet and are invisible from the ground.

"There was no damage to U.S. aircraft," the U.S. Command said. "As the Command has stated, protective reaction is the inherent right of self-defense."

The U.S. Command reported American troops strength in Vietnam as of Nov. 26 at 335,800 men compared with a peak strength of 543,400 in April, 1969.

The U.S. Command also reported a surge in fighting involving American troops over the weekend in South Vietnam. At least three GIs were killed and 34 wounded in scattered ground actions.

South Vietnamese infantrymen and militia operating in an area of Binh Thuan province 110 miles east-northeast of Saigon reported killing 41 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops Sunday. Among the Communist troops killed was a company commander and the Saigon government said a Communist "political commisar" was taken prisoner.

The South Vietnamese lost two dead and nine wounded.

Communiques from Phnom Penh said there appeared no imminent threat of a North Vietnamese attack against the capital but it was "possible some enemy reconnaissance elements have entered the city."

NO REST FOR THE WEARY

The weekend's big storm was rough on more than people. This seal sought respite on the breakwater on North San Pedro Road near Peacock Gap Saturday. But San Rafael Patrolman Scott E. Nelson (left) and Robert Miller of the Marin County Humane Society had to prod it back into the water to protect it from children throwing rocks. Miller said the seal appeared healthy and seemed to have tired battling the storm tossed bay. The season's first major storm, with heavy on-again, off-again rains, faded yesterday, but another was reported on the way tonight.

Security Beefed Up For Ky In Bay Area

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco police and federal agents are preparing for the worst during Tuesday's visit by Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam.

They have planned a security building of proportions usually reserved for the arrival of the President of the United States in the face of an announced "massive demonstration and rally against Ky."

The dapper South Vietnamese vice president is scheduled to deliver a luncheon address to the Commonwealth Club, a prestigious business executives' forum whose past speakers include President Nixon and the late Charles De Gaulle.

But an ad hoc coalition to protest Ky's visit has promised to fill the streets outside the Fairmont Hotel during the speech to "let the world know how the people of San Francisco feel about this war."

Sponsors of the demonstration — including state legislators, labor union presidents and clergymen — say they want Ky to know the city's official position, as expressed by an antiwar local ballot proposition which won passage Nov. 3.

Additive Arguments On Agenda

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The merits of Standard Oil Company's fuel additive, F-310, will be argued before Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Alameda County Administration Building, 1221 Oak Street, Oakland.

The state Air Resources Board has asserted that the company exaggerated its claims that the additive reduces smog emissions, and the Federal Trade Commission has made a similar complaint against the company's advertisements.

Also on the agenda, which deals largely with controls on automotive emissions, are John Maga, executive officer of the Air Resources Board, and a spokesman for the California Highway Patrol on its program to cite smoky vehicles.

Several directors of the regional agency favor legislation empowering it to enforce vehicular emission controls.

The executive committee will meet first behind closed doors at 8:45 a.m. to screen applicants for the new position of district lobbyist in Sacramento, a $10,000-a-year post. The personnel committee will meet at 9:15 a.m., also behind closed doors, to screen appointments to the district's advisory council. This committee previously met in public to screen such appointments.

Bond Proposal Is Due Study

The Mill Valley City Council will consider items for a possible spring bond issue when it holds a special meeting today at 8 p.m. at city hall.

A bond issue totaling more than $2 million in city improvements was discussed by councilmen in September, though Mayor George E. Wickham said he favored only a $500,000 package.

The council is expected to eliminate many items from the list and present it to voters sometime in February.

Sound Equipment Reported Stolen

Sound equipment valued at over $200 has been stolen from Blessed Sacrament church in Santa Venetia, sheriff's deputies said.

The theft occurred between Nov. 14 and Nov. 18.

Drug Arrest Hearings Set For Today

Petaluma police arrested five persons on suspicion of drug violations in two separate events over the weekend.

Arrested at 11:30 p.m. yesterday on suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs were Michael Victor Rossotti, 20, of 203 Douglas Street, Petaluma; Gary Joseph Corda, 24, of 4350 Novato Boulevard, Novato; and Harold Steven Ghisletta, 19, of 155 Gossage Avenue, Petaluma.

The minors were also arrested on suspicion of possession of alcoholic beverages. They were booked into Sonoma County Jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Police said their car was stopped at Hinman and Hayes lanes when smoke was seen coming from beneath the car. The officers said tablets believed to be benzedrine were found in their possession.

Arrested Saturday at 2:56 a.m. on suspicion of possession of marijuana and marijuana for sale was John William Arroyo, 21, of 709 I Street, Petaluma, and Michael John Ragar, 21, of 11 Hayes Lane, Petaluma, on suspicion of possession of marijuana.

Police said the pair had reportedly been causing a disturbance at Denny's Restaurant, 4986 Petaluma Boulevard North, and that investigation showed they were in possession of six lids of marijuana.

They were also booked into Sonoma County Jail for arraaignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Leather Taken

Leather clothing of undetermined value was taken Friday night from Lisa's Leathers, 473 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley police reported. Police said the theft occurred between 7 p.m. Friday and 9:50 a.m. Saturday. Entry was gained by prying open the shop's front door, according to officers.

BCDC Staff Vetoes Ferry Port Plaza

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Denial of a permit for a $120 million development proposed on San Francisco's waterfront has been recommended by the staff of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

A commission vote on the controversial Ferry Port Plaza project is set at 2 p.m. Thursday in Room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue.

The staff found that the project, more than twice the size of the Cow Palace, included plans such as an office building which were "clearly not a water-oriented use within the meaning of the law or the commission's bay plan." Both the law and the plan require that such projects in the bay be water-oriented.

They also require that such projects be allowed only when no alternative land location is available. The staff report noted that since sites on existing land were available for the project, its approval by the commission "would therefore clearly be inconsistent" with the law.

Finally, the staff said, "nothing in the record indicates that the project is 'necessary to the health, safety or welfare of the public in the entire bay area,' one of the two bases upon which a permit may be granted by the commission."

The commission rarely has voted contrary to a staff recommendation.

The San Francisco Port Commission, on whose jurisdiction the project would be built, has indicated it may fight the commission if the permit is denied. Port Director Miriam Wolf said the port could go to court to challenge the commission's jurisdiction, or go to the Legislature to change the BCDC law to allow such projects.

The 10-story project, immediately north of the Ferry Building, also envisioned a 1,200-room hotel, stores and a garage for 2,400 cars.

The Most Exciting Headache News In Years!
Doctors' Tests In Treating Nervous Tension Headaches Now Made Public
Non-Narcotic Tablet That Needs No Prescription Proves Just As Effective As The Expensive, Leading Pain-Relief Prescription Of Doctors.

If you're one of the many who get tense, nervous headaches, these latest tests by doctors should be of the greatest importance.

In recent medical tests doctors proved a famous tablet that needs no prescription gives the same complete headache relief as the expensive, leading prescription of doctors.

These doctors' tests proved, beyond a doubt, that Anacin is just as effective to relieve tension headaches, yet Anacin needs no prescription and is far more economical.

With Anacin, headache pain and its nervous tension vanish in minutes. Despite its strength, Anacin is not narcotic. You can take it without getting dizzy or an upset stomach.

Next time take powerful, fast-acting Anacin®. Anacin Tablets give the same complete headache pain relief as the leading prescription product for which doctors wrote 21 million prescriptions last year.

San Francisco Store Window Is Smashed

An Independent-Journal advertiser reported today that vandals this morning shattered a large window in a San Francisco branch of his store.

The advertiser, Petrinis' Market, has been warned repeatedly by telephone to discontinue advertising in the I-J, which has been struck since Jan. 7 by San Francisco Typographical Union 21.

The attack was the latest in a series of weekend incidents.

The store's management reported that a one-inch nut was fired through the window from a passing car. Several persons were in the car, according to a witness, he said.

The attack at Petrini Plaza was at 10:10 a.m.

It was the third time the market's San Francisco store has been hit by vandals. On Nov. 22, vandals slashed 10 truck tires, threw acid on a truck cab and stink-bombed five doors at the market. Its trucks also were vandalized on Nov. 9, when tires on two produce trucks were slashed in South San Francisco.

The firm also has been the victim of secondary boycott picketing and union efforts to halt truck deliveries.

Sabella's Restaurant in Mill Valley reported a stink bomb was thrown against its front door shortly after 5 p.m. Saturday. A window in the banquet room was found broken at the same time.

A witness said the bomb was thrown by two well-dressed men in their mid-20s, according to a spokesman for the restaurant.

The spokesman said that the restaurant had received a general mailer from the typographical union urging I-J advertisers to stop advertising in the I-J.

Tires on the car of an I-J employee were slashed and a stink bomb was thrown in front of the main entrance to the Independent-Journal building at 1040 B Street during the weekend, San Rafael police have reported.

Four tires on the auto of Alan Beckley, a machinist were slashed while the car was parked on Shaver Street near Fourth Street. He discovered it about 5:30 p.m. Friday.

A Christmas tree ornament filled with foul smelling liquid was dropped in front of the I-J door on B Street at 5:15 p.m. Saturday, an I-J guard reported to police.

A witness told police he saw two men in front of the door at the time. He described them as white male adults, one six feet, two inches tall, weighing 200 to 225 pounds, unshaven, grey balding hair and wearing a red panelled lumberjacket type coat and the other about the same height, slender, lean face, grey hair, wearing glasses and a brown jacket.

Police were unable to locate the men near the building.

Tires of two other I-J employees were slashed Friday in previously reported vandalism.

Defense Attorneys Question Officer

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — Defense attorneys continued picking today at the testimony of Officer John Campion of the California Highway Patrol, trying to find discrepancies in his testimony.

Campion was on the stand to describe actions of his arrest squad during a riot outside the Independent-Journal on Valentine's Day.

A rally called in support of International Typographical Union 21 which struck the I-J Jan. 7, resulted in violence and the arrest of seven men who are on trial in Solano Superior Court before Judge William E. Jensen. Grand jury indictments brought a total of 36 counts against the seven.

None of the arrest squad sent to Julia Street on the afternoon of Feb. 14 used bullhorns or other amplifiers Campion told cross-examining defense attorneys today.

Campion said officers individually warned persons in the crowd to disperse or be arrested for unlawful assembly.

Most of the morning was spent in bickering over the interpretation of photographs of the Julia Street actions as to when they were taken and what they show.

Officer John Rosentangle, of the San Rafael Police Department, one of those injured during the day, was to be Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas's next prosecution witness.

147 Children Vaccinated In San Rafael

More than 140 children at John MacPhail School in San Rafael were vaccinated against rubella during today's first stop by Marin County's health team.

A spokesman for the county health department said 147 children received the shot which brought the campaign total as of 10 a.m. to 6,494.

Dr. Albrecht, county health officer, has said the department hopes to immunize about 80 per cent of the 47,000 children between 1 and 11 years of age in Marin County.

She said that even though the clinics are being held at schools, children do not have to come from that school, but may come from anywhere. She emphasized that included pre-school children as well.

The schedule is:

Tomorrow — 9 a.m. Oliver Hartzell; 10 a.m., Nova Albion; 11 a.m., Don Timoteo; 1 p.m., St. Isabella; and 2 p.m. Bernard Hoffman.

0476 01

Wednesday — 9 a.m. Santa Margarita, 10:30 a.m. Oak View, 12:30 p.m. Dixie, 2 p.m. Lucas Valley.

Thursday — 9:30 a.m. Tomales, 11 a.m. West Marin, 12:30 p.m. Inverness, 2 p.m. Bolinas.

Friday — 8:45 a.m. St. Anselms, 9:45 a.m. Isabel Cook, 1 p.m. Yolansdale, 1:45 p.m. Sleepy Hollow.

Dec. 7 — 9 a.m. Lagunitas, 10:30 a.m. Nicasio, 1:30 p.m. Mary Silveira.

Highway 101 and Petaluma Boulevard South, the CHP reported.

Minnie Bell Pietronave, 55, of 24 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, was reported in good condition at Petaluma General Hospital with neck and right hand injuries. Gwendolyn Agnes Schultz, 52, of Fresno was treated for facial cuts at the same hospital.

The Schulz car was southbound on Highway 101 and collided with one driven southbound by Robert John Ortega of 279 East Cotati Avenue, Cotati, CHP reported.

Janice Lee Malone, 23, of 23 Greenwood Drive, Tiburon, was treated at Marin General Hospital for abrasions to her forehead. Her southbound car collided at 1:30 p.m. Saturday with one driven by Houston Lee Levers, 48, of 6624 Ford Drive, Tiburon, also southbound on Highway 101 at the Alto interchange, according to the CHP.

Ann Maynor Cost, 41, of 625 Bridgeway, Sausalito, was to see her own doctor for head pain. Her southbound car collided at 10:15 p.m. Saturday with one driven southbound by David Louis Dellera, 18, of 306 Las Flores Avenue, San Rafael, on Highway 101 at Miller Creek Road, CHP reported.

Four persons were taken to Marin General Hospital from an accident at 11:55 p.m. Saturday on Highway 101 at the San Pedro Road overpass, CHP reported.

Alex Scott, 20, of 1836 Fifth Avenue, San Refael, was treated at Marin General Hospital for neck and shoulder pains. Georgette Parry, 32, of 501 Arlen Drive, Rohnert Park, was treated for facial cuts and injured right shoulder.

Scott was a passenger in a car driven north on Highway 101 by Joseph Jackson, 21, also of 1836 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael. Jackson refused treatment, the hospital reported. Jackson's car collided with one driven by Ivor Timothy Parry, 37, husband of Georgette Parry. He also refused treatment at the hospital. A 20-year-old Petaluma man was injured today at 2:30 a.m. when his car, northbound on Highway 101 near the Hamilton Air Force Base exit, struck a light pole, according to the Highway Patrol.

Gary L. Gibbs, of 436 Corona Road, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut chin.

No other details of the accident were available.

needs, farmers can use their resources to produce their most favorable crops and make more efficient use of the land.

"One important result should be broader markets for U.S. farm products at home and overseas."

Critics, however, charged that the legislation would cut farm income and will open the way to development of new farm surpluses. Chairman Allen J. Ellender, D-La., of the Senate Appropriations Committee predicted economic disaster for the nation's cotton growers.

The opponents also cited Republican defeats in farm belt states in the Nov. 3 election as evidence of farmers unhappiness with the new measure.

Trailer Fire In Larkspur; Big Crowd

Fire destroyed a trailer in the Marin Trailer Park in Larkspur Saturday. Damage was estimated at $12,500.

Firemen arriving at 2130 Redwood Highway between 3:30 and 4 p.m. also had to content with a woman who had collapsed while watching the blaze and a crowd of about 50 which had gathered around the stricken woman, Helen G. Chandler, according to Fire Chief William C. Schurtz.

Mrs. Chandler received first aid from the first firemen on the scene and police were summoned to control the crowd, Schurtz said. Mrs. Chandler died in the emergency room of Marin General Hospital shortly afterwards.

The fire battled by 23 firemen destroyed the trailer of Joe Galentine, Schurtz said. Galentine was not at home when the fire started, he said.

The chief said the blaze began in the trailer's bathroom, but the cause was undetermined today.

A neighboring trailer belonging to Elizabeth Sticker received minor heat damage, the chief said, but there were no injuries from the fire and no other damage.

SENIOR HOUSING — The new housing development for senior citizens in Novato — featuring sturdy, squat buildings with redtiled roofs and buttressed by timbers — resembles a Spanish village. The buildings surround a courtyard area which contains a recreation room, small office and a laundry room.

NEW RESIDENTS — Enjoying a brand new apartment are Mr. and Mrs. Chester Tilley, who have moved into the Marin County Housing Authority's newest development for senior citizens, a 40-unit project at Fourth Street and Carmel Drive, on the edge of Novato. The project has both studio and one-bedroom units.

NO NAME YET

Marin's Newest Senior Housing

Marin's newest senior housing project, on the edge of Novato, doesn't have a name yet, but the occupants call it wonderful.

They moved in from cramped and over-priced apartments, boarding houses and living with relatives to the new complex, nestled beneath a hill at Fourth Street and Carmel Drive.

The 40-unit project, completed last month and already filled, will be dedicated at 10 a.m. Dec. 12.

"It's wonderful to live here," said Pasquale Petrone, 64. "They're looking for a name for this place and I suggested 'Cheerful Twilight'," he said.

Petrone and his wife, who formerly lived in one room in a Novato boarding house, view their one-bedroom apartment as spacious.

"It's hard for me to find a job," said Petrone, who left his native Italy a little more than two years ago. "In Italy, I had two jobs," he declared.

Strolling through the courtyard of the project, Petrone glanced at the surrounding land and commented: "All around you see countryside. It's so quiet."

The project, scheduled to be annexed to the City of Novato, consists of a cluster of Spanish-styled buildings with red-tile roofs. It is only several blocks from downtown Novato.

Lillian Vanderbilt, former San Rafael deputy city treasurer, living in a studio apartment, said: "It's a lovely place."

A 72-year resident of San Rafael, Mrs. Vanderbilt had been living in an apartment in downtown San Rafael for the past 15 years.

"I never thought I'd leave San Rafael," she said. Her San Rafael apartment was "okay," but it had 30 stairs and her health wouldn't permit the climb, she explained.

"This is a little bigger, and, of course, it's brand new, and the rent is $48. Before I paid $100."

With two sisters and a daughter in Novato, she felt she was in the right place to see them more often.

Mrs. Vanderbilt laughed when she told of a friend who thought a person had to be on welfare to qualify for senior housing.

"You don't have to be on welfare," she explained. "Just have a low income."

(Wallace K. Shepherd, interim executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority, said the basic qualification is that the occupants don't have assets exceeding $5,000 or a net family income exceeding $3,200.)

Mrs. Vanderbilt walked to her patio and looked out at the nearby Pinheiro ranch. "In the morning I look out and see the cows over there," she commented, conceding it was quite a change from her former apartment view in downtown San Rafael.

Her neighbor, Elsie Purtill, was baking biscuits when an I-J reporter intruded. "I didn't have to move too far," Mrs. Purtill said. "I used to live at Fourth Street and Elm Drive, just a few blocks away."

While she was talking, a young girl from the Olompali 4-H Club arrived at the door and gave her a "Happy Thanksgiving" card with a picture of a turkey on it.

"Now, isn't that nice," Mrs. Purtill commented, and she smiled as she placed the card atop a piano, near the family pictures.

She described her apartment as "delightful" and observed "you pay less rent and it has more room."

Referring to her new neighbors, she said, "They're all very happy."

A resident of Novato for five years, after living many years in Southern California, Mrs. Purtill has a daughter-in-law in that city.

One woman, who didn't want to be identified, said: "I don't think you'll find anyone who isn't happy."

Mrs. Catherine Hutchinson, a former resident of Larkspur, also lauded her new apartment.

"In Larkspur I had an apartment on Magnolia Avenue, where all the noise was. I paid $145 a month in a place, one bedroom, that wasn't as good."

Mrs. Hutchinson, who has a son in Novato, said her new location was convenient for seeing her son and his family . . . "at least I see them more often."

Marge Prescott, manager of the senior housing projects under the Marin County Housing Authority, said the majority of units are occupied by Novato residents. "They went to Novato residents first," she explained.

The project is the fourth constructed by the authority under its authorization to construct 200 units for senior citizens.

With the opening of the Novato project, there are 144 units occupied countywide, and the final project is scheduled to be 56 units at the Tiburon Wye in Alto.

Shepherd said there is a waiting list of 200 for senior citizen housing units.

AT HOME — Modern kitchens are efficient and Mrs. Chester Tilley makes use of hers, pouring a cup of coffee. The apartments include the kitchen equipment, but residents bring their own furniture for living rooms and bedrooms.

The Novato project was constructed by Smith and Haley of Oakland at a cost of $626,651. It was preceded by projects in Santa Venetia, Homestead Valley and Northgate.

Marin Supervisor John F. McInnis will be chairman of the dedication ceremonies with Novato Mayor Douglas M. Merrill as moderator and Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-Mill Valley, as a guest.

The projects at Santa Venetia and Homestead Valley won U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development awards for design.

Chamber Backs Transit Plan

The Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau has endorsed a transit statement prepared by the Golden Gate Corridor Committee of the Greater San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, B. A. Farlatti, Marin chamber president, reported.

The statement calls for "a competent and full-scale ferry service" from San Francisco to Marin and asks for the elimination of service stoppages which occur when the Golden Gate Bridge District's ferry is disabled.

In addition, the chambers of commerce are asking the Bridge district to share in the cost of improving the southern approach to the Bridge, the scene of several fatal auto accidents.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Science Foundation today awarded $14.4 million in science grants to 657 colleges and universities in the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Status Of Ferry Terminal On Agenda

A review of the current status of a proposed ferry terminal for Larkspur will be presented to the city council Wednesday at 8 p.m. in city hall.

The council also will call for bids for reconstruction of Bon Air Bridge, between Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Magnolia Avenue, and will consider hiring of a park planner.

Steamship Service From Russia

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Soviet Union has begun scheduled steamship service to the United States, the first since World War II.

The Soviet freighter Novikov Priboy tied up here to unload manufactured steel from Japan.

The vessel is one of eight ships of the Far Eastern Steamship Co. FESCO, based in Vladivostok, which will bring goods from Canadian ports on the West Coast.

A spokesman for FESCO said Saturday the firm sends three or four ships a month to British Columbia. There is no reason the "company should not, in the future, come into U.S. ports in the same numbers."

Girl, 14, Says Gunman Took Her Bicycle

A 14-year-old Mill Valley girl was robbed of her bicycle at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, by a man who hit her on the head with a gun, Marin county sheriff reported.

Natalie Ann Mussey of 431 Throckmorton Avenue, told the sheriff that she was riding westbound on Evergreen Avenue at Ethel Avenue when the car came at her. She jumped off her bicycle and stood on the sidewalk.

A man waved a gun at her and demanded her bicycle valued at $150, according to her report, then hit her on the head with the gun and knocked her to the sidewalk. She lay on the sidewalk for a few minutes while he loaded the bike into his car and drove off, she told deputies.

Today is Monday, Nov. 30, the 334th day of 1970.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.

On this day in history:

In 1762 preliminary peace articles ending the Revolutionary War were signed in Paris.

In 1874 Sir Winston Churchill, who twice was Britain's Prime Minister, was born.

In 1939 the Russo-Finnish War started after the Soviet Union failed to obtain territorial concessions from Finland.

In 1962 U. Thant of Burma was elected secretary general of the United Nations.

A thought for today: Benjamin Franklin said, "Experience keeps a dear school, but fools will learn in no other way."

Salary Plan To Be Studied

The Novato Unified School District board will consider ratification of a proposed 6.5 per cent pay raise for teachers at 7:30 p.m. today in the lecture hall at Novato High School.

The proposed 1970-71 salary agreement, reached by the board's representative and the teachers' negotiating council, has been ratified by the Novato Teachers Association.

Teachers, however, also voted to continue their sanctions alert, one step from invoking sanctions against the district, because they wanted the raise designated temporary pending further study.

When Contract Is Shaky, The Opening Lead Is Very Important

We begin a week devoted to the opening lead with a confession that nobody knows how important this subject is. The opening lead is not particularly important when the contract is unbeatable. But when the contract is shaky, the opening is usually more important than any other move the defense can make. You don't have to think about opening leads if you enjoy being a loser. It's certainly much easier to make an excuse than to make the best opening lead.

"SAFEST" LEAD

West made the "safest" opening lead — the top card of a sequence. This could not give declarer a trick that he wasn't going to make for himself, but the lead was so safe that it gave declarer his contract.

South took the king of spades and led the king of clubs to force out the ace. East shifted to a diamond, but it was too late. South stepped up with the ace of diamonds and ran his tricks: five clubs, a diamond, two hearts and two spades.

When he opened the ten of spades, West violated one of the basic rules of the opening lead: Avoid leading suits bid by the opponents.

NOT ABSOLUTE RULE

Notice that this rule is not couched in absolute terms. No realistic expert would say: "Never lead the suits bid by the opponents." The point is that you don't lead a suit in which the opponents presumably have length and strength merely because you don't know what else to do: you lead such a suit chiefly when you know exactly what you are doing.

In today's hand, West should lead the unbid suit because there is very little other hope of developing five tricks before South's announced strong club suit comes into play.

EAST'S ACTION

With a diamond lead, East manages to set up his suit immediately. East gets in with the ace of clubs in time to cash the rest of his diamonds, defeating the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and you respond one spade.

Partner now bids two clubs, and it is once more up to you, holding:

♠ - A 6 5 4 2
♥ - K 6 4 3 2
♦ - 6 2
♣ - 7.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

You are not happy about your support for partner's suit, but it is too dangerous to bid again with only seven points in high cards and with no assurance of a fit. If the hand is a misfit, any low undoubled contract is good; and if the hand is not a complete misfit, your partner may still make two clubs.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have 250 shares of Sears, Roebuck stock bought through their payroll profit sharing plan. I am 64 and wonder if I should sell these shares and invest in certificates of deposit for greater income. I am also concerned about inflation and long-term capital gains tax. — F.J.

A. I would prefer to see you compromise by selling only 150 shares of Sears stock, with the balance held as an inflation hedge. The strong action of these shares since May — up 40 per cent from the 1970 low — presents a good opportunity for profit taking. By selling your most costly shares you can minimize your capital gains tax.

Retail sales were sluggish in October, and holiday shopping is also expected to be slow, reflecting economic uncertainties and the high level of unemployment. For the nine months through October, Sears' sales increased 4%, well below the 13 per cent average annual gain scored in the last ten years. Investing the capital released from the sale of 150 Sears in certificates of deposit would increase your annual return by 125%.

Q. In joint ownership of stocks, what happens when one of the owners dies? — M. S.

A. That depends specifically on how the stock certificate is actually registered. Assuming that the purpose — on the death of one owner — is to have the survivor receive full and clear title, it is necessary to have the stock registered in two names, "as joint tenants with right of suvivorship" and not "as tenants in common."

This wording is extremely important, and if the stock is so registered, the surviving owner will gain possession of the shares in his own name with nothing to produce but a death certificate and, in some instances, a residential certificate which the transfer agent may require for tax purposes. There is no right of survivorship between tenants in common. Incidentally, when the qualifying phrase with rights of survivorship is used, it is unimportant whether the conjunction "and" or "or" joins the two names.

County Group Asks More Public Works

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Association of Counties has suggested to President Nixon a speedup of public works projects in areas of particularly severe unemployment.

Best Gain In 3 Months On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market Monday scored its best gain in more than three months as volume expanded to more than 17,000,000 shares.

Shortly before the close, the Dow Jones industrial average was up about 12 points at 793.74, while advances outscored declines, 1,220 to 237, on 1,667 issues on the tape.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was ahead 1.10 near the final bell.

Closing prices included : Am. T & T 45 3-8 up 1; Beth St 20 7-8 up 1-2; Chrysler 28 5-8 up 1, Du Pont 123 1-4 off 1-8; Ford 51 7-8 up 7-8; Gen El 88 3-8 up 7-8; Gen Motors 76 5-8 up 1-4; IBM 307 1-4 off 1 1-4.

Analysts said Wall Street was reacting to easier credit conditions, hopes for a turnaround in business in the first half of next year, and a stronger bond market.

One analyst observed "it was kind of a buying panic," generated by the breakout from a three-month trading range on the Dow. The closely watched blue chip barometer had been locked in the 740 to 780 range since September.

Another analyst observed that, while there are no definite signs the 1969-70 bear market is over, "recent moves toward easier money and lower interest rates have generated sufficient confidence among professional investors to take a constructive approach toward the market."

He noted that an anticipated lesser rate of tax selling and traditional investment demand in January did much towards limiting downside market risks.

Among the most active issues on the big board were Tenneco, Federal National Mortgage, American Telephone, R.J. Reynolds, American Electric Power, Atlantic Richfield, Telex Corp., Chrysler, and Standard Oil of California.

Prices gained in brisk trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Apartments Within Homes Illegal—But Fill Need

The San Anselmo City Council has stirred up quite a bit of public feeling by moving to abate two illegal apartments in one-family residential zones.

Most of the objections have been voiced by friends of Gay Kagy, who remodeled an attached garage into a small apartment for herself and her child and rents out the rest of the residence at 280 Redwood Road. Little has been heard from the second owner faced with an abatement order, William D. Howey of 104 Oak Knoll Avenue.

The two, however, admittedly are merely the first of many in the Hub City who may find themselves cited for having apartments or second houses on lots zoned for a single-family use. There have been statements that as many as 150 to 200 San Anselmo homes may be subject to such orders if the drive to eliminate such zoning violations is carried through.

DOUBTLESS THERE ARE nearly as many in Mill Valley, more in San Rafael, and considerable numbers in Marin's smaller cities.

Their existance is seen by official eyes as showing a scofflaw attitude toward zoning ordinances. Maybe it does. But maybe it also shows a need.

Every city in Marin has permitted "non-conforming uses" in one-family residential zones which are exactly like those against which the City of San Anselmo plans to move. These are apartments or second houses which were in use before the zoning ordinance was passed restricting the area to single-family homes. They are permitted to continue under the sound legal principle that an owner cannot be denied to use his property in a manner which was legal when he put it to that use.

Many of these exist because of a change in social patterns resulting from the increased cost of domestic help.

IN EARLIER YEARS, more affluent families in Marin customarily employed cooks, housemaids, yardmen, chauffeurs. Servants' quarters were provided in the big houses or in separate buildings in back yards.

Economic and social changes did away with that. It became impossible for any but the most wealthy to have "live-in servants." So the former servants' quarters were converted to "mother-in-law apartments." Then, as the more affluent heirs moved to new homes and the properties changed hands, they became rental units.

These "nonconforming uses" provide most of the less expensive apartments for young people who do not make enough money to pay the rents in recently built apartment houses, and for old people whose careful savings plus social security are insufficient to pay the ever-rising taxes on big old homes.

There is no doubt they are needed. There also is little doubt that more of them are needed than we have. And partly to meet that need, apartments have been "bootlegged" into what previously were single-family homes.

IT MAKES LITTLE sense to do away with practically the only living accommodations in the county which meet the need for inexpensive housing for young and old. Yet that must be the end result of strict enforcement of single-family zoning ordinances.

Perhaps the city councils of San Anselmo and the rest of Marin's cities should take a hard look at their single-family zones.

Perhaps it would make sense to permit one — and only one — rental unit in each home of seven or more rooms. This would encourage owners of large old houses to create small apartments which would do two things: help ease the housing shortage and permit the elderly owners to continue to live in the homes they love, by providing revenue to pay the taxes.

Reagan Glad To Wash Hands Of Deal That Didn't Wash

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

One of the more fascinating echoes to come out of the election had it that Gov. Ronald Reagan's strategists attempted to rescue Dr. Max Rafferty.

The controversial educator, however, did not buy the deal because in return he would have had to give Reagan forces the right to name his chief deputy, the man who handles daily operations of the department of education.

Marin's own Paul Haerle, Reagan's Northern California campaign chairman, acknowledged that the story, which appeared first in the Los Angeles Times, was on target. "I won't deny the basic suggestion," he said.

Haerle said the first move was "not so much an offer by us as a request from them" (the Rafferty camp). Whatever offer was made to help Rafferty, he said, "was just our response to their request."

THE REAGAN administration has not made a secret of its unhappiness with Rafferty's management of his department, a feeling that was fired last March when Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post accused the department of waste and mismanagement. No effort was made then by the administration to defend Rafferty.

Haerle said he and Rafferty held discussions in October after it was clear that the superintendent's reelection campaign was in trouble. Haerle, Reagan's appointments secretary in 1967-69, said his discussions with Rafferty included "ways his department appointments might be improved."

The Reagan rescue presumably would have included an all-out effort by the governor, camapign money and staff aid —if the deal had been accepted by Rafferty.

"Nothing came of it, obviously," Haerle told the Independent-Journal. He added that such a rescue, as shown by analysis of the election results, "would not have worked, and probably would have pulled the governor further down.

"All in all," Haerle said of the discussions with Rafferty, "it was a good thing that it did not work out."

And so the camera fades out on a retiring superintendent — and we hear the sound of hands being washed in the background.

SPEAKING OF WASHOUTS, Sen. George Murphy's defeat will benefit another Republican, Rep. William S. Mailliard, whose Sixth District includes most of Marin. He now is the number one Republican legislator from California in Washington, and as such is the Nixon administration's prime contact for partisan congressional matters involving California.

Mailliard lands squarely in this powerful position as chairman of California's Republican delegation in the House — and there will be no Republican from California in the Senate come January. Mailliard also is vice chairman of the state's entire congressional delegation, again a powerful position, given the fact that California has the largest delegation in Congress.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Schoolman Writes Own Editorial

Your editorial last week about Dixie School District captures my attention because it dealt with the public enterprise that receives a large portion of my energy and effort. My attention became intense when I saw my own name (slightly misspelled) in print. When I saw what Joseph H. Goff was reported to have said, I wondered if in truth you were writing about someone else.

My anger at the misrepresentation in your editorial cooled only when I realized that this was editorial opinion writing and not factual reporting. The point of the editorial was that public employees and officials should honor their pledges. With this I agree wholeheartedly; but, having a different idea of what my own pledges are, decided I needed to write my own editorial.

Dixie School District has been favored for many years by a discerning public that has elected outstandingly effective citizens to its Board of Trustees. They have shown by their action a deep commitment to providing quality education at a modest cost. They have been backed up on this commitment by a capable and energetic staff of employees and a supportive public with high expectations. My pledge is now and always has been to help our board, faculty, and community to solve problems in such a way that the solutions contribute to the continued ability of the district to satisfy educational expectations as well as possible at what we know is a relatively modest expenditure level.

Army Plan Called Threat To Marin

It's really depressing to hear that the Army is doing its best to hurt Marin County. In an effort to "Keep the Presidio Beautiful," they are going to destroy the infinitely more beautiful Marin.

The Golden Gate Bridge doesn't need additional commute traffic, and no one needs the additional air pollution. If the Army personnel working in the presidio also live there, we won't have the extra traffic and pollution.

From biking experience in the Presidio, I know that parts of it are truly beautiful, but then again, so is Marin. Should we Marinites let Alioto and the Army destroy our share of California's rapidly vanishing natural beauty? Speak out, Marin, and save your heritage from the destructive city!

Quote Ambiguous, Sugarman Says

My statement to the Council of Mayors was ambiguously quoted in the I-J. Kindly clarify it.

Commercial sports, military, police rescue, fire, and other community-service aircraft are legitimate. Aircraft carrying advertisements are unnecessary and undesirable. Plastic 25-foot beer bottles, 45-foot pop bottles, and 30-foot cigarette packs (S.F. CHRONICLE, Nov. 13) towed through the marvelous skies of Marin are without merit.

The epidemic of garish night and day flying billboards has defiled Florida, New York, New England, and Honolulu and is on its way up from Los Angeles to befoul our lovely skies.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney reported to the board of supervisors that aircraft advertising can be controlled by county ordinance. Let's stop this aerial infestation now. Aerial advertising is an affront ot our ecological, safety, and commercial values. Marinites should press for an ordinance to control aerial advertising NOW, BEFORE the abomination gains an irrevocable foothold.

Must Do More To Curb Pollution

Your editorial on Saturday (Nov. 21) stated you were not going to discuss what was happening to our environment until after Christmas so we could all be jolly.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if all the polluters (business, farmers and all mankind) would stop polluting until January? Unfortunately, that is not the case. With 40 per cent of the life of the ocean already destroyed and with pollution agents, both those known and those yet to be discovered, working overtime to destroy our environment, your paper should be making a real effort (such as recycling your newsprint) instead of the meager and ineffectual coverage you are now presenting.

This is in particular an appropriate time to advise people about disposing of excess paper, bottles, etc., that accumulate during the holidays. And a word of caution about overspending and overconsuming without regard for the consequences would be in order too!

The fight against pollution cannot take a holiday or you won't have any birds and animals to write about.

Mrs. JO McLEOD

THE DRUMMONDS

Fear Of Revolution Dogs U.S., But Danger Not Really Great

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — After a recent nationwide reporting trip, we offer three conclusions which, we believe, are in the hearts of Americans today:

1—There is widespread, growing fear of racial strife, fear of campus strife, fear of revolution that could bring the country down.

2—There will be no revolution. Our institutions are far stronger than many realize — stronger than those who admire them and stronger than those who hate them.

3—But we do face painful discomfort. Our greatest danger is that the false fear of revolution will so paralyze our thinking that government at every level will fail to do what needs to be done to meet just grievances, to bring the American dream nearer to reality.

WE DO NOT minimize the depth and acuteness of the anxiety which possesses so many people today.

One of the nation's best reporters, Haynes Johnson of the Washington Post, found that "fear of revolution" was the most visible and pervasive part of the mood of the country. Our experience was the same. And it seems to us that President Franklin D. Roosevelt's words are just as true today as they were in 1933 at the peak of the Depression: "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

An outsider's view will help to put things in perspective. "The basic structures (of American society) are impregnably strong," C. P. Snow, the distinguished British scientist and novelist, writes in Look magazine after traveling in 35 states in the United States.

"But these basic structures," he continues, "are, in non-authoritative countries, very easily perturbed on the surface. We have discovered how impossible it is to change a society at its roots. But we have also made another discovery, that it is quite simple to make it inconvenient to live in. A few hundred elevator men can immobilize an American city. A dozen students can disrupt the administrative machinery of a university. But this is not revolution. It is more like commotion or clear-air turbulence.

"Advanced society, particulary in the United States, is not going to change radically. It will almost certainly be subject to turbulence . . . but fear of revolution is quite unrealistic."

We share the view of the Scranton Commission on Campus Unrest that there is no justification for violence for any cause anywhere under any circumstance. Neither violent dissenters nor overreacting police have a place in our society.

But we must never forget that the violence-prone want revolution for its own sake. They are seeking to create a state of mind to make peaceful social change impossible.

They don't want reform. They want to create resistance to needed reform by spreading turmoil on the surface of our society. They want to make the rest of us their unwitting allies by turning us against peaceful social change on the ground that it would be appeasement.

Vigorous law enforcement is not appeasement.

Vigorous social reform is not appeasement.

They go hand in hand, and when they do the revolutionaries will be on the run, turmoil on the surface will be on the wane, and as a nation and as a people we will be better off.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

All For Saving Environment Unless It Costs A Buck

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — The common assumption is that the public is at last alerted to the long-range danger to our environment, and all that needs doing now is to enact the necessary safeguards to clean it up. But the evidence, from sea to smog-bound sea, is that it's not that simple.

On the contrary: industry, labor and even the consumer at large are going to be either hostile or indifferent to cleanup measures if there is the remotest chance that it will cost them a sale, a job or a buck.

This discouraging conclusion is clearly supported by decisions recently rendered by juries as diverse as the general population of the state of Washington and the House Ways and Means Committee here in Washington, D.C.

ON THE WEST Coast, the outdoorsman's paradise of mountains, forest and seashore known as Washington state is not a major sufferer from industrial pollution, at least not by the standards of those familiar with the dead rivers and lakes and reeking cities of the East and Midwest.

But the very attraction of the outdoors there caused the state to be victimized more than most by the postwar boom in throwaway cans and bottles. No place, from Mount Rainier to the isolated seacoast, was free of such litter. Unheeding outsiders so abused the 20-mile shoreline within the Quinault Indian Reservation, abutting Olympic National Park, that residents closed the area to all non-Indians.

The worsening situation had a fortuitous encounter with a man who thought something could be done about it. He was Robert Keller, a history professor in Bellingham, who took a student's idea for an experimental statewide ballot initiative and put it into politcial action. Enthusiasts young and old helped him gather more names on petitions to put the issue on the November ballot than were ever collected before in Washington history.

THE PROPOSAL was to require at least a 5-cent deposit on all soft drink and beer containers. Throwaway bottles and cans thus would be squeezed out. Both parties endorsed the initiative. A Republican survey showed public sympathy running 5-to-1 for it.

But in mid-October the opponents splashed a costly media campaign against it. Television, bumper stickers, skywriting — every technique was used to convince voters that the measure would cost jobs and cost money not only to beer and pop drinkers but to consumers of other products in throwaway packages. Keller says the opposition outspent the advocates by nearly 100-to-1 and that most of that cash came from the can and bottle industries, although organized labor opposed the proposal, too.

The initiative was overwhelmed by this spending. By a 52-48 per cent margin, Washingtonians turned it down. The heaviest anti-vote came in the Seattle-Tacoma area, where unemployment is running about 11 per cent because of the recession in aerospace industries.

Now Keller and other stubborn enthusiasts are trying to accomplish the same end through legislation. The bill to be introduced early next year at Olympia will clarify some of the questions opponents were able to raise against the initiative.

LOBBYING PRESSURE can be concentrated more effectively on legislation than on ballot initiatives, of course. It was one, but only one, reason why the House Ways and Means Committee killed the administration request for a $1.6 billion "anti-pollution" tax on leaded gasoline.

Labor and business both spoke against it. The ethyl people and the oil people were against it. It would hurt the consumer, cause more inflation and, besides cutting out lead, might not be the answer to smog after all, they argued.

By the time all the arguments were registered and administration experts admitted they had mishandled the bill tactically, the committee decided it was not even worthwhile to bring it to a record vote. The mishandling came when the administration assumed the bill's passage in making budget estimates for the current fiscal year — thus making it look more like a fiscal gimmick than a genuine environmental measure.

If what happened in Washington state and in the House committee is not to become a consistent pattern, public education and organization are going to have to offset the financial motivation and superior resources of those special interests. An occasional good-natured Earth Day in the spring won't do it.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By MARY LEYDECKER

Changes In Juvenile Justice Behind Current Marin Disputes

The growing squabble over Marin's juvenile court is partially a rift between Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, whose duties include acting as juvenile court judge, and other county officials, but is also the result of a changing concept in laws governing juveniles.

Recent high court decisions have changed the picture in juvenile criminal proceedings, where for many years youngsters were dealth withprimarily in paternalistic manner.

The U.S. Supreme Court is moving more in the direction of requiring adversary proceedings for juveniles, the same as in adult courts, where there is a prosecutor, defense attorney and judge. The only right juveniles do not have now is that of a jury trial and that may be coming, although there has been no move to make juvenile proceedings open to the public.

THE NEW TREND has made for more and more "contested" hearings, as they are known in the courts, where the juvenile's guilt is proved or disproved the same as in adult courts. Of course, this takes a lot longer than for a judge simply to look into a matter with the assistance of a probation officer.

This trend, along with population increase and increased crime rate, is swamping our juvenile court. Judge Gardiner has been assisted by two volunteer referees for over two years, but one of these men, no longer serving as referee, says that when he agreed to work as a referee without pay, he was spending eight or 10 hours a week at the job. At the end it had risen to 40 hours, according to Jack L. Blaine.

It seems awfully optimistic to expect this kind of a work load to continue to be born by volunteers, despite Judge Gardiner's contention that it can. It would seem that the county will soon have ot hire a full-time referee for juvenile court.

The alternative would be to assign one of superior court judges to handle only juvenile matters, a proposal which would seem impractical considering how far behind the courts are now with adult matters.

SPEAKING OF juvenile court judge, we came across a bit of advice recently given by a juvenile court judge in an eastern state (unnamed in the publication we read) which seemed relevant for youngsters all over the country:

"Always we hear the plaintive cry of the teen-ager: 'What can we do? Where can we go?'" The answer is clear: Go home!

"Hang the storm-windows, paint the woodwork, rake the leaves, mow the lawn, wash the car, learn to cook, scrub some floors, repair the sink build a boat, get a job, visit the sick, assist the poor, study your lessons, and when you are through and not too tired, read a book.

"Your parents do not owe you entertainment, your city or village does not owe you a living: you owe the world something — your time and your energy and talents.

"In plain, simple words: Grow up! Quit being a cry baby. Get out of your dream world and develop a backbone, and start acting like a man or woman. You're supposed to be mature enough to accept some of the responsibilities that your parents carried for years. They have nursed, protected, helped, appealed, begged, excused, tolerated, and denied themselves needed comfort so you could have every benefit . . . In heaven's name, grow up and go home."

Boy Slaughtered In Sacrifice

NEW DEHLI (UPI) — A four-year-old boy was slaughtered as a sacrifice to the pastoral goddess Mamai in a small rural community in the Junagadh coastal district of Gujarat, State Chief Minister Hitendra Desai said Saturday.

He told the legislative assembly in Ahmedabad the murder was carried out by the Rabari Bikha Sang at Amdora village, Sept. 26.

The community head has been arrested and will be prosecuted, Desai said.

Opera Star Hurt In Shooting Scene

MILAN, Italy (UPI)—Soprano Renata Scotto suffered a mild leg burn Sunday during rehearsals for the opening of the La Scala opera season Dec. 7 when a blank cartridge was fired very close to her.

The accident happened during rehearsals of the closing scene of Giuseppe Verdi's "Sicilian Vespers" a scene in which numerous shots are fired.

Coast Guard, State Dispute On Defection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department says a Lithuanian sailor who tried to defect to a U.S. Coast Guard cutter off New England last week was not automatically eligible for asylum; but it claims it was unaware the Coast Guard had decided to let the Russians come aboard the U.S. vessel and drag the man back to his ship.

Witnesses later reported the seaman, a radio operator identified only as "Simas," was beaten and kicked by his Soviet captors, and Coast Guard crewmen stood by without interfering — despite the man's pleas for help on bended knees.

The incident took place one week ago, inside U.S. territorial waters off Martha's Vineyard. The cutter, carrying representatives of the U.S. commercial fishing industry, had met the Soviet fishing ship to discuss the level of fishing for yellow-tailed flounder in the North Atlantic.

A State Department spokesman indicated the government regarded the fishing talks as a serious matter, and the problem of determining whether man should be granted asylum had to be considered against that background. The spokesman said it was by no means automatic the decision would have been favorable to the seaman, who hurled himself from his ship to the deck of the cutter.

The Coast Guard claimed it had appraised the State Department of the entire situation. It claimed State Department assistance was never offered, but the State Department said it didn't get a chance to give any advice.

Old Radical Saul Alinsky Voices Scorn For New Left

By LOUIS CASSELS, UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) —That doughty old radical Saul Alinsky has taken a hard look at the New Left and finds it unimpressive.

Alinsky has been twisting the Establishment's tail for 30 years and has an old pro's scorn for dilettantes. When he says the New Leftists are not serious revolutionaries, merely play-actors, that's the most withering judgment he could pass on them.

NO ONE HAS ever accused Saul Alinsky of play-acting about social reform. In his long and turbulent career as an organizer of the poor and powerless, he has proved that he knows how to achieve results—and that he's willing to do it the hard way.

And those are precisely the grounds on which he faults the young red-hots who are going around striking revolutionary poses these days.

In the first place, he says, they aren't doing any good for the cause of social injustice. In fact, they're harming that cause.

"The Weathermen should be getting paid by the extreme right for the work they do," he says, with a snort of disgust. "Any real revolutionary party would execute them as dangerous counter-revolutionaries."

The bombings and other acts of terrorism in which the Weathermen take pride are merely stiffening the resistance of society to meaningful change, as Alinsky sees it. Instead of "radicalizing the masses," extremist acts are driving the great majority of middle-class Americans into the arms of conservative politicians who skillfully exploit the public's fears in order to stifle genuine reform.

IF COLLEGE students are seriously interested in changing society, Alinsky says, they will stop thumbing their noses at their own middle-class origins and begin to capitalize on the fact that they belong by birth to the class which wields real power in America.

"The middle class college kids could be the key to the whole situation, because they have access to the power that's denied to the blacks and the poor."

But to use that power effectively, they must stop wallowing in revolutionary rhetoric about "tearing down the whole rotten system" and buckle down to work. That means "getting into organizations, building power, and tackling specific objectives."

"Either you deal with the specific problems of society—such as racism in building trades unions—or you talk in generalities about 'changing the system' and wind up talking to yourself," he says.

BLACK MILITANTS as well as young middle-class whites sabotage their own cause when they try to use violence as a shortcut to "instant change," Alinsky says.

"It is sheer folly for the Black Panthers to rely on the power of guns when the other side has all the guns."

The greatest mistake which activists of either race can make, in Alinsky's view, is to think that significant change cannot be achieved within the existing American system.

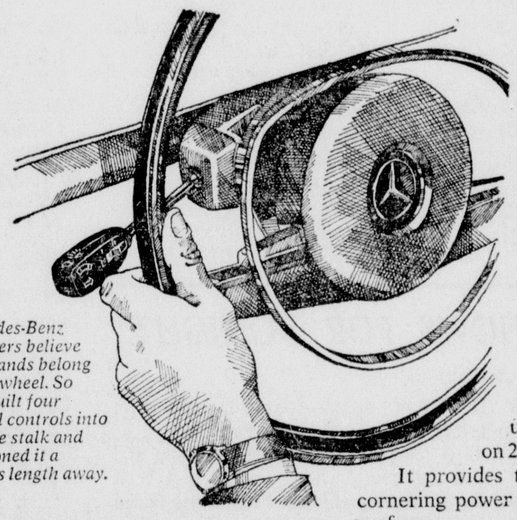
Although few are more outspoken than he about the shortcomings of that system, Alinsky knows from experience that it can be made to respond to the real needs of people, including the poor and seemingly powerless members of society.

"Fifty years ago, you would have thought it would take a revolution to bring about such things as Social Security, medicare, unemployment insurance, or many other things which we have in America today," he says. "These things were not accomplished by people mouthing about revolution, but by people who were willing to persevere in the hard work of achieving reforms, one at a time, the hard way, the only way."

Solzhenitsyn Fear

MOSCOW (UPI) — Novelist Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn, in a statement made available Monday, said he decided not to go to Stockholm to receive his Nobel prize for literature because he feared the Soviets would bar his return to Russia.

Why thousands of Americans will spend $6,700 for a Mercedes-Benz that's three feet shorter than American luxury cars.



Mercedes-Benz engineers believe both hands belong on the wheel. So they built four critical controls into a single stalk and positioned it a finger's length away.

At Mercedes-Benz, we define luxury a bit differently than most automobile makers.

To our way of thinking, size for the sake of size is not luxury. It is waste.

If adding an inch to a Mercedes-Benz won't contribute to some function, Mercedes-Benz engineers won't add it.

Eric Dahlquist, in a recent issue of Motor Trend, commented on the size of the American luxury car.

"Stunned by such mass, the passenger enters to find that size does not equate with room..."

The Mercedes-Benz 250 Sedan is three feet shorter than the shortest of the domestic luxury sedans.

Yet it is a curious fact that the 250 concedes almost nothing inside.

"Though not a particularly big car, the accommodation is well-planned and quite roomy enough for consideration by the chauffeur-driven executive." —Motor

The engineer is king

A Mercedes-Benz is as different from a domestic luxury car as automobiles, each with four wheels and an engine in front, can be.

Mercedes-Benz is one of the few automobile makers left in the world where the engineer is still king.

Design decisions are made by an engineer, not a styling whiz or a marketing wizard. At Mercedes-Benz, the engineering department still tells the sales department when a new model is ready.

The result is an automobile that has been built to an engineering ideal.

And an automobile that is fundamentally different than any built in the States.

From oddity to necessity

To the uninitiated, this approach may appear to have disadvantages.

Your first time behind the wheel of a Mercedes-Benz is likely to produce a vague sense of disorientation.

In its recommended position, the seat seems too far from the wheel. And it's too unyielding to be called "luxurious."

But that strange seat position lets you drive with the wheel at arm's length and your back firmly against the seat's. And that gives you better control.

The "unyielding" seat, it turns out, was designed by orthopedic surgeons to give firm support. You'll appreciate it more after seven hundred miles than you do after seven.

If you press the floor switch to get your high beams, you'll get a squirt in the windshield instead.

That's because a curious-looking stalk, positioned precisely a finger's length from the wheel, embodies four different controls.

High and low beams, turn signals, windshield wipers, and their two-speed control all can be operated without taking your hands from the wheel. Or your eyes from the road.

Such oddities, admittedly, take some getting used to. But there's a reason for every one. And, before you know it, the oddities have become necessities.

No domestic sedan...

It is at the wheel a man discovers the performance characteristics that make Mercedes-Benz unique among the world's motor cars. Mercedes-Benz engineers believe that a car's abilities should be limited only by road and conditions—not by its own design. Every Mercedes-Benz has fully independent suspension front and rear. A design concept used, without exception, on 200-mph grand prix cars.

It provides the maximum possible cornering power over a variety of road surfaces.

No domestic sedan has it.

Every Mercedes-Benz is equipped with four massive disc brakes. Standard, not optional. Because, to our way of thinking, it's unthinkable to relegate the best brakes you can build to the option list.

No domestic sedan has them on all four wheels.

And every Mercedes-Benz has a steering system so precisely balanced that the car seeks a straight path on its own.

No domestic sedan can match it.

Even the Grand Mercedes 600, a three-ton limousine, notes Motor Trend, "...will outrun and outmaneuver many sports cars."

Join the club

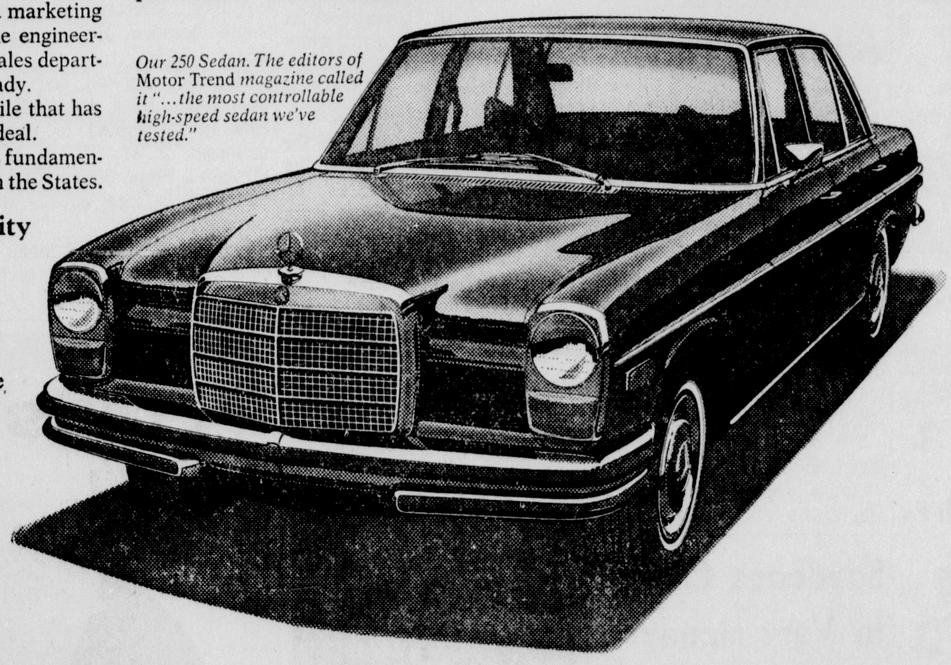
But the final word on the distinction between Mercedes-Benz and domestic luxury cars belongs to a group of Mercedes-Benz owners.

Owners so enthusiastic that they've formed thirty-two chapters of the Mercedes-Benz Club of America.

Each year they hold more than 60 local competitions and 3 national rallies.

It's their opportunity, in performance events, to extend their cars to the limits of which a Mercedes-Benz is capable.

Not everyone joins the club.



Our 250 Sedan. The editors of Motor Trend magazine called it "...the most controllable high-speed sedan we've tested."

Mercedes-Benz owners who rally their cars are a relatively small share of our owners. But, then, no domestic luxury car even has a club.

$6,700?

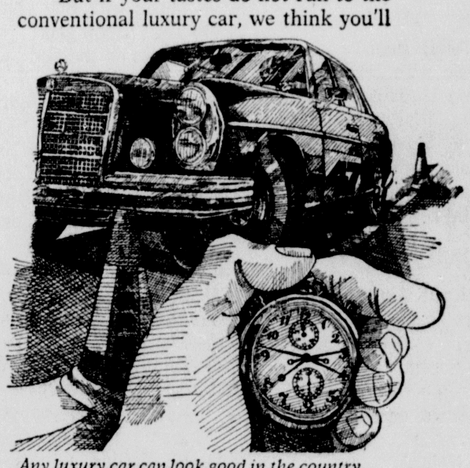
Our pursuit of engineering ideals has placed Mercedes-Benz automobiles among the world's most costly.

The suggested retail price of the Mercedes-Benz 250 Sedan, with automatic transmission, is $6,343†.

With such popular options as power steering, white sidewall tires, and radio with rear-seat speaker, you can spend over $6,700.

And thirteen of our models cost more, including the 300SEL 6.3—dubbed by Road & Track "merely the world's greatest sedan..."—at $15,958†.

But if your tastes do not run to the conventional luxury car, we think you'll find Mercedes-Benz automobiles well worth the price you pay.



Any luxury car can look good in the country club driveway. Mercedes-Benz looks good in places like Lime Rock, Road America and Laguna Seca.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Stark Contrast In Sunday Fare

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A vivid illustration of how network television, as a mass medium, tries to be all things to all people was offered on NBC-TV Sunday night in two back-to-back programs with wholly different social orientations.

First came a much-publicized, enormously expensive 90-minute special called "Swing Out, Land," with John Wayne as the host of numerous stars who took part in comedy and musical segments keyed to the theme of American history.

Following this came the second hour of a two-part episode of "The Bold Ones" in which a special commission, headed by an idealistic U.S. senator (Hal Holbrook), investigated two student deaths stemming from a campus confrontation with the National Guard—a tale clearly based on the Kent State incident.

To no one's surprise, "Swing Out, Sweet Land" had a traditional patriotic tone throughout. There were several small surprises, however. I mean, who ever imagined that a John Wayne special would include a segment in which Tom Smothers joined in on "God Bless America"?

"Swing Out, Sweet Land" is the latest and most elaborate of an increasing number of network video specials extolling the virtues of America, a program trend that has unquestionably taken shape since "silent majority" became a household term.

As an entertainment offering, the Wayne outing is certain to get blockbuster rating results for there was a huge cast that included Jack Benny, Lucille Ball, Bob Hope, Red Skelton, Ann-Margret, Lorne Greene, Dan Blocker Bing Crosby, Johnny Cash, Dean Martin, and Leslie Uggams, to name a few.

"The Bold Ones," meanwhile, wound up its two-parter by continuing to use the "Rashomon"-style storyteiling technique in which the various principals testifying before the commission—the governor, the commander of the guard, etc.—gave differing versions of what happened.

In the end, the commission found virtually no one blameless, including the guard, which it felt acted with excessive force—and recommended a grand jury investigation. As a dramatic entry, the two-parter offered some powerful acting by Holbrook and his colleagues, and some blistering scriptwriting by David W. Rintels.

One wonders: Did the people who watched "Swing Out, Sweet Land" also watch the two-parter on "The Bold Ones"? And did those who watched "The Bold Ones" watch "Swing Out, Sweet Land"? It's a big country, and the two programs Sunday night showed just how big and complex.

Fulbright: Pentagon Misrepresents Facts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and the Pentagon misrepresented the facts about American raids in North Vietnam the weekend of Nov. 21, says Sen. J. William Fulbright.

Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Sunday handling of information on the raids was part of "the process" by which "the military establishment runs nearly the whole country."

"They misrepresent the facts ... and they do it all the time," Fulbright said. He appeared on the television program "Face the Nation —CBS."

Laird appeared Tuesday before the Foreign Relations Committee but did not mention air strikes were conducted in connection with an American commando raid on a camp for U.S. prisoners near Hanoi. The bombing later was disclosed by the Pentagon.

"Then as it was revealed by the press and others, then they admitted" there was some bombing near Hanoi in connection with the raids, Fulbright said.

ACLU Seeks Vote At Kent State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio is preparing a court suit to force Portage County officials to permit Kent State University students of voting age to vote in local elections.

ACLU executive director Benson Wolman said Sunday local officials require students to prove an intent to settle permanently in the community as a condition to voter registration.

Thus, Wolman said, Kent students are forbidden "the right to have a voice in determining who makes the laws, who administers the laws, who sits in judgment and who is eligible to serve on juries."

Blastoff Near For Orbiting Telescope

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The U.S. Space Agency readied the world's largest space telescope for launch at sunset today to give astronomers their clearest view yet of distant stars and galaxies.

The $83 million Stargazer, third of four automated Orbiting Astronomical Observatories (OAO), was to be propelled into a 466-mile high orbit by an Atlas-Centaur rocket. Everything was reported proceeding smoothly toward a 5:30 p.m. EST blastoff.

The 4,680-pound spacecraft is considered the most complex unmanned satellite built by the United States and its 38-inch diameter Cassegrainian telescope is the most powerful to be placed in space.

Operating from above Earth's hazy atmosphere, the satellite will be able to observe heretofore unseen detail of stars and galaxies deep in the universe. It is expected to be able to see stars eight times fainter than those seen by the 16-inch telescope in OAO 2, launched two years ago.

The primary objective of the new spacecraft is to study the ultraviolet light emitted by unusually hot stars. These stars have a relatively brief life span —measured in millions of years —and can be seen from space in all stages of development. The view is blocked from ground observatories by Earth's atmosphere.

Those orbital observations are expected to tell astronomers more about the birth, life and death of stars.

Artificial Turf Is On Agenda

The Fairfax School District board, meeting tomorrow at 7:45 p.m. at the district office, will reconsider purchase of artificial turf for school playgrounds.

The board, at an earlier meeting, approved $300 for ground cover which is similar to Astroturf but contains air pockets to prevent injury from falls. However, a later estimate for the cover was about $800.

The board will also hear reports on enrollment and the county's project on performance objectivies for students.

Sandbags Come In Very Handy

EASTBOURNE, England (UPI) — The sandbags and World War I helmet Bill Bailey keeps in his wine cellar come in handy when he makes a batch of wine.

"I make wine from all kinds of fruits and vegetables," Bailey said. "Grape wine is the most dangerous. The bottles sometimes blow up."

Bailey crouches behind the sandbags and wears the helmet when handling bottles of his product.

Indian Leader In Hospital —Head Pains

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Richard Oakes, Indian leader who was hit on the head with a pool cue during a tavern fight last June, was admitted to Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital on Sunday because of head pains.

Joe Morris, a member of the Alcatraz Indian movement, said Oakes complained of a severe headache.

"I think he bumped his head when he was getting out of a car and they took him to the hospital when he got a bad headache," Morris declared.

Other than to say Oakes "seemed to be in fair condition," a hospital spokesman would not comment.

Oakes, a Mohawk who was one of the leaders in the year-long Indian occupation of Alcatraz Island in San Francisco Bay, suffered a lengthy coma because of the tavern brawl injuries.

He was arrested last week near Santa Rosa when officers said he attempted to charge motorists a $1 toll to drive through a Pomo Indian reservation and is free on his own recognizance.

Police arrested a Samoan in connection with the tavern fight.

TRAINING PEREGRINES

Their Only Food Source

By PAT PALMES

Talons spread, the falcon streaks to the girl's glove for a bit of meat. The falconer balances her bird of prey on her wrist, clenching its leather tresses, while it greedily devours its reward. Kim Hallatt smiles. Her young bird will soon be hunting for her.

The 21-year-old animal trainer carefully inspects the feathers for damage and carries the bird back to its wooden block. Again the falcon crouches, glaring at Kim's empty glove as the girl walks backward playing out 10, 20, 30 feet of nylon line, called creance, tied to the jesses. Again a morsel is put in the glove and immediately the small brown peregrine hits the fist.

Kim's blonde hair blows in the wind at Phoenix Lake's dam where she daily trains her two peregrines in the lost art of falconry, practiced by ancient Persians, Chinese and Arabs. Kim is teaching her peregrines to regard her as their only food source. She often spends two or three hours a day taming her male and female eyasses (birds taken from the nest and taught to hunt by man instead of their wild parents). Fully trained, the rare peregrines are valued at $1,000 each.

A professional dog trainer and graduate of College of Marin, freckled, blue-eyed Kim wants a career in wild life management or animal psychology. In January she plans to go to Humboldt State College to study these subjects. Eventually, she may work at a wild life preserve or further her interest in zoo animal's psychological disorders. "I want to get out of rat and chimpanzee studies and work with other kinds of animals," explains the student.

"I'M INTERESTED in DDT and how it effects animals' behavior, especially peregrines. There are probably not 50 left in the United States," guesses Kim. Like the condor and the brown pelican, the peregrines have been practically wiped out as a breeding population because of the concentration of DDT in fish or birds which feed on fish, according to the animal trainer.

"Peregrines are protected by California state law. "It's illegal to rob a nest. Federal law required hunters to study the peregrine's silhoutte, but they shoot everything!" the girl says bitterly.

At College of Marin, Kim made a psychological-conditioning film for a psychology course starring a black-collared hawk from South America. Kerry had been with Kim during her freshman year at Pacific University in Oregon. "Kerry liked the snow, but not the optometry students who were constantly peering into her huge retina with their instruments," says Kim, adding our eyes would have to weigh five pounds to be in the same proportion to our bodies as hawks' eyes are to theirs. Next Kerry accompanied Kim to summer school at San Francisco State. "Where I went, my bird went. Kerry could pick me out of a crowd coming out of a store in the middle of Stonestown." Kerry was one of the half-dozen birds Kim has trained, including an eagle.

"I could only hold up the white-crested eagle half an hour at a time to work with him. He weighed eight pounds," says the young woman who kept her distance from the eagle until she established herself in its mind as its food source. She carefully kept it away from her face.

Between the ages of eight and 16, Kim raised homing pigeons. She was the only girl in the club. Peregrines were an obstacle in a pigeon race. "How I hated them, but how I admired them! If one of my pigeons was late, I knew what had happened. A peregrine or hawk hit him," she remembers.

WHEN KIM told her parents in Berkeley that she wanted a peregrine, they weren't too worried. "They thought, 'She won't be able to buy one in Berkeley'," she grins. But Kim was able to secure a pair of eyasses at $300 each from a Colorado animal supplier.

Their mew (hawk house) is far from homes. The noise of their cries and whistles of defiance and hunger at Kim's approach are so loud they drown out conversation. The mew, made of wire mesh to keep raccoons out, is lined with mosquito netting to prevent breakage or precious feathers. According to her falconer's license, she may keep only two hunting birds.

For the past three months, Kim has been manning the peregrins; handling them to calm and stabalize them for hunting. You can't teach a nervous bird to hunt," explains the trainer. When an untrained bird of prey is frightened or sees a quarry it may bat off the wrist; hysterically beating its wings while hanging upside down by the jesses.

Her students have different personalities. The female (falcon), Pride, is more sophisticated. The smaller male (tiersel), Reor, hits harder and is more skillful. Peregrines beat their wings four times a second and are capable of a 180 to 200 mile per hour dive (stoop). In the wild a tiersel would flush a pheasant, quail or duck twice its size by swooping 10 feet above the ground, while the falcon waits on, circling 1,000 feet above to stoop upon the escaping bird in flight.

In the wild, peregrines can do only limited hunting during their three to six months molt. This accounts for the high mortality rate during their first year, she said. Kim spends a dollar a day to keep each peregrine in meat-rewards. Because their pointed wings make them swoopers and divers of open spaces, peregrines cannot maneuver among trees.

WHEN BOTH birds are flying to Kim from the end of the 100 foot creance, she will advance them to a lure. As Kim spins the football shape, decorated with pheasant wings and a bit of meat at the head, around her and whistles, the divers will hit the lure at 100 miles an hour. They will learn to leave their kill and come back to Kim for their food-reward.

The first freedom from the creance will be allowed only when the birds are hungry, so they will only think of food on the lure and not fly away. Bells will be attached to their legs, however, in case they are lost.

Kim contrasts sport with art, saying there is no place for competition in the art of falconry. "A falconer prefers to hunt along with a dog to flush quarry," she explains.

Walking back to the mew after a session at the dam, Kim is followed by her elkhound, Thor. "I was one of those little kids who want to put their arms around a dog," explains the trainer. Currently she is training individual dogs on the busy Ross Common.

THOR MADE Kim's reputation as a dog trainer. At 16 she trained him in an obedience class at Berkeley High School and took him to her first dog show. Out of a possible 200 obedience points, Thor got 200 and took home six trophies in different classes. Kim's elkhound was the highest scoring elkhound in obedience that year in the United States.

Kim loves dogs, but is demanding. "People who train dogs have to more objective. A trainer can't think that his dog doesn't make mistakes," she explains.

"A good many people I have known own a dog as an object. They just have a dog to have a dog. When their dog is trained to know what is expected of

"MY PEREGRINES wouldn't know me in a skirt," claims falconer Kim Hallatt as she walks to the mew after a training session at Phoenix Lake's dam. Her falcon and tiersel peregrines, when fully trained, are valued at $1,000. They are threatened with extinction. "There may be only 50 peregrines, including captives, in the United States," says Kim.

FLASHING CHOCOLATE and tan barred feathers, a female peregrine, called falcon, learns hunting from Kim Hallatt. The young bird of prey flies from a wooden block to Kim's gauntlet with a nylon line tied to its leg. When Kim establishes herself in the bird's mind as its only food source, the falcon will fly to her without bonds when she whistles or spins a lure.

ONLY AT "sharp-set", the weight at which the falcon is keen and hungry, will the bird fly quickly from its wooden block (right) to Kim's gloved hand when a meat-reward is offered. Here Kim sees 1.69 pounds register on the special scale beneath the perch.

Parents Shouldn't Be Overly Generous At Christmastime

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — It is the "think toy" season throughout the land. Pre-Christmas buying accounts for the major jangles of cash registers in toy departments, with 1970 sales expected to exceed 1969's record $2 billion-plus.

Now comes a consultant for the world's largest manufacturer of playthings with a suggestion for dotting parents, other relatives and friends. Spread your toy dollars through the year. The rewards for the children will be greater enjoyment.

Jerri Jorgensen, a parent of a girl of 8 and boy of 17 as well as a toy consultant, puts her suggestion this way:

"I always advise parents not to be overly generous at Christmas. Toy purchases should be year-round planning.

"A PARENT WILL tell me, 'I spent $200 at Christmas on that kid and in July he complains he has nothing to play with' . . ."

What parents and others forget in the holiday rush is that a child's tastes and interests change as he develops, she said.

One major error in selection is the over-estimation of interest and ability span, she said. Mrs. Jorgensen, wife of an aerospace engineer, David Jorgensen, cited her 8-year-old daughter's fascination with puzzles of all kinds including jigsaws. So one holiday, the Jorgensens shot the works and gave her one of the giant jigsaws with "1000 or so pieces."

It overwhelmed the child. She came in one day to announce that "This is a rotten game."

Mrs. Jorgensen recommends a "balanced toy box," especially for the early years. It would include a ball, a wheel toy, a doll for boys, maybe an astronaut doll, a toy to cuddle, a puzzle or put-together toy, and books — "most children love books."

BUT LET children have a hand in deciding what they want for "making decisions, saying 'yes' or 'no' all are part of growing," she continued.

Jerri Jorgensen grew up in San Bernadino, and is a graduate of Valley College. A trim brunette, she still looks like a coed although the record shows solid experience in marketing, especially in the youth field.

She came to Mattel, Inc., five years ago as adviser and roving ambassador with the Hawthorne, Calif., firm which

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Why The Father Of The Bride Has Decided He's For Trial Marriage

DEAR HELEN:

I was rabidly against trial marriages or five-year renewable marriage contracts, until. . .

Our daughter got married to the tune of about $2,500 out of poor old pop's pocket.

Now, she is getting a divorce, less than a year later, and guess who's paying through the nose again.

We were almost sure it wasn't going to work, but you can't tell lovesick girls anything. Had she decided for a "trial" arrangement the wedding would never have happened. More important, there would have been none of this bitter feuding and the "failure complex" our daughter now has. At the end of the year (perhaps before) they would simply have agreed they weren't right for each other. Sure, there'd be tears and angry words, but not such lasting scars.

In these times, when nothing seems permanent, I vote for an end to elaborate weddings and "forever" vows that seldom are. — FATHER OF THE DIVORCED BRIDE

DEAR FATHER:

You have lots of company, from Margaret Mead to a growing number of young people.

Comments anyone? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Today I saw my estranged wife. I scarcely recognized her, for she had on makeup, her hair was fixed up, and she looked sharp. She even had a smile on her face, something I seldom saw when we were together.

I'm not excusing myself. I stepped out, and she had a right to leave. But maybe if she had looked the way she did today, more often, I might not have looked elsewhere.

At any rate, I was a fool and I want her back. She seems agreeable, but I don't want things as they were before. If I'm willing to sign a document stating that I won't chase other women, do you suppose she'd sign one promising to keep her weight down and her appearance up? — WANTS TO MAKE IT LEGAL AND BINDING

DEAR WTMILAB:

Why not? And while you're at it, how about a written agreement that each will make every effort to see the other's side? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You won't believe this, but my 73-year-old husband is becoming a dirty old man. He chases every woman who comes to our house, then denies it.

Not that he'd be a threat if he caught one, but it's very embarrassing, especially when there are teen-aged girls around and he begins to act silly, patting them, and flirting with them.

He even kisses our granddaughter with more than grandfatherly affection. If I tell the family about this, they wouldn't believe me, or they'd brush it off as "sentimental old age."

What can I do? — ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED:

It probably is about half "sentimental old age," the other half regret for things past. Inasmuch as your husband is "no threat," why not try to understand. I'm sure others do. — H.

him, there is much more full communication between the two." Dismayed at owners who put barriers in their cars to separate them from their ill-mannered, noisy dogs, Kim says, "All the owner has to do is get across that this is not good behavior."

Contrasting her method to fear training, such as military training, Kim plans a pleasant routine for her student dog, allowing leeway for his mood. She works with an individual dog alone daily and with his owner once a week. "A dog has as many psychological hang-ups as a child. Some dogs should not be with some owners," she warns. "If you have a nervous person, you have a nervous, flighty dog."

"As far as I am concerned, a person who lets his dog run loose is no more fit to own a dog than he would be a fit parent if he did not know where his child was. A domestic dog is a major responsibility.

TO PUBLISH ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING STORIES IN THE I-J

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma.

Wedding forms should be returned promptly to the I-J office in your area and information will be printed immediately after the wedding. Photographers should be urged to submit a print of the wedding picture promptly. Color photographs cannot be used.

The Independent-Journal does not print wedding stories or photographs received more than seven days after the wedding.

An engagement form may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph, which may be picked up at the I-J office after publication. Snapshots, polaroid or color pictures are not suitable.

Kathy Moriarty Is Wed To James Kummer In Tiburon

Kathy Moriarty became the bride of James Kummer Nov. 21 in a ceremony at St. Hilary's Catholic Church in Tiburon. A reception followed at the Tiburon home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Moriarty.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Alvin Simon of San Rafael, and Celeste Pries of San Rafael and the bride's sister, Elizabeth Ann (Missy) Moriarty, were bridesmaids.

Bernard Bernhardt of San Mateo was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by Bill Bernhardt of San Mateo and the bride's brothers, John and Kerry Moriarty.

Kathy was graduated from Redwood High School and College of Marin and is employed by Pacific Telephone Co. in San Francisco. Mrs. John Moriarty of San Francisco is her grandmother.

James is the son of Alex Kummer of Cheyenne, Wyo., and Mrs. T. M. Van Wart of Mountain View. He is a graduate of San Mateo High School and College of San Mateo. The bridegroom is employed by Peninsula Office Supply Co. in Redwood City.

The couple will live in San Mateo when they return from a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe.

Government Book Compares The Performance of 1971 Model Cars

By ARTHUR E. ROWE

WASHINGTON — A little-publicized set of books just published by the U.S. Department of Transportation contains valuable details about the performance ability of 1971 automobiles.

From these publications, potential buyers can compare all brands and models for acceleration and stopping ability under uniform conditions. The books also indicate a tire safety factor: the ability of recommended tires to carry loads beyond the recommended capacity.

The federal government is interested in these matters because of their relationship to automobile safety. The buyer, of course, would also have to consider other safety features plus such things as price, size, comfort, color and engine power.

THE LATEST books include the second edition of one published earlier this year, too late for most buyers of 1970 models.

Neither edition is easy to use. The first edition was such a confusing mass of data that Sen. Philip A. Hart, (D-Mich.), who received the first copy at a public hearing, chided the government for issuing such a hodge-podge of statistics.

The new edition is still confusing, but government officials have made an attempt to help buyers by publishing two auxiliary booklets containing rankings of all models for stopping ability and tire safety margins.

The book on stopping ability, for example, shows foreign cars taking the first 12 ranks among 74 listed.

FIGURES IN the books are not results of official government tests. They are supplied and certified by auto manufacturers.

Stopping ability is indicated by the number of feet necessary for a car to stop without skidding from a speed of 60 miles per hour under certain load and pavement conditions.

Pickup ability is shown by the number of feet and seconds necessary for a car to pass a truck under two speed conditions: from 20 to 35 miles per hours and from 50 to 80 miles per hour.

Tire safety margin is the excess carrying capacity of factory-equipped tires beyond their recommended load capacity. The margin is expressed in percentage terms and called "tire reserve load."

MOST CARS are equipped at the factory with tires just capable of carrying the maximum capacity or very little more. Tire reserve load margins fall mostly in the range of 0 to 5 per cent.

But for most models, more than one tire size is listed with its recommended pressure in pounds per square inch. Thus, a safety conscious buyer can compare tires in this regard by merely consulting the book.

The principal book, listing performance data for all three categories, is entitled "Performance Date for 1971 Passenger Cars and Motorcycles." It can be purchased for $2 from the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20240. (New car dealers are required to carry such data only for the cars they sell.)

The booklet of rankings for brake efficiency, "A Comparison of Braking Performance," sells for 20 cents also from the GPO, as does the other booklet of rankings, "A Comparison of Tire Reserve Loads."

For a digest of these listings for more than 40 American cars by model, send 20 cents in stamps to Consumer News Inc., 813 National Press Building, Washington, D.C., 20004.

IT'S THANKSGIVING.

BUT WHAT IF YOU HAVE NO BLESSINGS TO COUNT?

Impossible. And if you look inside yourself, you'll find them.

You have the breath of God in your lungs. You have the God-given ability to hope. You have God's love.

And you have yet another gift from Him.

The ability to help others. To open your heart and your hand and your mind to someone else.

If everyone exercises this wonderful gift, imagine how much more we will have to be thankful for on Thanksgiving, 1971.

ON THE AGENDA

Clipped Wings Is Among Groups Planning Parties Saturday Night

Saturday evening will be party time for several Marin organizations. The Clipped Wings Chapter of Marin, former airline stewardesses, will have the annual Christmas cocktail party for members and their husbands on Saturday at the home of the Robert P. Galloways in Novato. Guests will arrive at 8:30 p.m. bearing small gifts. Each couple will draw a number to determine their turn to select a gift. Then a timer is set and all can trade their gifts with each other until the time limit runs out.

Mrs. David Graves of Novato is social chairman for the event.

IT WILL BE a wine tasting party and art auction Saturday, beginning at 7:30 p.m. for Marin County Chapter of Women's American ORT. The festivities will be held at Congregation Rodef Sholom, 170 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

Framed paintings, lithographs and engravings owned by the R. Sills Galleries of Los Angeles will be auctioned. Proceeds will go to the ORT program for vocational training and education by 650 schools in 22 countries.

"THE HOLIDAY BALL," the Outdoor Art Club's ninth annual dinner-dance heralding the Christmas season will be held on Saturday at the clubhouse in Mill Valley.

The ways and means event, planned by chairman Mrs. J. Harvey Mielenz, will be under the direction of Mrs. Vincent White.

Festivities will start at 7 p.m. with a social hour, with past president Mrs. Edward Johnson and Mr. Johnson in charge. President Mrs. Earl Reinke and Mr. Reinke will welcome members and guests. Other past presidents and their husbands assisting will be Messrs. and Mmes. J. Paul Hurd and Joseph Brewster.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keane will prepare and serve at 8 p.m. their traditional roast beef dinner. Dancing to the music of an orchestra will complete the evening.

Other chairmen are Mmes. George Kahler, decorations; Fred Wight, table settings; and Ernest Brymer, serving. Mrs. Richard Sloan is reservations chairman.

AN INTERNATIONAL bazaar and festival will be held at the United Methodist Church, 9 Ross Valley Drive, San Rafael from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

Features will be new and hand-crafted articles including numerous driftwood items, needlework, toys, stationary, candles, Christmas ornaments, home decorations, home-made chutneys jellies, mincemeat, breads, cakes, cookies, candies, plants, jewelry, selected white elephant gifts, used tools and hobby items, and Christmas trappings of all kinds.

Hot luncheon and family-style dinner will be served on Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. On Saturday a salad-bar luncheon will be served. Home-made refreshments will be available during other hours.

Sponsor is the Women's Society of Christian Service. As an international service organization, WSCS works in many countries. The decor and gift items of the bazaar will carry out this international service theme and attendants will be in costume.

THE TROJAN Boosters of Terra Linda High School will hold a rummage and bake sale on Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the school cafeteria. The Associated Girl Students and senior girls will also participate with tables featuring cookbooks, Christmas cookies and candles.

Proceeds from the sale will assist all athletic teams sponsored by Terra Linda High School.

THE ZONTA Club of Marin will present its annual Christmas luncheon Wednesday beginning at 11:30 a.m. at Dominic's Restaurant in San Rafael. Special guests at the luncheon will be some of the foreign students from College of Marin and Dominican College.

Greeting members and guests at the event will be Mrs. Anne Ciampi, Zonta Club president.

A BEGINNER square dance will be given by the Petaluma Whirlers and Ph.Ds Square Dance Clubs Saturday evening at Kenilworth Junior High School in Petaluma. Ray Wester announces that all beginners and their callers are invited to the dance.

The two square dance clubs will merge to form one club at the beginning of the new year. The new club will be called the Petaluma Adobe Squares, with Ralph Thomas the caller. Sponsor will be the City of Petaluma Recreation Department.

THE NORTH Bay Dairy Women will meet tomorrow at Sonoma Joe's in Petaluma. A social hour will be held at 11:30 a.m. followed by lunch at noon.

Reservations chairmen are Mmes. Irving Nahmens, Santa Rosa; Jack Dei, Sebastopol, and Newton Peterson, Petaluma.

THE DIARY Women also are leading a citizens group in sponsoring a testimonial dinner in honor of E.L. (Ned) Davis Jr. A former Petaluma Chamber of Commerce manager Davis is now director of the Petaluma City Schools' work experience program. The dinner will be held Wednesday at the Green Mill Inn in Cotati at 8 p.m. Cocktails will precede the prime rib entre beginning at 6:30 p.m. Reservations chairman is Mrs. Carl Hadermann or the Petaluma Chamber of Commerce.

AN OPEN meeting for mothers of young boys, ages 9 thru 15 interested in baseball, is being planned by the Women's Auxiliary of the American Little League of Petaluma Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Petaluma Boys Club. Election of officers, adoption of by-laws and a discussion of the formation of a senior little league is slated. Mrs. Richard Stephens, president, states that in an effort to keep pace with the area's rapid growth the league is making plans to increase the number of teams for players ages 9 thru 12 from eight major and eight minor teams to twelve each. The senior league would include ages 13 thru 15.

PETALUMA WOMAN'S Club will meet tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. for their annual Koffee Klatch. Program chairman Mrs. Leroy Jewett said music will follow a continental breakfast and short business meeting. Mrs. Elmo Garzelli and Mrs. William Barboni co-chairmen said members will bring donations of canned goods for the five Christmas baskets pledged by woman's club for the Community Christmas Cheer endeavor. Mrs. Edward Fratini and Mrs. William E. Schneider will decorate.

"CHRISTMAS - PHILANTHROPIC Tea" — will be held at the San Rafael home of Mrs. James Teacher tomorrow from 1:30 to 3:30.

In the receiving line will be Mmes. Americo Oberto, Teachnor, Arthur Aviron, Charles Tacchi, and Albert Walz. Chairman is Virginia Shattuck.

A strolling musician will play while tea is being served.

Parents Are Turning Away From Violence

does an annual wholesale business of more than $300 million.

The consultant takes the parental pulse through names sorted from a computerized card file system by which every warranty signed and returned is indexed.

During an East Coast swing, she told me what some of her talks with parents — and children — have produced. First, there is the turning away from toys of violence.

"PARENTS GOT across to us that violent play makes for a violent adult," she said, so Mattell makes none of the so-called war toys.

There is a return, too, to simplicity of toys. Mothers asked for "a doll that doesn't do everything," so a soft cuddly one is in the line.

Wolfback Ridge Appeal On Tap

Two developers who want to build a 396-unit apartment development on Sausalito's Wolfback Ridge will appeal tomorrow a planning commission refusal to change the zoning of the property at the Sausalito City Council meeting at 8 p.m. in city hall.

On Aguust 6, developers Frank Lynch and E. R. Fitzsimmons asked the commission to rezone 90 acres on the ridge from a single family to duplex designation. The commission unanimously denied the request.

The council will also consider an ordinance to require the seller of a single family home in the city to provide the buyer with a record of any planning commission or council actions which affect future use of the property.

North Bay Artists To Sell In Novato

North Bay Artists will hold a "Starving Artist Art Sale," Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Novato Downtown Shopping Center, Seventh Street and Grand Avenue.

The sale will feature art works of many kinds, including crafts and handmade items. A percentage of all proceeds will go the artists' scholarship fund, according to Mrs. Jay L. Ward of the artists' group.

Cafeteria Closing At Civic Center

Beginning today, service at the Civic Center cafeteria has been curtailed by manager Cecil Bruton in preparation for a pullout by Dec. 17.

The county terminated the contract with the present operator and will seek bids from private firms.

Breakfast will continue to be served, but no more hot lunches are available. Coffee, sandwiches and desserts will be served through Dec. 17. The cafeteria will be closed on Dec. 18 for final inspection and moving.

Reopening of the cafeteria under a private operator will depend on when the bids can be awarded and how soon the new operator can take over.

Michael A. Chrystal, senior administrative analyst in the county administrator's office, said it is conceivable that the Civic Center will have no cafeteria service for several weeks after Dec. 17. In that event, the cafeteria will be open for use by county employees who bring their own lunches.

New Corte Madera Manager Was Fired

Corte Madera's new town manager, Ronald E. Bartels, was fired in January from his former position as city manager of Eureka, it has been disclosed.

A report in the Eureka Times-Standard dated Jan. 14 said Bartels resigned his $22,140 per year position "at the request of a majority of the city council."

Bartels difficulties with the Eureka City Council were known to Corte Madera city councilmen at the time of his selection according to Edward W. Colthurst, mayor of Corte Madera.

The problem had been mentioned by Bartels, Colthurst said today.

Colhurst said that the Corte Madera councilafter investigating decided "the problems he encountered up there are not present here. We have a different situation."

No reason was given for Bartels's firing, the newspaper said, but it speculated the firing involved delays by the manager in acquiring a $2 million federal grant for construction of a fish processing plant, a long-standing dispute over the city's pension plan and discovery by a councilman that a freeway study by a city consultant had not been presented to the council.

The newspaper said that in a letter of resignation from Bartels he wrote that since "a mutual feeling of trust and confidence no longer existed. . . it's the manager's responsibility to leave regardless of personal desires. . ."

Bartels, now a consultant to the state's Council on Intergovernment Relations, accepted the Corte Madera position last Monday after being interviewed by the town council. He will be paid $20,000 per year and will assume his duties Dec. 12.

Bartels is a graduate of Pomona College at Claremont and has received his master's degree in political science from the University of California at Berkeley.

Bartels, 37, also has worked as an administrative intern for the City of Pasadena, an administrative trainee for the City of San Diego, administrative assistant to the city engineer in San Diego, assistant city manager in Eureka and administrative consultant to the cities of Vallejo and Pomona.

Two Held In Grass Investigation

Two Berkeley men were booked into Marin County Jail Saturday on suspicion of drug offenses after a California Highway Patrolman noticed their auto holding up traffic northbound on Highway 101 north of the Greenbrae interchange.

Marc Hampton Baum, 18, driver of the car, was held for investigation of driving under the influence of drugs and James Martin Singer, 22, was booked on suspicion of possessing marijuana.

Officers said they saw Baum's car going 40 miles an hour in the center lane of the highway about 3:20 p.m. and impeding the flow of traffic. According to the highway patrol, Baum cut in front of another car, slowed to 20 miles an hour and was stopped by officers as he exited the freeway onto Francisco Boulevard.

Both Baum and Singer appeared glassy-eyed and unsteady on their feet when asked to get out of the vehicle, officers reported. They said a search of the auto revealed 10 small seeds on the right front seat and a plastic bag containing a substance believed to be marijuana in a pocket on the auto's right front door.

Singer was freed on $315 bail to appear Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court and Baum was held in lieu of $1,000 to appear today in municipal court.

Ski Resorts Get Snow On Weekend

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The weekend storms brought fresh snow to ski resorts in central and northern California.

Six resorts were open today and a seventh will operate Wednesday. Chains are required on most mountain roads and a new storm was expected to hit the mountain areas tonight.

The 10 a. m. snow depth report as compiled by the California Automobile Association in San Francisco:

Interstate 80: Boreal Ridge five feet of powder and packed powder. Daily operation. Conditions good. Snowing. Chains are required.

Highway 89: Alpine Meadows 11 inches new snow for a total of 30-60 inches. Snow is packed and conditions fair to good. Two lifts operating daily.

Highway 50: Heavenly Valley new two and one-half feet for a total of two and one-half to four feet. Packed powder. Conditions good with six lifts operating daily.

Sierra Ski Ranch: New three and one-half feet for a total of 33-60 inches. Powder. Conditions good. Daily operation.

Highway 108: Dodge Ridge 10 inches of new snow for a total of 33-60 inches. Powder. Conditions good. Daily operation with four lifts. Chains required on 108.

Mammoth Mountain: New one foot for a total of four to five feet of powder and packed powder. Conditions good. Four lifts operating daily. Chains required going into area.

Conviction Upheld

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—The Virginia Supreme Court today upheld the conviction of John Patler for the 1967 murder of American Nazi Party leader George Lincoln Rockwell.

Girl Takes Patrol Car, Runs Away

A 16-year-old girl, stopped at Rohnert Park today by the California Highway Patrol for speeding on Highway 101, swiped the patrol car and escaped.

Three passengers in the car of the Santa Rosa girl, Denise Lincoln, were arrested. She remained at large.

The highway patrol said the car driven by Miss Lincoln was stopped at 2 a.m. and she was taken to the patrol car by Patrolman Edward McClintick of Petaluma while the other officer talked to three passengers in her vehicle.

McClintick said the girl was seated on the right side of the patrol car when he went back to assist the other officer in subduing the passengers, who reportedly had been drinking.

As he walked from the patrol car, he said the girl started the motor and sped away. The car was found at 2:30 a.m. in a ditch at East Cotati Avenue and Snyder Lane, Rohnert Park, having suffered about $200 damage.

Her passengers were arrested: Robert Stra, 19, of 757 Goodwin Street, Pinegrove, on suspicion of resisting arrest, possession of alcoholic beverages and being drunk in public; George Rodgers, 28, of Penngrove, on suspicion of furnishing alcoholic beverages to minors; Esther Holguin, 19, of Santa Rosa, on suspicion of possession of alcoholic beverages by a minor.

The two men were held in Sonoma County Jail to appear this afternoon in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court. Miss Holguin was released to her parents.

New Try For Bill To Protect Coast To Be Launched

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A new try at legislation to protect California's coastline will be launched by an Assembly committee on Wednesday in San Francisco.

Four bills creating regional agencies to protect the coastline from uncontrolled growth and poor planning were introduced in the 1970 session of the Legislature, but all were defeated.

The hearing by the committee on natural resources and conservation will begin at 9 a.m. in room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue.

Witnesses will include spokesmen for conservation groups, the League of California Cities, the County Supervisors Association of California, the State Chamber of Commerce and for utility, real estate and oil interests.

Pressure Is On 49ers For Last Three Games

JIM GILMARTIN

A Frustrating Time At Kezar Playground

I haven't heard so many hearts drop since Raquel Welch got married.

And I haven't seen such a magnificent defense since the chastity belt.

I refer (1) to the 59,602 fans at Kezar Stadium yesterday and (2) the Los Angeles Rams who rammed the San Francisco 49ers 30-13 with a chastising 24-0 second half performance.

Those who entered the stadium thinking perhaps of a miracle like a Super Bowl for the Niners left thinking more about a Stupor Bowl. There were so many liquor-induced hot heads that fists started flying throughout the stands late in the fourth quarter and didn't stop until nearly an hour after the biggest game the 49ers have blown in many years. It looked like amateur night at the Cow Palace.

On the way out I heard one veteran fan growl: "Boy, I think I'm going to be a Raider fan from now on."

J.B. Emblem Is Ripped Off

And also there was James S. Todt of San Rafael, president of the John Brodie Fan Club, throwing himself off the curb in a blatant case of sewercide, after which he had his "J.B." emblem ripped off his shirt to the roll of drums.

"It was our biggest win in five years," cheered L.A. Coach George Allen. It was our (49er) biggest loss in 13 semesters. I refer to the 1957 National Football League playoff loss to Detroit in 1957.

After the 49ers got their early lead, you could see the Rams gaining momentum with time. Their quarterback, Roman Gabriel, had a awful first half but he really came to life down the homestretch. Which just goes to show that, indeed, Rome wasn't built in a day.

The 49er management lucked out in one respect. The heavy rains of the week petered out in the first half and the second half was played in the sun on a surprisingly dry field. Sun of a gun! It rained pretty heavily just before the lickoff and intermittently through the first half.

Two Ends Of The Rainbow

Just when 49er Bruce Gossett's large metatarsal propelled the oblate spheroid westward at 1:08 p.m. for the opening kickoff I noticed a rainbow over the 49er locker room, immediately thinking: "Goodie, goodie, the Prospectors finally struck gold."

But what I didn't see was that the other end of the rainbow was over the Rams' end zone.

Things started beautifully. It was the most colorful crowd I've seen at Kezar in years. With the threatening weather, everyone came wrapped in plastic. It looked like a wall-to-wall meat department at the world's largest supermart.

Don Ho, the noted Hawaiian vocalist, gave a beautiful rendition of the national anthem, hundreds of balloons were released into the leaden skies and the bands, Marine color guard etc. made for a beautiful setting.

Even at halftime the crowd was deliriously happy with a 13-6 lead for the 49ers, and soaking up the halftime pageantry that included a choir, bands and the whole gang from Disneyland — Donald Duck, Mickey Mouse, Granny Goose, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs.

Oh! That Second Half!

It was great, but the trouble was the 49ers didn't come out for the second half so the Disneyland "11" took on the Rams Don Ho? Don Duck? Quack, I said with mallard aforethought.

There were the old faithful from Marin throughout the stadium. In addition to the aforementioned Todt, there were the usual busloads from George's Recreation Parlor and the San Rafael Elks Club. Also, side-by-siders in the press box were the former great gridder Ernie Nevers of Tiburon, barkeep Lou Buecher of San Rafael and Mr. and Mrs. Russ Hodges of Mill Valley, he of "Bye-Bye Baby" fame.

Nevers, whose Stanford and pro days are still memorable, was paraded around the track at halftime in an open converitble, two lovely young ladies on either side to ward off the chill. Lucky ol' Ernie.

Also, the 49er stage coach circled the soggy track at great speed, pulled by some mudders. Hmmm? No, not the Rams, those mudders; I mean two old gray horses, silly.

You Can Tell In His Voice

Larkspur's David Eric Scofield, the "Voice of Kezar," was in progressively deteriorating spirits. Early in the fray his prejudiced tonsils fairly reeked with good cheer, but as the hopeless pattern became evident in the second half, so did Dave's verve.

At one point he announced: "R. C. Owens, go to Gate 1," referring to the former 49er great pass receiver. One press box wag nodded: "They'd better reactivate him."

And as the final gun killed the 49ers, Scofield summed it all up quite succinctly with the simple announcement, "Game's over," his voice sounding like a sobbing suitor who had been jilted by the 49ers for the 25th consecutive year.

Oh, there's still hope for the 49ers to reach the playoffs and possibly even the Super Bowl, but off yesterday's performance you have to bet against them.

Slinking away from the crusty old stadium, as crestfallen as I have been with Scofield and other die-hards for a quarter of a century, I passed a little old man who was peddling 49er pennants, without much luck.

He kept repeating: "Pennance, pennance, pennance," and I couldn't help but think, "Um-hm, the 49ers have sinned again."

RUBBING IT IN — Los Angeles Rams back Willie Ellison scores two-yard touchdown during his team's 30-13 victory over the 49ers at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium. Identifiable 49ers are Bruce Taylor (44) and Roosevelt Taylor (25). (UPI Telephoto)

Crushing Victory For L.A. Rams

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — And now it comes down to a question of who can stand the pressure better — the San Francisco 49ers or the Los Angeles Rams.

The Rams made it a "new" season in the NFC West Sunday by beating the 49ers, 30-13 in a game they had to win.

The victory put the two old West Coast rivals all even at 7-3-1 with three games to go. Los Angeles plays New Orleans at home next Sunday while the 49ers host Atlanta.

After that, Los Angeles plays Detroit at home and then winds up the season in New York against the Giants.

The 49ers have things a bit tougher, finishing up on the road against New Orleans and the Oakland Raiders.

The Rams, with Willie Ellison, Les Josephson and Larry Smith handling a fine running attack, and David Ray booting the points, out-muscled the 49ers in Sunday's game.

The Los Angeles defense shut off the 49ers and quarterback John Brodie in the second half, keeping them pinned in their own end throughout the two periods.

"Field position was the big difference in this game," said 49er coach Dick Nolan. "We never got it out where we could do something."

ENOUGH

The Rams, who were in the position of having to win to stay alive, didn't exactly set the world on fire with their offense but it was enough for victory, and that's what counts.

Josephson, their bread and butter runner, piled up 54 tough yards in 13 carries, Ellison picked up 51 in nine and Smith got 50 in eight.

Ellison scored from one, two and eight yards and Ray booted field goals of 36, 9 and 22 yards.

Roman Gabriel, Los Angeles' veteran quarterback, threw the ball only 21 times, a low total for him, and hit just seven times. But the times he connected—to Billy Truax and Jack Snow—it kept drives in motion.

Brodie threw 36 times and hit on 18 for 160 yards, 90 more than Gabriel, but a pair of interceptions by Jim Nettles spoiled the San Francisco quarterback's day.

The second Nettles theft paved the way for an insurance touchdown—one that put the Rams ahead by 10 points with 4:57 left.

6-0 LEAD

The 49ers jumped ahead 6-0 by the first minute of the second quarter on field goals of 14 and 44 yards by Bruce Gosset.

Ray matched them with two of his fielders but the 49ers took a 13-6 lead into the intermission after Brodie hit Gene

Marin Tar Cagers Triumph

The College of Marin Tars, led by the devastating inside shooting of Roosevelt Green, romped to their second straight preseason basketball victory Saturday night, 79-67 over Diablo Valley Junior College at Concord.

Cutting their ball-control errors in half from the previous night, when they won a 90-75 season-opening game over San Mateo, the Tars soared to a 12-point halftime lead and never looked back. Green, a 6-foot-6 forward playing his first season at the Kentfield school, spearheaded the attack, mostly with hooks and bank shots from around the key.

Green got help from Mike Peden with 17 points, Joe Smith with 12, and Ron Small with 11, and from guard Charlie Flynn, who hit him with a number of beautiful passes that went for assists.

"We moved the ball a lot better than the night before," said Tar coach John Panagakis. "They were a lot faster than San Mateo, but we played real well in spots."

Panagakis was especially impressed that his team was able to cut down effectively on ball control errors.

Seals Finally Halt Skid

BUFFALO (UPI) —It was a long time in coming, but the California Golden Seals have finally racked up their sixth National Hockey League triumph.

And their 2-1 victory over the Buffalo Sabres Sunday didn't come easy.

Two separate fights broke out in the third period which resulted in Doug Barry of the Sabres and California's Tony Featherstone being sent to the penalty box for five minutes each and Reg Fleming of Buffalo and the Seals' Carol Vadnais also being slapped with five-minute penalties.

Vadnais also received a 10-minute misconduct penalty.

Ernie Hicke's 20-foot slapshot with 4:30 left in the final period gave the Seals their win. It gave the Seals a 6-15-2 record and put them just three points behind sixth place Los Angeles in the Western Division race.

Goalby's Mental Gimmick Helps In His Golf Victory

HILTON HEAD ISLAND (UPI)—Bob Goalby, who hasn't won many tournaments in recent years, raised a few eyebrows when he laid advance claim to the Heritage Golf Classic title upon arrival at this off-coast pleasure resort.

"This was only the second time in my 14 years on the tour that I really thought I could win," Goalby said after posting a four-stroke victory in the $100,000 tournament Sunday. The other time was last year at Robinson (which he also won).

"I told several people that I knew I could win here," Goalby continued. "I have a mental gimmick going."

FIVE UNDER

The dark-haired, 39-year-old veteran, who had won only the Robinson in the more than 2 1-2 years since he won the coveted Masters, fired a 5-under-par 66 over the "demanding" Harbour Town course Sunday for a 280 thas was worth $20,000.

"I wouldn't have thought I could shoot 4-under for four days on this course," Goalby said. "I was aiming for a 70 and I really thought par would win it. I shot 280 but I don't think I could do that here again. I didn't miss a short putt for four days—and I've seldom seen a golfer do that."

Goalby, who has won one tournament in each of the past four years and 10 overall, raised his earnings for the year to $56,346—guaranteeing his finish in the top 60 and extending his qualifying exemption for another year.

Last year, having gone 18 months since winning the Masters, Goalby was close to losing his exemption before winning at Robinson. And he was a border-line 58th coming into the Heritage.

"I've always said that when I fall out of the top 60, I'll quit," Goalby said ."But, I'm going to play as long as I can make money out here. It's easier than working."

Lanny Wadkins, the 20-year-old Wake Forest junior who is the reigning U.S. Amateur champ, shot a 68 Sunday and took the runnerup spot in the Heritage with a 284—two strokes ahead of the next three pros, defending champion Arnold Palmer, Billy Maxwell and Bob Murphy. All but Goalby and Wadkins were over par on the tight, tricky course.

The only other amateur in the field, Steve Melnyk, started Sunday's final round tied for the lead with Bert Yancey, a stroke ahead of Goalby, but fell apart on the back nine to wind up at 77-290 and tied for 11th. Yancey fared even poorer, shooting 80-293 that left him tied for 25th.

Stars Bring Out Best In Thurmond

By LARRY MOWELL

OAKLAND — San Francisco Warrior center Nate Thurmond seems to save his best performances for basketball's top pivot men.

Saturday night was no exception as he scored 27 points, including the winning hoop, against Wilt Chamberlain while leading the Warriors to a 92-88 win over Los Angeles.

Thurmond held basketball's all-time leading scorer to one point and six rebounds in the second half, then broke an 88-all tie with 17 seconds remaining by hitting a short jumper over the mammoth Laker center.

Player-coach Al Attles ran the final score to 92-88 with two free throws after time ran out, but it was Thurmond and forward Jerry Lucas who thrilled the 9,261 fans at the Oakland Coliseum.

Lucas steadied the error-prone Warriors in the first half with 17 of his 27 points as the Lakers built a 47-43 half-time lead.

The Warriors ran off seven straight points early in the third quarter to set up a hotly contested second half. Neither team led by more than three points in the final quarter before Attles' free throws.

With Thurmond pulling down 22 rebounds and Lucas adding 17, the Warriors enjoyed a 61-49 edge in rebounds, but the key to victory was shutting off Laker guard Jerry West and Chamberlain.

West made only four of 22 shots and scored 16 points, 11 below his season's average. Wilt's 12 points was half his average output.

Now 14-10, the streaking Warriors will battle the tough Atlanta Hawks at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Cow Palace without Adrian Smith, who underwent knee surgery Friday, and possibly Joe with an ankle injury Saturday. with an ankle injury Saturday.

The Hawks, who have slumped to 6-15 this year, feature rookie wonder Pete Maravich.

Baylor's Basketball Career May Be Over

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Elgin Baylor's illustrious National Basketball Association career could be at an end.

The man many regard as the best forward to ever play the pro game will undergo surgery Wednesday to repair a torn Achilles tendon, the Los Angeles Lakers announced Sunday night.

"I still want to play," Baylor said.

Dr. Frank Jobe, who will perform the surgery at Centinela Hospital here, said he was optimistic.

But Baylor's age and the seriousness of the injury would seem to rule out the 36-year-old superstar coming back. His right leg will be in a cast for two months and he will need 30 more days of rehabilitation before he can play. The season ends in March.

Baylor, the second oldest player in the league, tore the bottom part of the tendon in the Lakers' first game of the season at Chicago Oct. 16. He tore the top part against Phoenix in a home game Friday night.

In his only two games this season, he played 57 minutes and scored 20 points.

The No. 2 NBA all-time scorer with 23,023 points behind teammate Wilt Chamberlain starting the season, Baylor is in his 13th pro year.

Terra Linda Quintet Wins, Others Lose

Marin County Athletic League teams went one for three in preseason basketball games played over the weekend. The Terra Linda High School Trojans evened their record with a 59-32 win over Healdsburg, but Marin Catholic lost to St. Patricks of Vallejo, 63-48, and Novato bowed to Santa Rosa, 67-57.

Guard Larry Kerr pumped in 16 points to pace the Trojans, who led from start to finish, and poured it on in the final quarter with 20 points to just eight for the Greyhounds. Joe Casteel helped the Trojan cause with 10.

Marin Catholic, after winning its season opener Wednesday over Rancho Cotate, stayed close until the final four minutes against St. Pat's, but all-California Athletic League star Dan Dion, who rifled home 31 points, sparked a pull-away rally that left the Wildcats in the dust. Bill Donellan contributed 19 points to the losing effort.

The Novato Hornets absorbed their second straight loss, despite a 22-point performance by junior Marty Moroski. The Hornets held an 18-14 lead at the end of the first quarter, but Santa Rosa took command for a 36-27 halftime lead, and the game was never close again.

Joe DeMaestri backed up Moroski with 12 points.

McKay Next Ram Coach? Ridiculous, Says USC Mentor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — George Allen says he knows nothing about it and John McKay says it's "ridiculous."

What the two highly successful coaches were commenting on was a report Sunday that Allen would leave as head man of the Los Angeles Rams and that he would be replaced by McKay, the present coach at the University of Southern California, on a 10-year, one-million dollar contract.

The report was in a story by columnist Dan Hruby of the San Jose Mercury-News.

After the Rams' 30-13 victory over the San Francisco 49ers, Allen said, "I'm only concerned about my responsibilities to the players, coaches and fans; I'm not worried about my future."

Later, however, he added, "If I'm not with the Rams next year, I'll have a job four times better." That could be with either the Green Bay Packers or New Orleans Saints were rumors have him going.

Contacted in Los Angeles, McKay, whose Trojans capped a 6-4-1 season with a 38-28 upset over previously unbeaten Notre Dame Saturday, emphatically denied the story.

"I never heard of anything so ridiculous," he said. "I've never been approached with any such offer."

The Mercury-News story said the offer to McKay calls for $60,000 a year for ten years plus fringe benefits which also include a radio-television show.

At USC, McKay has professional tenure and he conducts a weekly television show during the football season.

Goalby after three rounds. But Lewis wound up at 73-287 where he tied for sixth place with Phil Rodgers and Archer was 76-290.

Goalby moved into a tie for the lead with birdies on his first two holes Sunday and grabbed the lead for good at No. 9 when he hooked his drive behind a clump of trees, "in bogey territory," played a sand shot out to 20 feet from the pin and sank the putt for the go-ahead birdie.

"But I didn't feel secure until I put birdies back-to-back at 15 and 16," Goalby said. "I know better than to try to play it safe. I can remember blowing a five-stroke lead one time."

Marin Weightlifter Wins Second Place

David Gottlieb of Marin County's Marvel Athletic Club placed second Saturday in the California State Open Weightlifting Championships.

A sophomore at San Rafael High School, the 123-pound Gottlieb earned his honors with lifts of a 130-pound press, 110-pound snatch and 170-pound clean and jerk for a 410-pound total.

INDIANS DOMINATE

Stanford Tops All-Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pacific 8 Conference champion Stanford, led by Heisman Trophy winning quarterback Jim Plunkett, placed six players on the 1970 United Press International All West Coast College Football team it was announced today.

Plunkett, who set every conference passing and total offense record as well as the national marks in both categories, received every vote except one from the panel of sports writers, broadcasters and coaches who helped UPI select the mythical team.

Besides Plunkett, Stanford placed tight end Bob Moore, offensive tackle Steve Jubb, center John Sands, flanker Randy Vataha and defensice lineman Dave Tipton on the team.

Bob Newland of Oregon, who led Pac-8 receivers with 67 catches for 1,123 yards and seven touchdowns, tackle Bob Richards of California, guards Steve Busch of Washington State and Ernie Janet of Washington and running backs Dave Schilling of Oregon State and Bobby Moore of Oregon completed the first offensive team.

The defensive 11 included besides Tipton, Charlie Weaver of USC and Terra Linda's Jim Sherbert of Oregon State at end, Tim Osterling of UCLA and Craig Hanneman of Oregon State at tackle, Sherm White of California and Dave Chaney of San Jose State at linebacker and Jim Lilly of Oregon State, Cal Jones of Washington, Ray Youngblood of California and Lionel Thomas of Washington State in the backfield.

There was some juggling of positions on the defensive team so that the best man could be fitted in. Chaney, about the only bright spot on San Jose's hard-luck team, was the lone non-Pac-8 player to make the team. Pro scouts consider him a hot prospect.

Plunkett, of course, was the glamor choice on the team and an easy winner of the Player of the Year Award as well. His statistics were staggering.

He led the Pac-8 in completions (191), yardage gained (2,715), touchdowns (18), percentage (53.4) and game average (246.8) while steering the Indians to a 6-1 record in the conference and an 8-3 mark overall, good enough to put Stanford in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day opposite Big 10 champ Ohio State for the first time in 19 years.

Washington with a nine-yard strike with 1:11 left.

While the 49ers were able to run on the Los Angeles defense in the first half, they couldn't gain anything on the ground — to speak of — in the second. Brodie had the same problem, hitting on nine of 18 passes for 108 yards in the first half and seven of 18 for 52 yards in the second.

Naturally, Rams coach George Allen, reported on his way out at Los Angeles at the end of the season, was happy with the victory.

"We won the game we had to win," he said.

Americans Claim Prizes In Sweden

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif. won the cheers Sunday but two other Americans won the big money in the $35,200 Stockholm Open Indoor Tennis Championships.

Smith, playing the best indoor tennis of his life throughout the event, overcame topseeded Arthur Ashe of Gum Springs, Va., in the final 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 after an exciting two hour duel.

But Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex. and Ashe gained more than that. Richey through his semifinal place here scored the first Grand Prix prize of 25,000 dollars and got further 2,000 dollars for his play in this tournament while Ashe could leave Sweden for Switzerland and a ski vacation with $21,000 in his pocket from Grand Prix and the Stockholm events.

Football

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Minnesota Vikings quarterback Gary Cuozzo was scheduled for X-rays today to determine the extent of the ankle injury he suffered in Sunday's 20-10 loss to the New York Jets.

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Montreal Alouettes, the undisputed champions of the Canadian Football League, returned home Sunday proudly bearing the Grey Cup as proof of their supremacy. Led by Mayor Jean Drapeau, thousands of loudly cheering Montrealers turned out to give the heroes' welcome to the team that returned the trophy to Montreal after a 21-year absence.

The Alouettes defeated the Calgary Stampeders, 23-10 Saturday in Toronto in the Grey Cup Classic.

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Dooleys had the Peach Bowl sewed up. It was just a matter of whether it went to Vince at Georgia or his younger brother Bill at North Carolina.

Georgia Tech settled that issue Saturday with a 17-7 victory over Vince's Bulldogs. In fact, Peach Bowl officials didn't even wait for that game to end before they phoned Bill and invited the Tarheels to meet Arizona State in the third annual bowl in Atlanta Dec. 30.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A gritty Tulane team will meet Colorado in the 12th annual Liberty Bowl at Memorial Stadium Dec. 12 and sponsors expect a 50,000-plus sellout.

Tulane moved quickly Saturday to accept the invitation to the post-season game extended by bowl executive director A. F. "Bud" Dudley.

Boat Racing

LAKE HAVASU, Ariz. (UPI) — Veteran speedboat driver Bill Sirois of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., captured the World Outboard championship Sunday when he staged a belated rush in the second day of competition.

The two-day event was marred by one death and seven injuries serious enough to send the victims to a hospital as wind and rain whipped the four-mile Lake Havasu course.

Auto Racing

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (UPI) — Oscar Kovaleski, the clown of the Canadian American series, captured the A-sports championship on the final day of the American Road Race of Champions Sunday after a thrilling stretch duel with defending champion Jerry Hansen.

Kovaleski, of Clark's Summit, Pa., roared ahead in his McLaren 8B on the last lap and edged across one-tenth of a second ahead of Hansen's Lola.

Bowling

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Nelson Burton Jr. of St. Louis shot his poorest six-game block Sunday night but still remained the qualifying leader going into the finals of the $50,000 Bellows-Velvair Open bowling tournament here.

Burton, 28, winner of four tournaments this year, shot a 1,331 series in the final qualifying session, an effort considerably short of his three earlier performances whidh saw him average better than 243 pins per game. Burton totals 5,909 pins after 24 games.

Baseball

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Baltimore Orioles completed the first trade of the winter baseball meetings today when they swapped veteran relief pitcher Myron "Moe" Drabowsky to the St. Louis Cardinals for 25-year-old infielder Jerry DaVanon.

General

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The 83rd convention of the National Amateur Athletic Union AAU which opens here today could turn out to be one of the most important in recent years.

According to one source, the AAU will update and "modernize" its definition of an amateur, making it permissible for athletes in some instances to receive money over and above natural expenses.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Upsetting Day For The Irish

By United Press International

The end of the college football season can be very upsetting.

It can bring tears to the eyes of the favorites' fans, second guesses from those too-hasty bowl selection committees and excuses from the coaches. Notre Dame and Army found out just how upsetting it can be last Saturday against season-ending rivals.

Southern California, finishing the season with only a 6-4-1 record and a 12-point underdog, tripped the third-ranked Irish 38-28, and Navy salvaged a dismal season with an 11-7 finale over arch-rival Army.

This week more of the same can happen when first-ranked Texas faces sixth-ranked Arkansas in a Southwest Conference showdown that means the national title and Cotton Bowl berth.

OTHER GAMES

That clash is only the featured attraction of a weekend that also has Louisiana State (No. 8) facing Mississippi (No . 10), Tennessee (No. 5) going against UCLA (No. 14) and spoiler Miami taking on Houston (No. 16), Ole Miss already got a dose of that late-season upset pill with a 19-14 loss to Mississippi State that probably will cost it a spot among the elite top ten.

In other games last weekend, Tennessee, bound for the Sugar Bowl, defeated Anderbilt 24-6; Georgia Tech, in the Sun Bowl, beat Georgia 17-7 and spoiled the Bulldogs' Peach Bowl aspirations; Oklahoma, headed for the Bluebonnet Bowl, crushed Oklahoma State 66-6; and Gator Bowl-bound Auburn defeated Alabama, a Bluebonnet Bowl team, 33-28.

HOPEFUL

Louisiana State, still an Orange Bowl hopeful if it can beat Ole Miss, defeated Tulane 26-14, but despite the defeat the Green Wave got a Liberty Bowl invitation; underdog Miami held on for a 41-13 victory that ruined Florida's Liberty Bowl hopes; Southern Methodist whipped Texas Christian 26-17; West Virginia beat Maryland 20-10; Boston College shut out winless Holy Cross 54-0; and Louisville, which will play Long Beach State in the Pasadena Bowl, beat Wichita State 34-24.

Southern Cal's upsets over Notre Dame teams sporting perfect records are becoming as traditional in late November as Thanksgiving turkey. The Trojans ruined perfect seasons for the Irish in 1938 and again in 1964. The latest upset came after nine straight victories for Notre Dame, which goes to the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day.

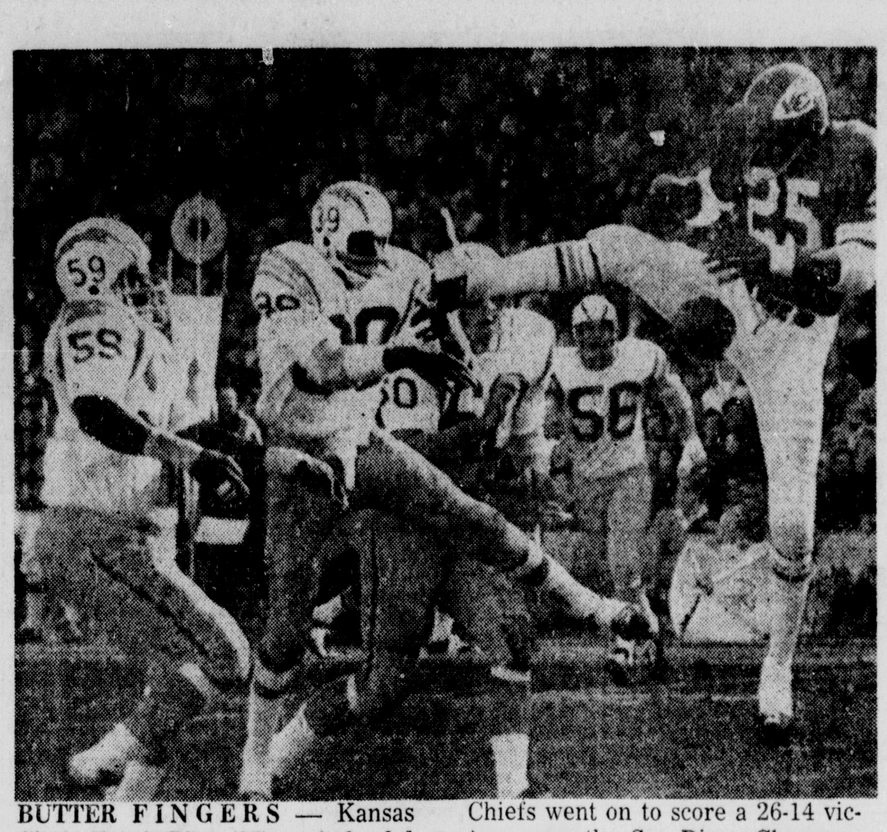
USC tackles Pete Adams and John Vella recovered end zone fumbles for touchdowns in the third period and Clarence Davis ran for two more on Saturday. After the game coach Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame admitted the two fumble recoveries meant defeat.

DIFFERENCE

"The two quick TDs that we gave USC early in the third quarter prevented us from catching up," Parseghian said. "We made more mistakes than we have in any game this season. All you have to do is look at the turnovers and it will answer a lot of questions."

However, even in defeat, Notre Dame Joe Theismann stamped himself as one of the great quarterbacks in the school's history. In a heavy downpour, he passed for 526 yards, breaking Terry Hanratty's single game school record of 366 yards set against Purdue in 1966. He scored on runs of 25 and one yard and passed for two more TDs.

Army and Navy had only two victories between them going into their annual fracas at Philadelphia, but that final game traditionally makes the season a success or failure. Army, an 11-point favorite over Navy, wound up 1-9-1, and the Middies finished 2-9.



BUTTER FINGERS — Kansas City's Frank Pitts (25) can't hold onto the ball as he tries to catch a pass from Len Dawson. It happened in first period of game at Kansas City yesterday and the hometown Chiefs went on to score a 26-14 victory over the San Diego Chargers. Jim Hall (39) broke up the play and other Chargers are Pete Barnes (59), Bob Babich (60) and Bob Bruggers (56). (UPI Telephoto)

Football Bowl Lineup Nearly Set

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Only two major bowls have not been filled, and that situation will be remedied this weekend.

The remaining berths are in the Orange Bowl at Miami and the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. The winner of Saturday's game between Texas and Arkansas will be invited to the Cotton Bowl, and Louisiana State (8-2) can earn the Orange Bowl bid with a victory over Mississippi.

The lineup for the bowl games:

Dec. 12, Liberty Bowl at Memphis, Tenn., Colorado (6-4) cs. Tulane (7-3).

Dec. 19, Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., Georgia Tech (8-3) vs. Texas Tech (8-3).

Dec. 30, Peach Bowl at Atlanta, Arizona State (9-0) vs. North Carolina (8-3).

Dec. 31, Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, Alabama (6-5) vs. Oklahoma (7-4).

Jan. 1, Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, Air Force (9-2) vs. Tennessee (9-1).

Jan. 1, Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., Stanford (8-3) vs. Ohio State (9-0).

Jan. 1, Orange Bowl at Miami, Nebraska (10-0-1). vs. team to be named.

Jan. 1, Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Notre Dame (9-1) vs. Texas (9-0) vs. Arkansas (9-1).

Jan. 2, Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., Auburn (8-2) fs. Mississippi (7-2).

Petaluma Cagers Rout Cardinal Newman '5'

By GARY LONDON

Joe Rodola exploded for 23 points in the first half Saturday, and went on to score 30 to lead the Petaluma High School Trojans in an 84-65 basketball rout over the highly touted Cards from Cardinal Newman in Santa Rosa.

"Jumpin' Joe" who was an All-NBL I forward last year, put together a 15-point second quarter to completely baffle the Newman team.

Cardinal Newman fast broke its way to an early 12-4 lead, until Trojan coach Bob Donahue called a time out to show his team how to cope with the surprising fast break. What Donahue told his team worked, and they came right back to go ahead 13-12. At the end of the first quarter the contest was tied, 21-21.

The second quarter showed Rodola and friends pick up the pace and end the half with a 50-32 lead.

In the third quarter 6-foot-6 Dave Thomas showed some shooting accuracy, scoring 12 points. Thomas ended up with a respectable 18 points for the evening.

Phil Magrini was the high man for the Cards, scoring 24 points in the losing effort.

The Newman game was supposed to be the testing ground for the Trojans, who have one of the best teams they've had in years. Next week comes another test when they meet Sonoma, another NBL powerhouse.

Exposure Charge Against Rentzel

DALLAS (UPI)—Lance Rentzel, star flanker for the Dallas Cowboys and husband of dancer-songstress Joey Heatherton, was charged Monday with indecent exposure. He was freed on $1,500 bond.

Police in suburban University Park charged Rentzel in connection with an incident involving a 10-year-old girl Nov. 19.

Rentzel had appeared at the University Park police station with an attorney Nov. 23 and was advised of his rights. There was no indication as to why charges were delayed another week.

"We recommended that bond be set," said Dallas County District Attorney Henry Wade.

Indecent exposure, a felony, is punishable by as much as 15 years in prison.

"Of course probation could be recommended," Wade said.

There was no immediate comment from Rentzel or officials of the Dallas Cowboys.

NFL ROUNDUP

Very Close Races

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The six division setup which the National Football League put into effect in this first year of the merger is working out much better than originally anticipated.

With only three weeks remaining in the regular season, there is not one divisional race which has been decided and the possibility still remains that all six races could go down to the final week before the winners are determined.

THREE HITS

Because the Los Angeles Rams, Kansas City Chiefs, Cincinnati Bengals and Pittsburgh Steelers all won Sunday, there is a tie for first place in three of the six divisions. And, in the other three divisions the most that separates the first and second place teams is a spread of two games.

In the American Football Conference, there is a three-way tie for first place between Cleveland, Cincinnati, and Pittsburgh in the Central Division and tie for first between Kansas City and Oakland in the West Division. Baltimore holds a two-game edge over Miami in the East Division, but that could be reduced to a game and a half if the Dolphins can beat the Atlanta Falcons tonight.

In the National Conference Los Angeles and San Francisco are deadlocked for first place in the West Division, St. Louis holds a game and a half edge over the New York Giants in the East Division and Minnesota leads Detroit by two games in the Central Division.

CONTRAST

This year's races offer a marked contrast to last season's NFL and AFL standings. Dallas, Cleveland, Los Angeles and Minnesota all coasted to championships in the four divisions of the NFL last season and the New York Jets won the AFL's East Division rather easily. The only close race was in the AFL's West Division where Oakland edged Kansas City by one game during the regular season, only to lose to the Chiefs in the playoffs. Kansas City, of course, went on to win the Super Bowl.

The three divisional ties came about Sunday as a result of Los Angeles avenging an earlier loss to San Francisco, 30-13; Kansas City defeating San Diego, 26-14; Pittsburgh beating Cleveland, 28-9; and Cincinnati trouncing New Orleans, 26-6.

In other games Minnesota missed a chance to clinch its division title by losing to the Jets, 20-10; the Giants edged Washington, 27-24; St. Louis topped Philadelphia, 23-14; Baltimore nipped Chicago, 21-20; Houston defeated Denver, 31-21; and Boston snapped a nine-game losing streak by topping Buffalo, 14-10.

DAWSON

Lenny Dawson connected on 17 of 24 passes for 208 yards, including a 50-yard scoring pass to Morris Stroud, and Jan Stenerud added four field goals as the Chiefs moved into a tie with Oakland with a 6-3-2 record. The Chiefs and Raiders played to a 17-17 tie earlier this year but will meet again on Dec. 12.

Terry Bradshaw threw scoring passes of 81 yards to Ron Shanklin and 57 yards to Johnny Fuqua in sparking the Steelers to a victory over the Browns.

Horst Muhlmann's four field goals and a 26-yard TD run by Paul Robinson paced the Bengals' triumph over the Saints.

George Nock gained 117 yards, including a 15-yard TD run, and the Jets intercepted four passes in snapping the Vikings' seven-game winning streak. The loss was only the Vikings' second in 11 games.

Pete Gogolak's 20-yard field goal with 1:52 remaining enabled the Giants to keep pace with the Cardinals in the NFC East. Fran Tarkenton also paced the Giants victory with a pair of touchdown passes, the 199th and 200th of his career. New York (7-4) is tied with Dallas for second in the East.

Jim Hart threw two touchdown passes and Jim Bakken kicked three field goals as the Cardinals hung on to defeat the Eagles.

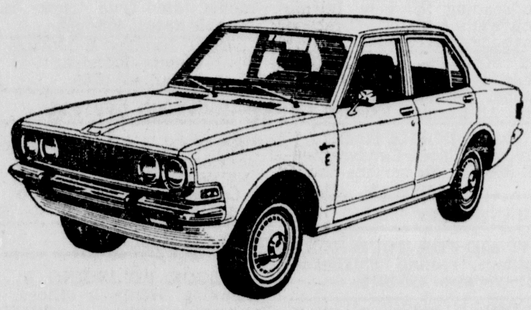
John Unitas' 54-yard TD pass to John Mackey with 3:47 remaining enabled the Colts to rally from a 17-0 deficit and edge the Bears. Unitas hit on 23 of 40 passes for 258 yards but had five passes intercepted and the Bears turned four of those into scores.

Charley Johnson's three TD passes sparked Houston's victory and the Patriots turned a fumble recovery and a pass interception into touchdowns to defeat the Bills.

Marin Hockey Club Has Perfect Weekend

Marin Amateur Ice Hockey Club teams scored three wins in three games over the weekend. The Squirts defeated Santa Rosa in Larkspur yesterday, 4-1, and the Pee Wees won twice, 6-1 over Belmont Saturday at Belmont, and 14-0 over Hayward yesterday in Larkspur. In those two games, Marin's Pat McPartlan scored a total of nine goals.

There's nothing old fashioned about the new Toyota Corona except the clock.



The new Corona four-door Sedan, $2,199.95 delivered in Marin, plus tax and lic.

In the "good old days" all fine cars came with a clock. Today the Corona comes with many such comforts. Four doors, for one, a convenience a family can't beat. Corona's advanced engineering has taken care of the rest — disc brakes, more power, four-on-the-floor or three speed automatic. Bring on the competition. We love it.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

After Age 3, Heredity Controls Growth; Clues To Size Available

Van Dellen

After the age of 3, growth is controlled by heredity. Environmental factors may play a role but are less important than they were before this time. A physician has very little to go by when assessing the growth of a child, except the size of the parents and clues obtained while the tyke matures.

Problems of these types are exemplified by the 11-year-old girl who is tall and wants to stop growing or shrink a couple of inches. Or, the plea of a short lad of 15 who wants to be taller and is becoming a nervous wreck waiting to sprout. There are ways of determining whether the youngster has reached full maturity or if further growth can be anticipated.

AN INDIVIDUAL usually does not become taller after the growth centers (epiphyses) at the ends of the long bones are fused. The adult size has been reached when all the epiphyses of the bones involved in stature cannot extend. This is easily determined by X-raying the skeleton. In addition, the films help to predict early, average or late maturation in a child.

A physical examination of the teen also offers clues. In the male, the first stage of puberty is an enlargement of the sex organs followed by the appearance of pubic hair. The last stage is the growth of the beard and hair in the armpits and on the legs.

IN THE FEMALE, the development of the nipple and breast are the first indications of puberty. This is followed by pubic and secondary sexual hair. In the healthy girl, menstruation (menarche) is a late manifestation of puberty. When this stage is reached, the adolescent growth spurt has reached its peak and from here on, begins to wane.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

PAINLESS, RED SWELLINGS

M. R. writes: What is erythema nodosum and what causes it?

REPLY

In this skin disorder, moderately tender, reddish-brown nodules develop along the long bones of the legs, theighs and forearms. The lesions are present on both sides of the body. For reasons unknown, te nodules develop in association with systemic diseases, such as tuberculosis, coccidiodomycosis, and strep infections. They also are produced as an allergic reaction to drugs.

NEEDS MORE THAN DIET

P. G. writes: Is diet of any value in pernicious anemia?

Yes, especially when the regimen contains foods rich in iron and vitamin B12, such as liver and other meats. But more than diet is needed to keep pernicious anemia under control. Injections of liver or vitamin B12 are essential. Many physicians teach the patient or a member of his family to give the bi-monthly or monthly injection of B12.

WASTING AWAY

A reader writes: If a fat person goes on a rigorous reducing diet and loses lots of weight, will she shorten her life span?

REPLY

Yes, especially if she takes her dieting so seriously it develops into anorexia nervosa, a psychiatric disorder. In addition, she will not learn the good dietary habits needed to maintain a slim figure.

PEPTIC ULCER

A. G. writes: One doctor tells me I have a gastric ulcer; another said I have a peptic ulcer. Do I have two ulcers or one ulcer with two names?

REPLY

Peptic ulcer is an all-inclusive term for stomach and duodenal ulcers.

Today's Health Hint— The youngster's bicycle should have a light on the front and a reflector on the back.

Maine Governor's Race Up In Air

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — They're still counting votes in Maine.

Only 890 votes separated victory from loss in the race between Democratic Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis and James Erwin, a Republican. Nov. 3 figures declared Curtis the winner.

Erwin picked up 70 votes in three days of recounting last week which resumed today following a Thanksgiving recess.

At least 20 other recounts were scheduled in the state, including four state Senate races and 13 House contests.

Ambassador, Wife Dead In Portugal

LISBON (UPI)—West German Ambassador Hans Schmidt Horix, 61, and his wife, Barbara, commited suicide Sunday night, the West German Embassy announced today. It did not elaborate.

The ambassador's death was caused by a self-inflicted bullet wound while his wife died of an overdose of sleeping tablets, the embassy said.

Horix had been in his present post since April 23, 1969.

The couple leave two sons and a daughter between the ages of 22 and 32. One son is studying at a university in France. The other two children are in Germany.

Visit To Leningrad

NEW YORK (UPI) — Trial lawyer F. Lee Bailey has requested Soviet permission to visit Leningrad in December to observe the court proceedings of 31 Soviet Jews charged with plotting to hijack a plane last June, a Jewish leader announced Sunday.

TEACHER OF WEEK

'New Math' Is Old To Joyce Palmer

The "new math" is the old math to Joyce Palmer.

Mrs. Palmer, who teaches mathematics at Novato High School, sees little difference between today's "new math" and that she learned and taught before the "new math" was introduced with much fanfare around 1960.

"'New math' is sort of a catchy name, really," she said today. "Good mathematics teachers always tries to teach understanding rather than just processes, and that is the basis of the "new math."

Mrs. Palmer took her A.B. degree from Oberlin College in Oberlin, Ohio. She taught in high schools in Michigan and Ohio before moving to California then became a teacher at Palo Alto High School. She interrupted her career for eight years to start rearing a family, then returned to the classroom when Novato High opened in 1954. She has been there ever since.

In the meantime, she took many graduate courses, mostly at Dominican College of San Rafael.

Her teaching has been "mostly math," she said, although during the first year of Novato High she also taught a homemaking class. "Bob McKeay (the principal) told me, 'it's either you or me, "and I thought I could do a bit better with home-making than he could," she laughed.

She also is adviser to the Novato High chapter of the California Scholarship Federation, and to the Mathletes, who conduct mathematics contests in Marin Schools. And she is a scorer at school track meets — the last job coming her way, she said, because her husband, Novato City Atty. Clark M. Palmer, is a "track nut" and official timer at the meets.

The family she took time off to rear consists of two sons, one of whom is now a Navy ensign and the other a freshman at Stanford University.

Police Services Area Will Be Discussed

Proposals to set up both a county police services area and a county fire protection district in the unincorporated areas of Marin will come up for discussion tomorrow before the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The county administrator will ask that a date be set for a public hearing on the proposed formation of a police services area. The suggested hearing date is Jan. 26.

On the proposed formation of a county fire protection district a public hearing is set for 1:45 p.m. tomorrow.

Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows said that in each case, the intent is to have zones set up within the county fire district or the police services area so that only those communities which want more services than they are now getting will pay higher taxes for those added services.

Other items on the agenda will include:

YOUTH COMMISSION — Appointment to fill a vacancy on the Marin County Youth Commission. The vacancy exists in the third supervisorial district, South Marin.

PROMOTION — A special promotion for Sheriff's Inspector Ronald Retana, from his present salary of $984 per month to $1084 per month.

PAY DISPUTE — An appeal by Audrey (Rey) Collins, draftsman in the county planning department, who seeks $903 in pay differential for work from July of 1969 through August of 1970, during which she worked as draftsman 1 when county supervisors had authorized a promotion to draftsman 2. On Oct. 31, the Marin County Personnel Commission denied the pay differential.

PROPERTY SWAP — An exchange of property between the county and Robert G. Mariani, who is forced to give up his home at 836 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, for street widening. The county plans to swap another property it owns at 814 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and pay Mariani a difference of $7,000.

SUBDIVISION — Pulbic hearing on Oliver Mauch's tentative map for an eight-unit subdivision on two acres of land at the entrance to Wild Horse Valley in West Novato.

LEGISLATIVE — New bills proposed in the county's legislative program for 1971.

SEPTIC TANKS — A hearing on amendments to the county septic tank ordinance to tighten regulations on the design and operation of septic tanks and leaching fields.

ENGLISH PUB — A hearing on Charles R. Felix's request for resort-commercial zoning of his 25,000-square-foot lot at the entrance to Muir Beach so that he can build an English pub and inn.

Lost Man Hours In Record Month Climb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department says idleness from strikes during October hit 0.64 per cent of the nation's total estimated work time—the third highest monthly percentage since World War II.

It said the strikes, including the lengthy General Motors walkout, cost 10 million man days of potential work during the month. For the first 10 months of this year, strike idleness was estimated at 51.6 million man days—49 per cent higher than for the same period one year ago.

Burglars Hit Two Businesses

Burglars hit two businesses and a school yesterday in East Corte Madera escaping with about $260 incash and equipment.

Police said today they were investigating a reported burglary at 9 p.m. at the Paradise Hardware, 5603 Paradise Drive, when they discovered another burglary at the Paradise Cleaners, 5593 Paradise Drive.

They said nothing was removed from the hardware store but about $62 in cash and tools were taken from the cleaners.

Principal Edward Mosconi of Granada Community School said today his school was hit between 6 p.m. yesterday and 7 a.m. today. He said a preliminary inventory of school equipment showed about $200 in audio-visual equipment missing.

Import Record

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Imports to the United States hit a one-month record of $3.53 billion in October but the value of exports was $178.9 million higher, the Commerce Department reported today.

Tot Lot Plan Bill Before Hub Board

San Anselmo School District trustees will try to iron out confusion over a bill for plans for the Wade Thomas School tot lot, at their meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the multiuse room of Isabel Cook School.

Supt. Kenneth W. Lowry said plans for the tot lot were discussed at a joint meeting of the trustees with the San Anselmo City Council. He reported landscape architect Henry Cole has submitted plans for a $23,000 development at the playground. However, "there is some lack of clarity at this point what were the district's intentions in continuing the development of . . . the tot lot, and . . . to what degree was Cole authorized to perform the work."

Lowry has recommended that if the board finds Cole performed the work in good faith the district pay his bill for $1,000 out of district capital outlay funds.

The trustaes also are to consider signing an agreement with the city for joint recreation outlay, discuss appointing a parliamentarian to help speed up board meetings, decide whether to offer an after-school drama class at a cost of $1,000, and consider changes in board minutes, agenda and meeting procedures.

Youths Hurt In Crash On Span

Two Marin County teen-agers have been slightly injured in a two-car collision on the Golden Gate Bridge.

James H. Smith, 18, of 49 Belle Avenue, San Anselmo, and Pat Salin, 16, of 15 Ross Avenue, San Rafael, sustained minor cuts when the car in which they were riding collided with a car driven by Stanley Goldstein, 34, of 1 Marinda Court, Fairfax.

The California Highway Patrol said Smith's car was southbound and apparently veered into a northbound lane, causing the accident about 8:20 p.m. Friday.

Students To Discuss A Bill Of Rights

A student bill of rights, drafted by the student advisory committee of Tamalpais High School, will be discussed by the Marin County Youth Commission tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Coral Room at Marin General Hospital.

Richard V. Godino, assistant county counsel, has been invited to explain the legalities of the student bill of rights.

Among rights sought by students are a public hearing or appeal before any disciplinary action is taken against a student; no search of student lockers or automobiles without written consent, unless the immediate physical safety of persons is endangered; no censorship of student publications, the right to organize student government in any manner, provided it complies with the will of the student majority; the right to have presented to them in a concise manner the school regulations with which they are expected to comply; and the right to have presented to them in a concise manner the rights they hold and with which the school is required to comply.

The youth commissioners will also elect permanent officers for next year. Acting chairman Paul Cohen and other officers have been serving on a temporary basis since last September because of several vacancies created by youths leaving for college.

Students Back Withdraw Plan

Students at San Rafael High School have approved by nearly 4-to-1 vote a student policy statement urging the total withdrawal of troops in Southeast Asia by June.

The statement, which will be sent to President Richard M. Nixon and congressmen, along with the vote totals, maintains the war is "immoral and unjustified."

The measure was approved 290 to 73, according to Kerry Easom, director of elections.

New Director For Foreign Investment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Donald P. Katz has been named director of the Office of Foreign Direct Investments in the Commerce Department. Katz, 34, was deputy director of the office.

He replaces Richard P. Urfer, appointed a special consultant to Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans.

Bay Model To Be Open Two Days

The Army Corps of Engineers's hydraulic model of the San Francisco Bay and Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta tidal actions will be open Saturday and Dec. 12 in Sausalito, the Army has announced.

Located at 2100 Bridgeway, the model will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

At a speed 100 times faster than the natural cycle, 118,000 gallons of water are pumped through the model to show tide actions and currents.

Radiation Device Demonstration

Marin Squadron 4, Civil Air Patrol, will conduct a demonstration of radiation detection devices at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Conditioning Center, Building 119, Hamilton Air Force Base.

John H. Kearns, radiological and intelligence officer, planning and operations division, state disaster office, will present the demonstration.

Representatives of police and fire departments and civil defense groups have been invited, reported Lt. Col. Francis E. Torr, squadron commander.

The Sylvania Plus 3 feature pack for the merriest Christmas ever.

1 New Dimensional Color — a sharper way of looking at things. Sylvania New Dimensional Color offers you the biggest color screen available. 315 square inches (25" diag. meas.) of viewing area. And it combines brightness and contrast to give you the sharpest big screen picture in the business.

2 Instant Push-button Tuning — gives a perfect color picture . . . instantly! Now you can select and automatically tune any one of 11 channels! Switch from channel 2 to 83 at electronic speeds. VHF and UHF stations can be pre-tuned interchangeably. Sylvania Instant Push-button Tuning is the most convenient tuning ever designed.

3 100% solid state Gibraltar 100™ chassis — the ultimate in reliability. Now available . . . the color television chassis designed to be the most reliable and best performing ever engineered. All tubes have been eliminated. And so has a lot of heat and wasted power. The all-new Sylvania high voltage tripler allows the use of solid state deflection circuits with long life benefits.

Meditereanean styled color TV/stereo entertainment center model CL479P with the Sylvania Plus Three Feature Pack. Also includes solid state AM/FM plus FM stereo radio and automatic stereo record player.

Classic styled console color television model CL883 with the Sylvania Plus Three Feature Pack.
